$6,000 FIRE RIDES COLD WAVE

THREE HOUSES DAMAGED IN CITY AS 55 PERSONS DIE IN EAST AND WEST

Gasoline Used to Clean Chimney of Stove Causes Serious Blaze in Double Brick Dwelling in Second Street, While Fire Also Visits Homes of Mrs. Florence Smith and Dr. J. W. Chetwynd.

TRAINS RUN BEHIND SCHEDULE; TELEPHONE-TELEGRAPH SERVICE HIT

Unseasonable Chilliness Shifts Toward Southwest and South, Leaving Mark of its Keenness in Somewhat Abated Suffering in New York—Temperature is Rising in Chicago.

Three East Liverpool fires, causing approximately $6,000 damage, rode the cold wave which was ushered in over the week-end, and which exacted a toll of 55 lives, two of them Ohioans, throughout the country.

A double brick dwelling, in East Second street, owned by Jacob Shenkel and occupied by the Carl Keenan and Mrs. Sadie Tice families, was practically destroyed about 10 o'clock Sunday morning. The apartment of Mrs. Florence Smith, West Sixth street, was damaged a few hours earlier by fire which originated from a defective flue, while an overheated flue was responsible for a blaze at the home of Dr. J. W. Chetwynd, West Sixth street, late Saturday night.

The Second street blaze started when Keenan, occupying the east side of the double house, poured gasoline into a coal heating stove in an effort to clean the chimney. The gasoline exploded from hot coals, and soon the building was afire.

Members of the Tice family, in the adjoining section of the house, discovered the fire. Donald Tice, one of the family, quickly aroused the two children of Mrs. Edna Tice Fox—Richard, 5, and Billy, 3, asleep in an up-stairs bedroom and carried them across the street to the Milliron garage. He then returned to the house and secured their clothes. Other members of the family also escaped from the burning building.

Two Other Fires.

The entire structure was ablaze when the firemen arrived. Three lines of hose soon brought the fire under control, but not until the interior had been ruined. The home owned by James Horton, adjoining the structure, was also damaged.

No fire insurance was carried either by the Keenan or Tice families, who estimate their losses in furnishings at $2,000. The loss on the house was covered by insurance, it being estimated about $3,500.

The fire at the apartment of Mrs. Smith was discovered in the hallway entrance to the kitchen by John Brown, 14, foster son of Mrs. Smith. The blaze spread to the walls and was gaining a headway when the firemen arrived. An effort was made to extinguish the blaze with chemicals, but realizing this was useless, firemen brought a stream of hose into action. The kitchen of a restaurant occupying the first floor of the building was slightly damaged by water. Mrs. Smith estimates her loss at about $200, on which there is no insurance. The building is owned by E. K. Bennett.

Flueless Heaters Asphyxiate Three In Capital City

COLUMBUS, Dec. 22. — Three deaths here over the week-end were attributed today by Coroner Murphy to asphyxiation, due to carbon monoxide fumes given off by flueless gas heaters. The lifeless bodies of Joe Wintrell, 24, and Mrs. Hazel Jones, 23, were found in a room at a West Price avenue rooming house. Ina Morris, 25, colored, was asphyxiated in her bed room at a Bailey residence where she was employed as a domestic.

The coroner declared that, in each instance, the stove "is scientifically safe, but actually deadly—another case of science versus reality."

YULETIDE SNOW IS PREDICTED

Weatherman Promises White Christmas in Ohio.

COLUMBUS, Dec. 22.—A white Christmas.

This widespread hope appeared today likely to be realized in Ohio. United States weatherman Alexander predicted light snow with slowly rising temperature tonight and Tuesday, with colder weather Tuesday night or Wednesday. The snow flurries which visited Columbus and other sections of the state, Alexander said, were the forerunner for a number of similar visitations between now and Christmas day with weather likely to permit mother earth to retain her mantle or white over Christmas.

STATE EXAMINER ENDS WORK HERE

State Examiner George Dustman Saturday completed his inspection of the various municipal departments from the mayor's office down.

Dustman began his work here October 1 and was engaged 62 working days. He began with the auditor's office and completed with the water works.

AIR MAIL PILOT DIES IN STORM

KANEVILLE, Ill., Dec. 22.—Lying beside the wrecked plane in which he had attempted to battle his way westward through the blinding snow, the body of Charles Gilbert, air mail pilot, was found in a corn field here today—the toll of air mail service to the storm.

Clinging to the body was Gilbert's parachute, indicating, air mail men said, that Gilbert had attempted to leap clear of the falling plane and that the parachute had failed to open.

LONDON URGES "HANDS OFF" IN ALBANIAN WAR

British Note Sent to Nations Bordering Zone of Strife.

SERBS ACCUSED

League of Nations Asked to Act; Rebels Repulsed.

LONDON, Dec. 22.—The British foreign office dispatched a note today to the nations bordering on Albania. The note urged that these powers maintain neutrality toward Albania's international trouble.

The foreign office denied that British warships had been sent to Albania.

GENEVA, Dec. 22.—The Albanian representative today handed a note to the League of Nations, alleging there was evidence that the Serbian's were supporting the Albania uprising.

Capture Serbian Soldiers.

The Albanian troops, according to the note, have captured three Serbian soldiers among the rebels and also have discovered rebels with Serbian arms.

BELGRADE, Dec. 22.—The upheaval in Albania was pictured in dispatches received here today as becoming loss of a one-sided affair favoring the rebels.

The insurrectionists, said these advices, have lost Kroya, which is to the rear of their forces advancing on the Albanian capital, Tirana. The rebels are striving to recover Kroya.

Fighting continues in the Mati district under the leadership of the former premier, Zogu Bey. His regulars were reported to have recapturned Trum Chaflieu, taking prisoners.

Army Dinner Fund Totals $1,822; Need Additional $1,200

Nearly $1,200 must be raised within the next three days if the Salvation Army is to reach the $3,000 which will be required to conduct their Christmas and winter relief activities.

The fund today totaled $1,822.54, which included Saturday's collections of $238.40. The street kettles on Saturday netted $118.77, while checks, which came in through the mails, brought in $98.50. Among the checks was one for $50 from members of the Kiwanis club. A committee, canvassing the potteries, reported donations amounting to $21.13.

The kettles will be on the streets, today, Tuesday and Wednesday.

TRACK WALKER IS KILLED BY FAST TRAIN NEAR LEETONIA

BACK IS BROKEN

Body is Found by Crew of Freight Train.

Frank Morrow, aged about 50, Pennsylvania railroad track walker of Leetonia, was instantly killed when struck, it is believed, by a west bound Fort Wayne division passenger train, near the outskirts of town, Saturday.

Morrow's body was found by the crew of an eastbound freight train, near the westbound tracks, about 200 yards west of the Mill street crossing. The belief was expressed that Morrow's back was broken and his body hurled from the tracks without attracting the attention of the engineer on the flyer. His watch had stopped at 10:07 o'clock which is the time the train passes through Leetonia.

The body was taken to the Crowell & Woods morgue. The deceased, who resided in Washington street, Leetonia, leaves a wife and six children.

Funeral services will be conducted in the St. Patrick's Catholic church, Leetonia, at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning, Rev. Richard Gibbons officiating. Interment will be made in St. Patrick's cemetery.

40 Children Will Be Rotary Guests At Tuesday Meet

About 40 crippled children of the district will be guests of the Rotary club at a special party, which will be held in the gymnasium of the Y. M. C. A. at noon tomorrow. Wives of Rotarians will attend.

Each child attending the party will be the recipient of an attractive present. There will be candies, nuts and everything else which goes to make the entertainment complete. E. G. Sturgis will be chairman of the meeting, while the program will be arranged by Blaine Cochran.

More than 100 reservations have been received by Secretary H. B. Barth.

E. L. Green Store, Oakland, is Looted; Candy, Cigars Taken

The E. L. Green grocery, Pennsylvania avenue, Oakland, was robbed Sunday night, police were advised this morning.

A large sack of English walnuts, four woolen blankets, four buckets of candy, a box of cigars and other merchandise were taken. Entrance was made through a cellar window and thence into the store by means of an inside door.

The robbery was reported to Patrolman Norman McFarland.

SANTA CLAUS PAYS OFF $550 MORTGAGE ON HOME OF WELLING-LEMLEY KIN

Balance of Fund for Widows and Children Will be Expended to Meet Taxes on Globe Street Dwelling.

CHRISTMAS TREE FOR CHILDREN

Review-Tribune Campaign to Aid Mother, Grandmother and Fatherless Children Passes Goal.

"Just tell the good people of East Liverpool we thank them from the bottom of our hearts for this Christmas gift."

Wiping a tear from her eye, this message was sent back yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Matilda Welling, her four fatherless children and her mother, Mrs. Henrietta Lemley, as a representative of The Review-Tribune handed her a cancelled mortgage for $550.11 on their humble home at 1731 Globe street—a Yuletide gift from the general public.

"We know there is a Santa Claus now," said Mrs. Welling, as a smile crept across her face. "Two weeks ago our outlook for Christmas was anything but cheerful, but now—we have a real cause for rejoicing."

$66.39 for Taxes.

The fund which The Review-Tribune started about 10 days ago after the attention of the newspaper had been called to the plight of the family, passed the $600 mark Saturday afternoon. A mortgage held by a local loan company for $550.11 was immediately paid off, leaving a balance of $66.39 in the fund. The balance is being retained by the Welling Fund Editor as trustee for the fund, with which to pay the year's taxes, which have not yet been certified to the county treasurer. Whatever remains in the fund after the taxes are paid will be turned over to the family.

The Welling family—the mother and four children—Melvin, 12; Mildred 10; Merle, 6, and Robert, 3, with Mrs. Lemley, in whose name the property is recorded, had just finished their Sunday dinner when the newspaper representative visited their home.

Mother is Thankful

"We are so happy that we hardly know what to say," said Mrs. Welling and her mother. "We certainly appreciate this gift and want you to say so to the people who gave it and also thank your paper for interceding in our behalf."

Homeless Take Over Structure Under "Mr. Zero's" Leadership.

ADOPT OWN RULES

No Drunks, No Smoking and They Clean up, Too.

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—"Mr. Zero" and the 200 ragged and hungry men who "took charge" of the abandoned Camp Memorial Congregational church because they were homeless, freezing and in need of a place to "flop," won a big victory this afternoon. Walter H. Rollins, superintendent of the Congergational conference, and Maurice Trisch of Buffalo, its president, told "Mr. Zero" that since the Lord could not use the church because the congregation had dwindled the "bums" could flop there until further notice.

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—A score of the homeless and jobless—the men from whom age has drained the courage to face winter in the search for work—remained on watch this morning at the Camp Congregational church.

The rest of the force of 200 which peacefully took over the church for shelter last night under the leadership of Urbain J. Ledoux—self-styled "Mr. Zero"—were at his place in St. Mark's street—"The Hub"—getting all they could eat for a nickel each before going out after jobs. They will return at 7 o'clock tonight and confidently expect the hospitable church doors will be opened to them again.

The platoon of older men remaining at the church until 11 o'clock, the hour named by the trustees, were under the Lieutenancy of Bill Warren, long, gaunt, sandy, mustached veteran, who acted as their spokesman.

EVERETT HALL, 36, OF CANTON, IS DEAD FROM BROKEN BACK

Former East Liverpool Man Succumbs in Alliance Hospital.

CAR OVERTURNED

Body is Brought to Home of Parents for Burial.

Everett Hall, 36, Canton newspaper worker, and a former resident here, died in the Alliance City hospital at 3:15 o'clock Sunday morning, as a result of a broken back sustained Sunday, November 23, when an automobile in which he and two companions were riding, skidded and overturned on the Alliance-Minerva road, near New Franklin, seven miles south of Alliance.

Co-Worker Also Injured.

Hall, for four weeks, occupied a bed in the hospital, the entire lower part of his body being paralyzed. His condition for a while was improved, although physicians entertain no hopes for his recovery. His condition took a turn for the worse after midnight Saturday. His brother, Edward, who has been in Alliance for the last two weeks, was at his bedside when death came.

Hall, who has been assistant circulation manager of the Canton Repository, and two other newspaper workers, H. C. Windle, a bookkeeper, and Fred Fox, an office clerk, were delivering the Sunday morning edition to Minerva, Alliance and other nearby towns, when the fatal accident occurred.

The car, driven by Hall, was traveling at a high rate of speed, it is said, when it skidded on the slippery highway, leaping an embankment and overturned several times before com-

BOYS ARE HELD FOR HOLD-UPS

Five Youths Caught in Akron as One Drives Stolen Car.

AKRON, Dec. 22—With the arrest of Jerry Orlando, of 515 Fifth street Homestead, Pa., and Ralph Hansen of this city, and three local school pupils, all about 17 years of age, police here believe they have the perpetrators of numerous holdups, store robberies and other attempted crimes recently. Orlando was on his way to Pittsburgh in a stolen automobile, which was recognized and his arrest followed. His story brought about the jailing of his alleged companions.

Orlando and Hansen are said to have been friends at Mansfield reformatory, and the latter described himself to the other three would-be desperadoes as a gunman, yegg and generally all-round bard customer. This fired their imagination and the five got together for the robbery of an Acme store and gas stations. They broke into the North Hill High school for tools with which to crack a safe and incidentially broke into the superintendent's office and took from a cabinet safe four $100 liberty bonds, cash and jewelry, owned by Supt. Hugh R. Smith. They then separated with the divided spoils.

In other confessions, the youths admitted the theft of 11 automobiles recently, and futile attempt to rob stores and gas stations. The quintet will be tried in juvenile court.

COUNTRY IS READY TO SHAKE OFF ITS DEPRESSION AND ENTER PROSPEROUS ERA AS 1924 NEARS END

BY W. S. COUSINS,
(I. N. S. Financial Editor.)

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—The year 1924 will be remembered principally because of its contributions to industrial and political factors making for stability and world-wide prosperity in the future.

It was not a profitable year for many of the major industries of America, including the steel, copper and oil industries. It witnessed a violent reaction in industrial production and distribution in the early months, and displayed to a larger degree the habit of hand to mouth buying which was such a handicap to business in the preceding year.

The year was attended with most of the uncertainties in business which accompany a presidential contest. Complications in the political situation were enhanced by the formation of a third party and the nation-wide discussions of the possibility of an election "thrown into the house," as a consequence of the failure of any presidential candidate to secure a majority vote.

Production Falls Off.

Considerable uneasiness existed in foreign financial circles in the early part of the year because of the apparent inability of French and German political powers to agree on methods of making reparations payments and conditions were muddled until the Dawes plan was put into operation.

Taking the condition of the steel industry as a general business condition, the production had been down to 40 per cent of normal, with orders at the lowest since 1920. Signs of depression had made themselves felt in many other industries, dividends were reduced or passed and unemployment increased in important industrial centers.

If the upward swing of prices in the stock market is any criterion, the country is about to shake off its depression and enter into more active and prosperous era, benefiting by the constructive developments of recent months, including the revival of prosperity in the great agriculture districts; the induction of an administration at Washington favorable to business expansion, the pacification of Europe and the forward march of industrial progress in many of the important countries, and, finally, the surfeiting of American money markets with gold, investment funds and credit.

Other Favorable Signs.

This at least is the testimony of American leaders of finance and industry and has been summarized by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon in his annual report.

There lie before us today years of prosperous and healthy conditions. Bank deposits have increased six to eight billion dollars from the low point of 1921, or over 20 percent. At the same time, reserves are unusually high, frozen loans have been liquidated. Traffic handled by the railroads continues at almost record levels, and many roads are reutrning to a dividend paying basis after years of financial struggles. The building and automotive industries are prosperous and in turn are big factors in maintaining the country's general prosperity. The maladjustment between agriculture and other industries has been removed, and the farmer is rapidly being restored to his proper status in the economic system."

Outlook for Steel Promising.

The U. S. Steel Corporation closes the year working at 83 per cent of capacity, or about double that of

THREE HOUSES DAMAGED IN CITY AS 55 PERSONS DIE IN EAST AND WEST

Gasoline Used to Clean Chimney of Stove Causes Serious Blaze in Double Brick Dwelling in Second Street, While Fire Also Visits Homes of Mrs. Florence Smith and Dr. J. W. Chetwynd.

TRAINS RUN BEHIND SCHEDULE; TELEPHONE-TELEGRAPH SERVICE HIT

Unseasonable Chilliness Shifts Toward Southwest and South, Leaving Mark of its Keenness in Somewhat Abated Suffering in New York—Temperature is Rising in Chicago.

Three East Liverpool fires, causing approximately $6,000 damage, rode the cold wave which was ushered in over the week-end, and which exacted a toll of 55 lives, two of them Ohioans, throughout the country.

A double brick dwelling, in East Second street, owned by Jacob Shenkel and occupied by the Carl Keenan and Mrs. Sadie Tice families, was practically destroyed about 10 o'clock Sunday morning. The apartment of Mrs. Florence Smith, West Sixth street, was damaged a few hours earlier by fire which originated from a defective flue, while an overheated flue was responsible for a blaze at the home of Dr. J. The Second street blaze started when Keenan, occupying the east side of the double house, poured gasoline into a coal heating stove in an effort to clean the chimney. The gasoline exploded from hot coals, and soon the building was afire.

The entire structure was ablaze when the firemen arrived. Three lines of hose soon brought the fire under control, but not until the interior had been ruined. The home owned by James Horton, adjoining the structure, was also damaged.

No fire insurance was carried either by the Keenan or Tice families, who estimate their losses in furnishings at $2,000. The loss on the house was covered by insurance, it being estimated about $3,500.

The fire at the apartment of Mrs. Smith was discovered in the hallway entrance to the kitchen by John Brown, 14, foster son of Mrs. Smith. The blaze spread to the walls and was gaining a headway when the firemen arrived. An effort was made to extinguish the blaze with chemicals, but realizing this was useless, firemen brought a stream of hose into action. The kitchen of a restaurant occupying the first floor of the building was slightly damaged by water. Mrs. Smith estimates her loss at about $200, on which there is no insurance. The building is owned by E. K. Bennett.

TRACK WALKER IS KILLED BY FAST TRAIN NEAR LEETONIA

BACK IS BROKEN

Body is Found by Crew of Freight Train.

Frank Morrow, aged about 50, Pennsylvania railroad track walker of Leetonia, was instantly killed when struck, it is believed, by a west bound Fort Wayne division passenger train, near the outskirts of town, Saturday.

Morrow's body was found by the crew of an eastbound freight train, near the westbound tracks, about 200 yards west of the Mill street crossing. The belief was expressed that Morrow's back was broken and his body hurled from the tracks without attracting the attention of the engineer on the flyer. His watch had stopped at 10:07 o'clock which is the time the train passes through Leetonia.

The body was taken to the Crowell & Woods morgue. The deceased, who resided in Washington street, Leetonia, leaves a wife and six children.

Funeral services will be conducted in the St. Patrick's Catholic church, Leetonia, at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning, Rev. Richard Gibbons officiating. Interment will be made in St. Patrick's cemetery.

SANTA CLAUS PAYS OFF $550 MORTGAGE ON HOME OF WELLING-LEMLEY KIN

Balance of Fund for Widows and Children Will be Expended to Meet Taxes on Globe Street Dwelling.

CHRISTMAS TREE FOR CHILDREN

"Just tell the good people of East Liverpool we thank them from the bottom of our hearts for this Christmas gift."

Wiping a tear from her eye, this message was sent back yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Matilda Welling, her four fatherless children and her mother, Mrs. Henrietta Lemley, as a representative of The Review-Tribune handed her a cancelled mortgage for $550.11 on their humble home at 1731 Globe street—a Yuletide gift from the general public.

"We know there is a Santa Claus now," said Mrs. Welling, as a smile crept across her face. "Two weeks ago our outlook for Christmas was anything but cheerful, but now—we have a real cause for rejoicing."

$66.39 for Taxes.

The fund which The Review-Tribune started about 10 days ago after the attention of the newspaper had been called to the plight of the family, passed the $600 mark Saturday afternoon. A mortgage held by a local loan company for $550.11 was immediately paid off, leaving a balance of $66.39 in the fund. The balance is being retained by the Welling Fund Editor as trustee for the fund, with which to pay the year's taxes, which have not yet been certified to the county treasurer. Whatever remains in the fund after the taxes are paid will be turned over to the family.

The Welling family—the mother and four children—Melvin, 12; Mildred 10; Merle, 6, and Robert, 3, with Mrs. Lemley, in whose name the property is recorded, had just finished their Sunday dinner when the newspaper representative visited their home.

Charles J. Steenson, 64 years old, died Saturday in the family home, 610 Dresden avenue, following a brief illness of pneumonia.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Elizabeth Steenson, and the following children: Charles, Sebring; Rose, Ellen, Elizabeth, Catherine and Mrs. John Ward, all of East Liverpool.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock in St. Aloysius church, Rev. J. W. Fowler, officiating. Burial will be made in St. Aloysius cemetery.

Friends may view the body tonight from 7 to 10 o'clock.

Britain Sends Two Destroyers, 300 Men to Tangiers

LONDON, Dec. 22—Great Britain has sent two destroyers with 300 men to Tangier, according to a Central News dispatch today. This action was taken on a report that the Anjera tribesmen were preparing to attack Tangiers.

An Italian warship also was enroute to Tangiers, the dispatch added.

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—"Mr. Zero" and the 200 ragged and hungry men who "took charge" of the abandoned Camp Memorial Congregational church because they were homeless, freezing and in need of a place to "flop," won a big victory this afternoon. Walter H. Rollins, superintendent of the Congergational conference, and Maurice Trisch of Buffalo, its president, told "Mr. Zero" that since the Lord could not use the church because the congregation had dwindled the "bums" could flop there until further notice.

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—A score of the homeless and jobless—the men from whom age has drained the courage to face winter in the search for work—remained on watch this morning at the Camp Congregational church.

The rest of the force of 200 which peacefully took over the church for shelter last night under the leadership of Urbain J. Ledoux—self-styled "Mr. Zero"—were at his place in St. Mark's street—"The Hub"—getting all they could eat for a nickel each before going out after jobs. They will return at 7 o'clock tonight and confidently expect the hospitable church doors will be opened to them again.

The platoon of older men remaining at the church until 11 o'clock, the hour named by the trustees, were under the Lieutenancy of Bill Warren, long, gaunt, sandy, mustached veteran, who acted as their spokesman.

EVERETT HALL, 36, OF CANTON, IS DEAD FROM BROKEN BACK

Former East Liverpool Man Succumbs in Alliance Hospital.

CAR OVERTURNED

Body is Brought to Home of Parents for Burial.

Everett Hall, 36, Canton newspaper worker, and a former resident here, died in the Alliance City hospital at 3:15 o'clock Sunday morning, as a result of a broken back sustained Sunday, November 23, when an automobile in which he and two companions were riding, skidded and overturned on the Alliance-Minerva road, near New Franklin, seven miles south of Alliance.

Co-Worker Also Injured.

Hall, for four weeks, occupied a bed in the hospital, the entire lower part of his body being paralyzed. His condition for a while was improved, although physicians entertain no hopes for his recovery. His condition took a turn for the worse after midnight Saturday. His brother, Edward, who has been in Alliance for the last two weeks, was at his bedside when death came.

Hall, who has been assistant circulation manager of the Canton Repository, and two other newspaper workers, H. C. Windle, a bookkeeper, and Fred Fox, an office clerk, were delivering the Sunday morning edition to Minerva, Alliance and other nearby towns, when the fatal accident occurred.

The car, driven by Hall, was traveling at a high rate of speed, it is said, when it skidded on the slippery highway, leaping an embankment and overturned several times before com-

Five Youths Caught in Akron as One Drives Stolen Car.

AKRON, Dec. 22—With the arrest of Jerry Orlando, of 515 Fifth street Homestead, Pa., and Ralph Hansen of this city, and three local school pupils, all about 17 years of age, police here believe they have the perpetrators of numerous holdups, store robberies and other attempted crimes recently. Orlando was on his way to Pittsburgh in a stolen automobile, which was recognized and his arrest followed. His story brought about the jailing of his alleged companions.

Orlando and Hansen are said to have been friends at Mansfield reformatory, and the latter described himself to the other three would-be desperadoes as a gunman, yegg and generally all-round hard customer. This fired their imagination and the five got together for the robbery of an Acme store and gas stations. They broke into the North Hill High school for tools with which to crack a safe and incidentially broke into the superintendent's office and took from a cabinet safe four $100 liberty bonds, cash and jewelry, owned by Supt. Hugh R. Smith. They then separated with the divided spoils.

In other confessions, the youths admitted the theft of 11 automobiles recently, and futile attempt to rob stores and gas stations. The quintet will be tried in juvenile court.

COUNTRY IS READY TO SHAKE OFF ITS DEPRESSION AND ENTER PROSPEROUS ERA AS 1924 NEARS END

BY W. S. COUSINS,
(I. N. S. Financial Editor.)

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—The year 1924 will be remembered principally because of its contributions to industrial and political factors making for stability and world-wide prosperity in the future.

It was not a profitable year for many of the major industries of America, including the steel, copper and oil industries. It witnessed a violent reaction in industrial production and distribution in the early months, and displayed to a larger degree the habit of hand to mouth buying which was such a handicap to business in the preceding year.

The year was attended with most of the uncertainties in business which accompany a presidential contest. Complications in the political situation were enhanced by the formation of a third party and the nation-wide discussions of the possibility of an election "thrown into the house," as a consequence of the failure of any presidential candidate to secure a majority vote.

Production Falls Off.

Considerable uneasiness existed in foreign financial circles in the early part of the year because of the apparent inability of French and German political powers to agree on methods of making reparations payments and conditions were muddled until the Dawes plan was put into operation.

Taking the condition of the steel industry as a general business condition, the production had been down to 40 per cent of normal, with orders at the lowest since 1920. Signs of depression had made themselves felt in many other industries, dividends were reduced or passed and unemployment increased in important industrial centers.

If the upward swing of prices in the stock market is any criterion, the country is about to shake off its depression and enter into more active and prosperous era, benefiting by the constructive developments of recent months, including the revival of prosperity in the great agriculture districts; the induction of an administration at Washington favorable to business expansion, the pacification of Europe and the forward march of industrial progress in many of the important countries, and, finally, the surfeiting of American money markets with gold, investment funds and credit.

Other Favorable Signs.

This at least is the testimony of American leaders of finance and industry and has been summarized by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon in his annual report.

There lie before us today years of prosperous and healthy conditions. Bank deposits have increased six to eight billion dollars from the low point of 1921, or over 20 percent. At the same time, reserves are unusually high, frozen loans have been liquidated. Traffic handled by the railroads continues at almost record levels, and many roads are reutrning to a dividend paying basis after years of financial struggles. The building and automotive industries are prosperous and in turn are big factors in maintaining the country's general prosperity. The maladjustment between agriculture and other industries has been removed, and the farmer is rapidly being restored to his proper status in the economic system."

Outlook for Steel Promising.

The U. S. Steel Corporation closes the year working at 83 per cent of capacity, or about double that of

THREE HOUSES DAMAGED IN CITY AS 55 PERSONS DIE IN EAST AND WEST

Gasoline Used to Clean Chimney of Stove Causes Serious Blaze in Double Brick Dwelling in Second Street, While Fire Also Visits Homes of Mrs. Florence Smith and Dr. J. W. Chetwynd.

TRAINS RUN BEHIND SCHEDULE; TELEPHONE-TELEGRAPH SERVICE HIT

Unseasonable Chilliness Shifts Toward Southwest and South, Leaving Mark of its Keenness in Somewhat Abated Suffering in New York—Temperature is Rising in Chicago.

Three East Liverpool fires, causing approximately $6,000 damage, rode the cold wave which was ushered in over the week-end, and which exacted a toll of 55 lives, two of them Ohioans, throughout the country.

A double brick dwelling, in East Second street, owned by Jacob Shenkel and occupied by the Carl Keenan and Mrs. Sadie Tice families, was practically destroyed about 10 o'clock Sunday morning. The apartment of Mrs. Florence Smith, West Sixth street, was damaged a few hours earlier by fire which originated from a defective flue, while an overheated flue was responsible for a blaze at the home of Dr. J. W. Chetwynd, West Sixth street, late Saturday night.

The Second street blaze started when Keenan, occupying the east side of the double house, poured gasoline into a coal heating stove in an effort to clean the chimney. The gasoline exploded from hot coals, and soon the building was afire.

Members of the Tire family, in the adjoining section of the house, discovered the fire. Donald Tice, one of the family, quickly aroused the two children of Mrs. Edna Tice Fox—Richard, 5, and Billy, 3, asleep in an up-stairs bedroom and carried them across the street to the Milliron garage. He then returned to the house and secured their clothes. Other members of the family also escaped from the burning building.

Two Other Fires.

The entire structure was ablaze when the firemen arrived. Three lines of hose soon brought the fire under control, but not until the interior had been ruined. The home owned by James Horton, adjoining the structure, was also damaged.

No fire insurance was carried either by the Keenan or Tice families, who estimate their losses in furnishings at $2,000. The loss on the house was covered by insurance, it being estimated about $3,500.

The fire at the apartment of Mrs. Smith was discovered in the hallway entrance to the kitchen by John Brown, 14, foster son of Mrs. Smith. The blaze spread to the walls and was gaining a headway when the firemen arrived. An effort was made to extinguish the blaze with chemicals, but realizing this was useless, firemen brought a stream of hose into action. The kitchen of a restaurant occupying the first floor of the building was slightly damaged by water. Mrs. Smith estimates her loss at about $200, on which there is no insurance. The building is owned by E. K. Bennett.

Flueless Heaters Asphyxiate Three In Capital City

COLUMBUS, Dec. 22. — Three deaths here over the week-end were attributed today by Coroner Murphy to asphyxiation, due to carbon monoxide fumes given off by flueless gas heaters. The lifeless bodies of Joe Wintrell, 24, and Mrs. Hazel Jones, 23, were found in a room at a West Price avenue rooming house. Ina Morris, 25, colored, was asphyxiated in her bed room at a Bexley residence where she was employed as a domestic.

The coroner declared that, in each instance, the stove "is scientifically safe, but actually deadly—another case of science versus reality."

YULETIDE SNOW IS PREDICTED

COLUMBUS, Dec. 22.—A white Christmas.

This widespread hope appeared today likely to be realized in Ohio. United States weatherman Alexander predicted light snow with slowly rising temperature tonight and Tuesday, with colder weather Tuesday night or Wednesday. The snow flurries which visited Columbus and other sections of the state, Alexander said, were the forerunner for a number of similar visitations between now and Christmas day with weather likely to permit mother earth to retain her mantle or white over Christmas.

AIR MAIL PILOT DIES IN STORM

KANEVILLE, Ill., Dec. 22.—Lying beside the wrecked plane in which he had attempted to battle his way westward through the blinding snow, the body of Charles Gilbert, air mail pilot, was found in a corn field here today—the toll of air mail service to the storm.

Clinging to the body was Gilbert's parachute, indicating, air mail men said, that Gilbert had attempted to leap clear of the falling plane and that the parachute had failed to open.

LONDON URGES "HANDS OFF" IN ALBANIAN WAR

British Note Sent to Nations Bordering Zone of Strife.

SERBS ACCUSED

League of Nations Asked to Act; Rebels Repulsed.

LONDON, Dec. 22.—The British foreign office dispatched a note today to the nations bordering on Albania. The note urged that these powers maintain neutrality toward Albania's international trouble.

The foreign office denied that British warships had been sent to Albania.

GENEVA, Dec. 22.—The Albanian representative today handed a note to the League of Nations, alleging there was evidence that the Serbian's were supporting the Albania uprising.

Capture Serbian Soldiers.

The Albanian troops, according to the note, have captured three Serbian soldiers among the rebels and also have discovered rebels with Serbian arms.

BELGRADE, Dec. 22.—The upheaval in Albania was pictured in dispatches received here today as becoming less of a one-sided affair favoring the rebels.

The insurrectionists, said these advices, have lost Kroya, which is to the rear of their forces advancing on the Albanian capital, Tirana. The rebels are striving to recover Kroya.

Fighting continues in the Mati district under the leadership of the former premier, Zogu Bey. His regulars were reported to have recapturned Trum Chaflieu, taking prisoners.

Army Dinner Fund Totals $1,822; Need Additional $1,200

Nearly $1,200 must be raised within the next three days if the Salvation Army is to reach the $3,000 which will be required to conduct their Christmas and winter relief activities.

The fund today totaled $1,822.54, which included Saturday's collections of $238.40. The street kettles on Saturday netted $118.77, while checks, which came in through the mails, brought in $98.50. Among the checks was one for $50 from members of the Kiwanis club. A committee, canvassing the potteries, reported donations amounting to $21.13.

The kettles will be on the streets, today, Tuesday and Wednesday.

STATE EXAMINER ENDS WORK HERE

State Examiner George Dustman Saturday completed his inspection of the various municipal departments from the mayor's office down.

Dustman began his work here October 1 and was engaged 62 working days. He began with the auditor's office and completed with the water works.

TRACK WALKER IS KILLED BY FAST TRAIN NEAR LEETONIA

BACK IS BROKEN

Body is Found by Crew of Freight Train.

Frank Morrow, aged about 50, Pennsylvania railroad track walker of Leetonia, was instantly killed when struck, it is believed, by a west bound Fort Wayne division passenger train, near the outskirts of town, Saturday.

Morrow's body was found by the crew of an eastbound freight train, near the westbound tracks, about 200 yards west of the Mill street crossing. The belief was expressed that Morrow's back was broken and his body hurled from the tracks without attracting the attention of the engineer on the flyer. His watch had stopped at 10:07 o'clock which is the time the train passes through Leetonia.

The body was taken to the Crowell & Woods morgue. The deceased, who resided in Washington street, Leetonia, leaves a wife and six children.

Funeral services will be conducted in the St. Patrick's Catholic church, Leetonia, at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning, Rev. Richard Gibbons officiating. Interment will be made in St. Patrick's cemetery.

40 Children Will Be Rotary Guests At Tuesday Meet

About 40 crippled children of the district will be guests of the Rotary club at a special party, which will be held in the gymnasium of the Y. M. C. A. at noon tomorrow. Wives of Rotarians will attend.

Each child attending the party will be the recipient of an attractive present. There will be candies, nuts and everything else which goes to make the entertainment complete. E. G. Sturgis will be chairman of the meeting, while the program will be arranged by Blaine Cochran.

More than 100 reservations have been received by Secretary H. B. Barth.

E. L. Green Store, Oakland, is Looted; Candy, Cigars Taken

The E. L. Green grocery, Pennsylvania avenue, Oakland, was robbed Sunday night, police were advised this morning.

A large sack of English walnuts, four woolen blankets, four buckets of candy, a box of cigars and other merchandise were taken. Entrance was made through a cellar window and thence into the store by means of an inside door.

The robbery was reported to Patrolman Norman McFarland.

SANTA CLAUS PAYS OFF $550 MORTGAGE ON HOME OF WELLING-LEMLEY KIN

Balance of Fund for Widows and Children Will be Expended to Meet Taxes on Globe Street Dwelling.

CHRISTMAS TREE FOR CHILDREN

"Just tell the good people of East Liverpool we thank them from the bottom of our hearts for this Christmas gift."

Wiping a tear from her eye, this message was sent back yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Matilda Welling, her four fatherless children and her mother, Mrs. Henrietta Lemley, as a representative of The Review-Tribune handed her a cancelled mortgage for $550.11 on their humble home at 1731 Globe street—a Yuletide gift from the general public.

"We know there is a Santa Claus now," said Mrs. Welling, as a smile crept across her face. "Two weeks ago our outlook for Christmas was anything but cheerful, but now—we have a real cause for rejoicing."

$66.39 for Taxes.

The fund which The Review-Tribune started about 10 days ago after the attention of the newspaper had been called to the plight of the family, passed the $600 mark Saturday afternoon. A mortgage held by a local loan company for $550.11 was immediately paid off, leaving a balance of $66.39 in the fund. The balance is being retained by the Welling Fund Editor as trustee for the fund, with which to pay the year's taxes, which have not yet been certified to the county treasurer. Whatever remains in the fund after the taxes are paid will be turned over to the family.

The Welling family—the mother and four children—Melvin, 12; Mildred 10; Merle, 6, and Robert, 3, with Mrs. Lemley, in whose name the property is recorded, had just finished their Sunday dinner when the newspaper representative visited their home.

Mother is Thankful

"We are so happy that we hardly know what to say," said Mrs. Welling and her mother. "We certainly appreciate this gift and want you to say so to the people who gave it and also thank your paper for interceding in our behalf."

"One never realizes fully the big

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 22—After a firm opening in which higher prices were recorded in practically every section of the speculative list, the stockmarket was called on to absorb heavy profit taking today and prices were generally lower, with reactions particularly pronounced in the stocks which led last week's rally. While these reactions were in progress, however, new forward movements were taking place in a number of the market leaders of which General Electric, in new high ground above 290, was the most pronounced.

The most favorable industrial reports at the beginning of the new week came from the steel manufacturing centers.

Cotton and grain markets were steady in the first period, good buying demand sending prices moderately higher. Call money renewals were marked up to 3 per cent.

20 Persons Forced To Flee From Beds As Fire Sweeps House

ALBANY, Dec. 22.—Twenty persons, including 10 children were forced to flee from their beds in zero weather today when flames swept a three-story apartment house. Loss is estimated at $50,000.

Half a dozen women, including Mrs. Mary E. Green, 72, of Youngstown, who was visiting her son, were carried down ladders by firemen and policemen.

BIG DIRIGIBLE ON SECOND TRIP

LAKEHURST, N. J., Dec. 22—The dirigible Los Angeles, formerly the ZR-3, left the naval air station here at 12:28 o'clock this afternoon on its second trial flight over American soil. The flight to be made in the vicinity of New York, was to test the dirigible's new water recovery apparatus.

The dirgible's first flight in this country since its voyage from Friedrichshafen, Germany, was made three weeks ago when it was taken to Washington to be christened by Mrs. Calvin Coolidge.

TOWN HELPLESS AS HOMES BURN

NORFOLK, Va., Dec. 22.—Unable to render any assistance because of its isolation, residents of Churchland, a hamlet three miles from Portsmouth, watched a fire burn itself out early today, six residences being destroyed and their occupants rendered homeless. A chemical engineer at Portsmouth arrived too late to be of service. The loss is placed at $15,000.

Chester Lad Sought By Police Here on Fast Driving Count

The police today issued a warrant for the arrest of Eugene O'Connor, said to be residing in Chester, who is wanted on a charge of fast and reckless driving, as the result of a crash at the corner of Fifth street and Broadway about 9 o'clock last evening.

O'Connor, driving a car which, police say, belongs to Louis Polilt, of this city, is alleged to have collided with an automobile operated by J. V. Hughes, manager of the Victory Motor Sales company. O'Connor was said to have been driving south on Broadway, while Hughes was proceeding east on Fifth street.

O'Connor, after telephoning the McElravy Brothers to take charge of the car, is alleged to have fled across the bridge to Chester. The crash was investigated by Special Officer George Dawson and Tunrkey William Cline. Hughes' car was badly damaged. The front wheel of the car, which O'Connor was driving was broken. It is being held by the police.

James Clendenning Dies in Infirmary; Relatives Sought

Police today were searching for relatives of James Clendenning, former resident of this city, who died in the county infirmary early Sunday morning.

Clendenning is said to have a sister, Mrs. Josephine Fletcher, who resides "near the end of the Pleasant Heights car line," but the authorities have not been able to locate her.

Infirmary authorities are holding Clendenning's body in hopes that relatives will claim it. If not claimed, it will be buried at the expense of the county.

200 Persons Attend Choir Concert in Masonic Temple

Two hundred Masons, members of their families and friends attended the Christmas concert, given by members of the St. Stephen's Church choir at the Masonic Temple, Broadway, Sunday afternoon.

Approx mately 30 voices, including 20 choir boys, took part in the concert, which was directed by Albert E. Clark, choirmaster and organist.

Hall's body was removed to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Hall, 1021 Hazel street, last night, where funeral services will be conducted. In addition to his parents, he leaves his wife and four children, Ruth Marie, 14; Robert, 12; Virginia, 10, and Ralph, 7; two brothers, Edward of this city, and Archie of Chester, and two sisters, Mrs. William Taylor and Laura Hall, both of this city.

He had been working at Canton for about two years. He was formerly connected with East Liverpool newspapers and also was identified with Pittsburgh newspapers for several years before going to Canton.

Mr. Hall was a member of the Knights of Malta and the order of Oaks. He was a member of the Anderson Methodist Episcopal church, West Ninth street.

curred in a fireplace in an upstairs bed room. The blaze was subdued with chemicals, the loss amounting to only a few dollars, covered by insurance.

Phone Lines Damaged.

Approximately 15 toll lines were put out of commission by the severe weather Saturday night and Sunday, officials of the Ohio Bell Telephone company declared. A score or more local lines were also damaged.

The mercury dropped to 5 degrees above zero on the hilltop section Sunday morning. Temperatures ranging from 10 to 15 degrees were reported today.

Gas company officials reported a good pressure for domestic consumers. Coal dealers said orders were heavy, but asserted that the supply was plentiful.

Two Dead In Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 22—Snow and ice covered streets, together with the near zero weather today had claimed two additional victims. John T. Walsh, contractor, President of the Stange-Walsh Construction company, was killed when his auto skidded over a 60-foot embankment in Ambler Park. Miss Ina McDonald, 20, was killed when a car in which she was riding [illegible] on the street and collided head-on with a street car in Woodland avenue.

The temperature, however, did not reach zero, and with warmer weather reported in the west, and in prospect here, it was not believed that Cleveland would experience the suffering from cold felt in the west. The lowest temperature reported here last night was 11 degrees above zero.

Train, telephone and telegraph service felt the effects of the cold snap. Trains were running many hours behind schedule and wire communication was greatly interrupted due to snapping of wires by accumulations of snow and ice. One train from St. Louis arrived in Cleveland twelve hours behind its schedule time.

In and around Toledo more than 1200 poles of the Ohio Bell Telephone Company, were down, due to the storm, and linemen were working overtime to repair the damage.

Three Die In New York.

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—Three were dead in the Metropolitan area from the cold wave which knifed its way out of the west to the eastern seaboard Sunday, and left the mark of its keenness in somewhat abated suffering today.

The northwest wind, which brought the unseasonable cold wave to the city and marks as low as 30 below in the Adrondacks, was shifting today toward the southwest and south. As it veered, the mercury rose.

William Farsett, 65, of Philadelphia; Godfrey Loetscher, 50, and Daniel Green, 43, were the destitute who died here of exposure. Farsett and Loescher were found in the street. Green was given a seat by the fire at a rescue mission, but the help came too late and he died there.

The temperature was expected to mount as much as 30 degrees here today, with the weather bureau looking forward to much moderated weather tomorrow.

Another storm out of the west might strike by the middle of the week, according to forecast.

Heavy Damage To Crops.

CHICAGO, Dec. 22—A blizzard was roaring out of the west today to replace the Arctic temperatures which for three days have wrought havoc in the Mississippi Valley and the surrounding territory.

Temperatures were slowly rising today as the first weather bureau here announced that the backbone of the season's first severe cold wave was definitely broken.

The affected area today was struggling back to normalcy, restoring wire service disrupted by the cold and the sleet, which preceded it and checking the damage to crops and property which the frigid temperatures brought. In the Mississippi Valley alone, it was estimated this would run to over $1,000,000 and the total damage throughout the mid-west, it was expected, probably will run to two or three times this.

Communication Lines Hit.

Today, however, wire service in the mid-west was far from normal and trains still were being operated on slow schedules. The Bell Telephone company reported hundreds of telephones still cut off from service and admitted that it may be a week before communication is completely restored.

The death toll from the storm and cold today was placed conservatively at 50. This included fatalities directly due to the cold—cases where victims were found frozen to death—and those attributable indirectly to the weather—victims of fire started from overheated furnaces and various other causes.

The casualty toll over the week-end included two men found frozen to death in the ice of Haarlem drain, near West Holland, Mich.

In the property damage was listed the destruction of the Methodist church at Sparta, Wis., by fire and a disastrous fire razed a business block in Fort Wayne, Ind., and threatened the entire business section of the city.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Dec. 22. — Ice-[illegible] of the coldest weather of the winter, Western Pennsylvania was promised some relief by the weatherman's prediction of snow and warmer today. The temperature dropped to 10 above zero yesterday and 13 above today, the coldest for this date since 1901.

A light snow fell in Pittsburgh this morning, bringing slightly higher temperatures.

A score of fires over the week-end kept firemen busy, and their bodies numb from freezing weather. Mrs. Sarah Englander, 29, was fatally burned when she poured oil on a coal fire in her husband's tailor shop.

human hearts of their neighbors and friends unless they are placed in the position which we were in about two weeks ago," continued Mrs. Welling. "We scarcely had enough to eat, the children needed clothing, our coal was practically gone and we were facing the loss of our home for our inability to meet the payments on the mortgage

"Since the attention of the people was called to our needs, thanks to your paper, groceries, clothing, coal and other supplies have been coming to our home almost daily. And now to make things look all the brighter we are sure that our home will be saved."

Almost four years ago, Robert Welling, father of the four children, died as the result of influenza. Mrs. Welling and her children went to make their home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Lemley. Two years ago, Mr. Lemley became ill and after 17 months' suffering died last May. Since then the family depended upon the earnings of Mrs. Lemley, who has been brushing ware in one of the East End potteries, and Mrs. Welling, who took in washings.

Since fall work in the potteries has been poor, while the washings, too, became fewer and the family's income was gradually reduced. Illness of Robert, the baby, also cut into the family's assets. Neighbors and friends realizing the family's dire straits, called the attention of The Review-Tribune to the case less than two weeks ago.

Elks Care for Children.

"The four children are going to have a Christmas," Mrs. Welling told the newspaperman yesterday. "One of the neighbors has already sent us a Christmas tree and the Elks' lodge has promised the youngsters tickets which will entitle them to take part in the gift distribution and entertainment Christmas morning.

"With the debt on our home paid and taxes arranged for next year we feel that we will be able to support ourselves after the first of the year. Mother worked five days last week and they say that she will have steady employment after the first of the year."

Robert, the youngest of the four children, has been threatened with an attack of pneumonia during the last few days, but is now improving. Neighbors and friends have been supplying the child, who is subject to convulsions, with malted milk, Mrs. Welling said.

The children, with the exception of the oldest boy, Melvin, who is in need of a pair of pants, have been given clothing, the mother said. The Elks' lodge will furnish the children with shoes, Mrs. Welling was informed Saturday. The Salvation Army will send Christmas dinners, Adjutant John G. Dean announced today.

A load of coal which was sent to the house about ten days ago is practically depleted, it was stated.

Odd Fellows Collect $64.

Neighbors were among the contributors to the fund Saturday. Contributions since 10 a. m. Saturday follow:

sense of social responsibility, which passed its own rules to protect the hospitality the little church offered them. Bill Warren outlined these:

1—"No drunks.

"If a man's got the price of a drink, he's got more than the price of a flop. Am I right, boys?"

"Sure, you're right," they voted.

"2—No smoking.

"3—Clean up the place—they had been tidying so carefully that nothing remained to indicate the church had been a bed house the night before.

200,000 Out of Work.

The little church, sitting back from more pretensious buildings in the bowery, was the scene of the valedictory sermon Sunday of the Rev. David B. Minor. Because of the insufficient suport, it will be turned into a mission, so that final judgment in the tenure of its jobless will rest with the mission board of the Congregational church.

The line at the church doors tonight, when the word gets around the bowery, is expected to be much stronger, swelling by the unemployed and shelterless. Bill Warren estimated the number of these in New York at 50,000, while 200,000, he said, were out of work but had some money to go on.

Country Is Ready

March and April. Of the outlook for steel, Judge Elbert H. Gary, probably the foremost industrial leader in America, said:

"The demand for iron and products is large and increasing. It promises to be up to and perhaps in excess of manufacturing capacity. The price has been too low and it is hoped they will be high enough to allow the producers a profit. For the last six months it has required some courage and a clear vision to look forward with confidence and satisfaction.

"I look for great business prosperity in the future. We are now entering upon a realization of our hopes and should increase our efforts to justify the blessings bestowed on us. We have turned the corner."

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 22—After a firm opening in which higher prices were recorded in practically every section of the speculative list, the stockmarket was called on to absorb heavy profit taking today and prices were generally lower, with reactions particularly pronounced in the stocks which led last week's rally. While these reactions were in progress, however, new forward movements were taking place in a number of the market leaders of which General Electric, in new high ground above 290, was the most pronounced.

The most favorable industrial reports at the beginning of the new week came from the steel manufacturing centers.

Cotton and grain markets were steady in the first period, good buying demand sending prices moderately higher. Call money renewals were marked up to 3 per cent.

curred in a fireplace in an upstairs bed room. The blaze was subdued with chemicals, the loss amounting to only a few dollars, covered by insurance.

Phone Lines Damaged.

Approximately 15 toll lines were put out of commission by the severe weather Saturday night and Sunday, officials of the Ohio Bell Telephone company declared. A score or more local lines were also damaged.

The mercury dropped to 5 degrees above zero on the hilltop section Sunday morning. Temperatures ranging from 10 to 15 degrees were reported today.

Gas company officials reported a good pressure for domestic consumers. Coal dealers said orders were heavy, but asserted that the supply was plentiful.

Two Dead In Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 22—Snow and ice covered streets, together with the near zero weather today had claimed two additional victims. John T. Walsh, contractor, President of the Stange-Walsh Construction company, was killed when his auto skidded over a 60-foot embankment in Ambler Park. [illegible] McDonald, 20, was killed when a car in which she was riding [illegible] the street and collided head-on with a street car in Woodland avenue.

The temperature, however, did not reach zero, and with warmer weather reported in the west, and in prospect here, it was not believed that Cleveland would experience the suffering from cold felt in the west. The lowest temperature reported here last night was 11 degrees above zero.

Train, telephone and telegraph service felt the effects of the cold snap. Trains were running many hours behind schedule and wire communication was greatly interrupted due to snapping of wires by accumulations of snow and ice. One train from St. Louis arrived in Cleveland twelve hours behind its schedule time.

In and around Toledo more than 1200 poles of the Ohio Bell Telephone Company, were down, due to the storm, and linemen were working overtime to repair the damage.

Three Die In New York.

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—Three were dead in the Metropolitan area from the cold wave which knifed its way out of the west to the eastern seaboard Sunday, and left the mark of its keenness in somewhat abated suffering today.

The northwest wind, which brought the unseasonable cold wave to the city and marks as low as 30 below in the Adirondacks, was shifting today toward the southwest and south. As it veered, the mercury rose.

William Farsett, 65, of Philadelphia; Godfrey Loetscher, 50, and Daniel Green, 43, were the destitute who died here of exposure. Farsett and Loescher were found in the street. Green was given a seat by the fire at a rescue mission, but the help came too late and he died there.

The temperature was expected to mount as much as 30 degrees here today, with the weather bureau looking forward to much moderated weather tomorrow.

Another storm out of the west might strike by the middle of the week, according to forecast.

Heavy Damage To Crops.

CHICAGO, Dec. 22—A blizzard was roaring out of the west today to replace the Arctic temperatures which for three days have wrought havoc in the Mississippi Valley and the surrounding territory.

Temperatures were slowly rising today as the first weather bureau here announced that the backbone of the season's first severe cold wave was definitely broken.

The affected area today was struggling back to normalcy, restoring wire service disrupted by the cold and the sleet, which preceded it and checking the damage to crops and property which the frigid temperatures brought. In the Mississippi Valley alone, it was estimated this would run to over $1,000,000 and the total damage throughout the mid-west, it was expected, probably will run to two or three times this.

Communication Lines Hit.

Today, however, wire service in the mid-west was far from normal and trains still were being operated on slow schedules. The Bell Telephone company reported hundreds of telephones still cut off from service and admitted that it may be a week before communication is completely restored.

The death toll from the storm and cold today was placed conservatively at 50. This included fatalities directly due to the cold—cases where victims were found frozen to death—and those attributable indirectly to the weather—victims of fire started from overheated furnaces and various other causes.

The casualty toll over the week-end included two men found frozen to death in the ice of Haarlem drain, near West Holland, Mich.

In the property damage was listed the destruction of the Methodist church at Sparta, Wis., by fire and a disastrous fire razed a business block in Fort Wayne, Ind., and threatened the entire business section of the city.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Dec. 22. — Ice[illegible] the [illegible] of the coldest weather of the winter, Western Penna[illegible] was promised some relief by the weatherman's prediction of snow and warmer today. The temperature dropped to 10 above zero yesterday and 13 above today, the coldest for this date since 1901.

A light snow fell in Pittsburgh this morn[illegible]ing slightly higher temperatures.

A score of fires over the week-end kept firemen busy, and their bodies numb from freezing weather. Mrs. Sarah Englander, 29, was fatally burned when she poured oil on a coal fire in her husband's tailor shop.

human hearts of their neighbors and friends unless they are placed in the position which we were in about two weeks ago," continued Mrs. Welling. "We scarcely had enough to eat, the children needed clothing, our coal was practically gone and we were facing the loss of our home for our inability to meet the payments on the mortgage

"Since the attention of the people was called to our needs, thanks to your paper, groceries, clothing, coal and other supplies have been coming to our home almost daily. And now to make things look all the brighter we are sure that our home will be saved."

Almost four years ago, Robert Welling, father of the four children, died as the result of influenza. Mrs. Welling and her children went to make their home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Lemley. Two years ago, Mr. Lemley became ill and after 17 months' suffering died last May. Since then the family depended upon the earnings of Mrs. Lemley, who has been brushing ware in one of the East End potteries, and Mrs. Welling, who took in washings.

Since fall work in the potteries has been poor, while the washings, too, became fewer and the family's income was gradually reduced. Illness of Robert, the baby, also cut into the family's assets. Neighbors and friends realizing the family's dire straits, called the attention of The Review-Tribune to the case less than two weeks ago.

Elks Care for Children.

"The four children are going to have a Christmas," Mrs. Welling told the newspaperman yesterday. "One of the neighbors has already sent us a Christmas tree and the Elks' lodge has promised the youngsters tickets which will entitle them to take part in the gift distribution and entertainment Christmas morning.

"With the debt on our home paid and taxes arranged for next year we feel that we will be able to support ourselves after the first of the year. Mother worked five days last week and they say that she will have steady employment after the first of the year."

Robert, the youngest of the four children, has been threatened with an attack of pneumonia during the last few days, but is now improving. Neighbors and friends have been supplying the child, who is subject to convulsions, with malted milk, Mrs. Welling said.

The children, with the exception of the oldest boy, Melvin, who is in need of a pair of pants, have been given clothing, the mother said. The Elks' lodge will furnish the children with shoes, Mrs. Welling was informed Saturday. The Salvation Army will send Christmas dinners, Adjutant John G. Dean announced today.

A load of coal which was sent to the house about ten days ago is practically depleted, it was stated.

Odd Fellows Collect $64.

sense of social responsibility, which passed its own rules to protect the hospitality the little church offered them. Bill Warren outlined these:

1—"No drunks.

"If a man's got the price of a drink, he's got more than the price of a flop. Am I right, boys?"

"Sure, you're right," they voted.

"2—No smoking.

"3—Clean up the place—they had been tidying so carefully that nothing remained to indicate the church had been a bed house the night before.

200,000 Out of Work.

The little church, sitting back from a more pretensious buildings in the bowery, was the scene of the valedictory sermon Sunday of the Rev. David B. Minor. Because of the insufficient suport, it will be turned into a mission, so that final judgment in the tenure of its jobless will rest with the mission board of the Congregational church.

The line at the church doors tonight, when the word gets around the bowery, is expected to be much stronger, swelling by the unemployed and shelterless. Bill Warren estimated the number of these in New York at 50,000, while 200,000, he said, were out of work but had some money to go on.

March and April. Of the outlook for steel, Judge Elbert H. Gary, probably the foremost industrial leader in America, said:

"The demand for iron and products is large and increasing. It promises to be up to and perhaps in excess of manufacturing capacity. The price has been too low and it is hoped they will be high enough to allow the producers a profit. For the last six months it has required some courage and a clear vision to look forward with confidence and satisfaction.

"I look for great business prosperity in the future. We are now entering upon a realization of our hopes and should increase our efforts to justify the blessings bestowed on us. We have turned the corner."

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 22—After a firm opening in which higher prices were recorded in practically every section of the speculative list, the stockmarket was called on to absorb heavy profit taking today and prices were generally lower, with reactions particularly pronounced in the stocks which led last week's rally. While these reactions were in progress, however, new forward movements were taking place in a number of the market leaders of which General Electric, in new high ground above 290, was the most pronounced.

The most favorable industrial reports at the beginning of the new week came from the steel manufacturing centers.

Cotton and grain markets were steady in the first period, good buying demand sending prices moderately higher. Call money renewals were marked up to 3 per cent.

The dirgible's first flight in this country since its voyage from Friedrichshafen, Germany, was made three weeks ago when it was taken to Washington to be christened by Mrs. Calvin Coolidge.

TOWN HELPLESS AS HOMES BURN

NORFOLK, Va., Dec. 22.—Unable to render any assistance because of its isolation, residents of Churchland, a hamlet three miles from Portsmouth, watched a fire burn itself out early today, six residences being destroyed and their occupants rendered homeless. A chemical engineer at Portsmouth arrived too late to be of service. The loss is placed at $15,000.

Chester Lad Sought By Police Here on Fast Driving Count

The police today issued a warrant for the arrest of Eugene O'Connor, said to be residing in Chester, who is wanted on a charge of fast and reckless driving, as the result of a crash at the corner of Fifth street and Broadway about 9 o'clock last evening.

O'Connor, driving a car which, police say, belongs to Louis Pollit, of this city, is alleged to have collided with an automobile operated by J. V. Hughes, manager of the Victory Motor Sales company. O'Connor was said to have been driving south on Broadway, while Hughes was proceeding east on Fifth street.

O'Connor, after telephoning the McElravy Brothers to take charge of the car, is alleged to have fled across the bridge to Chester. The crash was investigated by Special Officer George Dawson and Tunrkey William Cline. Hughes' car was badly damaged. The front wheel of the car, which O'Connor was driving was broken. It is being held by the police.

James Clendenning Dies in Infirmary; Relatives Sought

Police today were searching for relatives of James Clendenning, former resident of this city, who died in the county infirmary early Sunday morning.

Clendenning is said to have a sister, Mrs. Josephine Fletcher, who resides "near the end of the Pleasant Heights car line," but the authorities have not been able to locate her.

Infirmary authorities are holding Clendenning's body in hopes that relatives will claim it. If not claimed, it will be buried at the expense of the county.

Robert, the youngest of the four children, has been threatened with an attack of pneumonia during the last few days, but is now improving. Neighbors and friends have been supplying the child, who is subject to convulsions, with malted milk, Mrs. Welling said.

The children, with the exception of the oldest boy, Melvin, who is in need of a pair of pants, have been given clothing, the mother said. The Elks' lodge will furnish the children with shoes, Mrs. Welling was informed Saturday. The Salvation Army will send Christmas dinners, Adjutant John G. Dean announced today.

A load of coal which was sent to the house about ten days ago is practically depleted, it was stated.

Odd Fellows Collect $64.

Neighbors were among the contributors to the fund Saturday. Contributions since 10 a. m. Saturday follow:

Jobless Find Beds

sense of social responsibility, which passed its own rules to protect the hospitality the little church offered them. Bill Warren outlined these:

1—"No drunks.

"If a man's got the price of a drink, he's got more than the price of a flop. Am I right, boys?"

"Sure, you're right," they voted.

"2—No smoking.

"3—Clean up the place—they had been tidying so carefully that nothing remained to indicate the church had been a bed house the night before.

200,000 Out of Work.

The little church, sitting back from more pretensious buildings in the bowery, was the scene of the valedictory sermon Sunday of the Rev. David B. Minor. Because of the insufficient suport, it will be turned into a mission, so that final judgment in the tenure of its jobless will rest with the mission board of the Congregational church.

The line at the church doors tonight, when the word gets around the bowery, is expected to be much stronger, swelling by the unemployed and shelterless. Bill Warren estimated the number of these in New York at 50,000, while 200,000, he said, were out of work but had some money to go on.

Country Is Ready

March and April. Of the outlook for steel, Judge Elbert H. Gary, probably the foremost industrial leader in America, said:

"The demand for iron and products is large and increasing. It promises to be up to and perhaps in excess of manufacturing capacity. The price has been too low and it is hoped they will be high enough to allow the producers a profit. For the last six months it has required some courage and a clear vision to look forward with confidence and satisfaction.

"I look for great business prosperity in the future. We are now entering upon a realization of our hopes and should increase our efforts to justify the blessings bestowed on us. We have turned the corner."

LOCAL POLICE ROUND UP TEN

Major Portion of Week-end Arrests on Liquor Charges.

Police business took a jump over the week-end, with the arrest of 10 alleged law violators, the majority of whom went before Acting Mayor Blackburn on liquor charges.

Six were arrested yesterday evening by Patrolmen Newton and Pugh on Eighth street on charges of anti-Volsteadean activities. "Doc" Rice, charged with keeping a place where liquor was furnished, was fined $105.-00. Harry Cuppy, charged with possessing, was fined a similar amount. Charles A. Bunner, William Lairman, Robert Jackson and Smith Cooper, all arrested on charges of loitering, were assessed fines of $15.60. All made arrangements to pay and were released.

Oscar Dardon, colored, arrested here on a charge of possessing, drew a fine of $205.60. He is in jail.

Clifford Carr, brought back from Canton by Mayor Blackburn and Chief of Police Fultz several days ago on a non-support charge filed by his wife, made up back payments and will appear in police court tonight to complete further arrangements for the maintenance of his wife. He is out on bond of $1,000.

John Redwood, colored, of East Liverpool, is awaiting a hearing on a charge of knifing James Pulliam, colored. Pulliam is also scheduled to go before the bar of justice. He is charged with having been intoxicated. Redwood, it is said, wielded a knife on Pulliam here several days ago. East Liverpool police arrested him and returned him to the local authorities.

TEACHERS WILL GO TO COLUMBUS

The local public schools will be represented at the Ohio State Teachers' association conference which will be held on December 29, 30 and 31 in Columbus.

Mrs. Lila Riley Davis is delegate to the conference and Charles Stoakes alternate. Supt. S. E. Daw and G. D. Ewing, high school principal, will attend the conference also.

The local instructors expect to leave here Sunday evening.

SCHOOLS CLOSE HERE TOMORROW

Students in the local public schools will hold final classes tomorrow prior to the Christmas holidays, Supt. S. E. Daw announced today.

Beginning at 2 o'cock, there will be Christmas programs by the pupils of each grade, to which parents have been invited.

School sessions will be resumed on Monday, Jan. 5.

Vets to Elect Officers.

Corporal Dan D. Duty post, No. 180, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will hold their annual election of officers tonight at their meeting in the post rooms, upper Main street. The session is scheduled to start at 7 o'clock.

Following the business meeting and election of officers for 1925, there will be a social and smoker.

Officers Are Installed.

The Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and the women's auxiliary to the local organization held a joint installation of officers Saturday evening in the K. of P. lodgeroom, Fifth and Main streets.

A social hour and program were held following the installation. The program was given as follows: Selections by male quartette—Charles Driggs, John Good, Lawrence Smith and Gene Jones; reading, Dorothy Maxine Miller; whistling solo—Ruth Henthorne; reading—Mrs. Alice Deemer; selection by quartet; reading—Mrs. Walter Weldon; address—S. W. Crawford. Refreshments were served at the close of the affair.

CARD OF THANKS.

We desire to return our sincere thanks to our friends and neighbors, Rev. D. W. MacLeod and singers for their kindness and sympathy shown us during the illness and death of our beloved husband, Joseph E. Auner and for the many beautiful floral offerings.

MRS. JOSEPH AUNER AND FAMILY.

Cubans are abandoning primitive methods of farming and are using modern American implements.

Given Franchise.

NELSONVILLE, O., Dec. — The Hocking Power company, which has a large central power station near here and which serves many towns and coal mines in the Hocking valley, has obtained franchises in the Pomeroy Bend district and in the Jackson county field. Wellston city council is reported completing necessary legal steps to give the Hocking company a franchise there for commercial power.

THRONG ATTENDS XMAS SERVICES

Despite the coldness of Sunday night, hundreds turned out for the community Christmas observance in the public square under the auspices of the Kiwanis club.

A splendid musical program, in which local singers took part, featured the half-hour services which were held beneath a 50-foot Christmas tree, electrically illuminated.

The following program was carried out:

Invocation—Rev. H. W. Stewart.

Community singing, "Silent Night," led by T. C. McClelland.

Double quartet — Selection from "The Holy Nativity."

Presentation of tree to community —Dr. J. M. King, president Kiwanis club.

Double quartet—"It Came Upon the Midnight Clear."

Ten minute address — Rev. T. G. Berger.

Community singing—"O Come All."

Christmas greetings exchange.

Vets to Elect Officers.

Corporal Dan D. Duty post, No. 180, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will hold their annual election of officers tonight at their meeting in the post rooms, upper Main street. The session is scheduled to start at 7 o'clock.

Following the business meeting and election of officers for 1925, there will be a social and smoker.

Officers Are Installed.

The Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and the women's auxiliary to the local organization held a joint installation of officers Saturday evening in the K. of P. lodgeroom, Fifth and Main streets.

A social hour and program were held following the installation. The program was given as follows: Selections by male quartette—Charles Driggs, John Good, Lawrence Smith and Gene Jones; reading, Dorothy Maxine Miller; whistling solo—Ruth Henthorne; reading—Mrs. Alice Deemer; selection by quartet; reading—Mrs. Walter Weldon; address—S. W. Crawford. Refreshments were served at the close of the affair.

CARD OF THANKS.

We desire to return our sincere thanks to our friends and neighbors, Rev. D. W. MacLeod and singers for their kindness and sympathy shown us during the illness and death of our beloved husband, Joseph E. Auner and for the many beautiful floral offerings.

MRS. JOSEPH AUNER AND FAMILY.

Cubans are abandoning primitive methods of farming and are using modern American implements.

Given Franchise.

NELSONVILLE, O., Dec. — The Hocking Power company, which has a large central power station near here and which serves many towns and coal mines in the Hocking valley, has obtained franchises in the Pomeroy Bend district and in the Jackson county field. Wellston city council is reported completing necessary legal steps to give the Hocking company a franchise there for commercial power.

Motor Car Killings

The problem of improving traffic conditions and lessening motor accidents is not confined to any city or state. Figures based on a survey covering the 3 states in which vital statistics are recorded, reveal interesting data concerning accident deaths.

In the first place, it is shown that one-fourth of all fatalities by accidents in the United States in 1923 were from motor car accidents. Such deaths were twice as numerous in cities as in rural districts. Only three states, Kentucky, Wyoming and Mississippi, had more deaths from railroads than from motor cars.

California had the highest mortality rate from motor accidents, 32.6 to 100,000 of population. Mississippi had the lowest, 44 to 100,000. The latter state is likely to pick up with population growth, road development and increased use of automobiles, unless it devises new and better ways to solve the problem that every state is facing

Of 66 cities of 100,000 population or more Camden, N. J., had the highest mortality rate from motor car accidents and New Bedford, Mass., the lowest. Fort Worth, Tex., seems to be the safest city of its size in the land. Its fatality rate from all kinds of accidents was only 47.3.

Such figures may not reduce the preventable death toll in themselves, but they help to emphasize the need for prompt and wise action.

Nonsensical Crosswords

Here is a brave man who dares to cross the cross-word puzzlers. The superintendent of schools in Kansas City, Mo., comes right out bluntly and says:

"The cross-word puzzle is not only a fad, but it is nonsensical, and, like all puzzles, it has very little educational value. We need to teach things in the schools that have some bearing on life's problems. The cross-word puzzle is a fad, and it has no place in the curriculum of any school."

This is said after others have tried to explain the epidemic which has recently swept the country by calling it educational.

Like other guessing games and puzzles and wit-teasers, the cross-word puzzle is rather fun if not taken too seriously. One that is cleverly worked out and then solved quickly for pastime certainly does no one any harm and serves the purpose of any similar game.

But the cross-word puzzle fad that has taken so many homes by storm probably has little to recommend it. When hours of time are spent in solving these puzzles or in making up posers to set before one's friends, the thing has gone to an extreme, and extremes are rarely wholesome or justifiable.

People who cry out against the cross-word puzzle, however, are almost as foolish as those who take it as seriously as their daily bread The very fact that this old pastime has suddenly sprung into national and almost international prominence and that "everybody is doing it" points to its early downfall.

Radio Dictatorship

Secretary of Commerce Hoover withdraws his support from pending legislation for complete federal radio regulation. He thinks the time has not come yet for such action, because radio development is still in the formative stage, with conditions likely to develop which cannot be foreseen now.

It will be enough, suggests Mr. Hoover, if the present very general radio laws are continued, with only such amendment as is needed to give the department of commerce better control over wireless communication.

What the secretary asks for seems to be really blanket powers to go ahead and regulate the industry as it develops from stage to stage, until such time as it is established definitely enough to warrant more specific regulation by congress. Ordinarily congress and the public might both balk at such a suggestion. It is generally felt, however, that Secretary Hoover's control of radio so far has been cautious and wise, interfering as little as possible with natural development, and he can probably be trusted not to abuse any authority granted him in this field.

WE HAVE CONTRASTS

NORTH PLATTE, Neb., Dec. 22—Life and climate in the United States are not monotonous. Violent contrasts make existence interesting. For instance, this train left on Tuesday over the Southern Pacific from San Francisco, where the average summer temperature is 50, and the average winter temperature 51. Leaving Cheyenne now, on the Union Pacific system, going from Wyoming into Nebraska the conductor tells you "it's six below zero now and getting colder."

"NO COMPETITION," COOLIDGE RIGHT

An Omaha newspaper quotes President Coolidge as opposed to any armament competition with other nations. The president is right.

There should be no competition but absolute unquestioned supremacy. This nation should be beyond competition, it should have everything needed to make successful attack impossible, and then stop regardless of what others do.

As part of the plan for peace through preparation, the United States should have a fleet of flying ships, at least double that of any other nation in the world. We have twice as much territory worth defending as any other modern nation.

The British set the example. They are not competing with other nations, they simply take steps to make the British empire safe.

When the war came we were glad to have British ships carry our soldiers, goods and passengers. After we entered the war, we were glad to know that the British fleet and British submarines made impossible any German raid across the Atlantic.

BUT WE LACK SAFETY

The president, you may be sure, objects to an out-of-date foolish plan for building battleships, to oblige the powers that control our navy. These powers are the oil companies and the steel companies. Oil companies want battleships to burn oil, steel companies want the forty-five million dollar jobs.

The president knows that the battleship is out of date and that the cost of one battleship, $45,000,000, spent by honest engineers, not by patriotic grafters," would give this country a flying fleet half as great as that of France. The cost of two battleships would give us a fleet of airships as great as any in the world. And the price of five battleships, which is what we ought to spend on flying machines now, would make this country safe in the air, and therefore safe everywhere.

WE WANT SUPREMACY

Times and methods change, human character changes little, and that desire for conquest and revenue changes not at all. Desire is strong at this moment in Asia. For centuries the women and children of eastern Europe lived in horror of the brown and yellow men with slanting eyes and heavy swords that came on foot and on shaggy ponies, marching westward, killing and devouring as they passed.

The next visit from Asia will come through the air, not on foot, not bound for Europe, but flying across the Pacific ocean bound for this country. At this moment Asia could send, carried in huge freighters to avoid the 7,000-mile flight, enough machines to destroy all the principal cities on the Pacific coast. And that is fact, not theory.

So says the man, afraid somebody will tax him for national protection.

The middle-aged, plump owner of a grocery store may also be rich, prosperous, standing well with his neighbors. But a thin, consumptive, hollow-chested, drug-eating gunman, with a revolver, can hold him up, clean out his place and stretch him dead.

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

By LLOYD LEHRBAS.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—The election of President Coolidge carrying with it a continuance of the "common sense policies" with which he made his appeal to the American people, is generally looked upon by staunch friends of the Latin-American countries in Washington as an indication that increasingly strong efforts will be made by the government toward bringing the United States and her sister republic in South America into an even closer friendship and understanding.

President Coolidge's friendly feeling toward Argentina, Brazil, Mexico and the other republics which give the Americas almost a monopoly on the republics of the world, has been shown markedly in numerous instances; and Secretary of State Charles Evans Hughes, who will remain at the helm of the American ship of state, has also expressed his unwavering friendship in no uncertain terms on every occasion when relations between the United States and the Latin-American countries have been discussed.

President Coolidge's friendly atttitude toward the Latin-American republics has been emphasized with actions as well as by words within very recent days, notably in the reception accorded President Calles, of Mexico; the appointment of General John J. Pershing and his distinguished confreres as the American representatives at the celebration of the battle of Ayacucho, at Lima, and in the welcome extended to the new minister from Ecuador, Senor Francisco Ochoa-Ortiz, who succeeded Dr. Rafael H. Elizalde.

General Calles was the guest of President Coolidge at lunch and at an afternoon chat at the White House; the guest of Secretary Hughes at a formal dinner, and the guest of other dignitaries during his visit, and at all times was received most cordially. General Calles was extremely outspoken in his expression of friendliness toward the United States and expressed in glowing language the high regard he had for the American president, whom he met for the first time. President Coolidge, in American slang, made "a hit" with General Calles.

President Coolidge has long held that the various Pan-American conferences held from time to time are of the utmost importance to all of the nations in the two Americas and has suited his actions to his words by making careful choice of the American delegates to all such functions, always choosing men of marked ability and friendliness. An instance in point is the selection of delegates for the Lima celebration, when the named General Pershing, the United States' outstanding soldier, as ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary; and Rear Admiral John H. Dayton and ex-Congressman Frederick C. Hicks, of New York, as envoys extraordinary and ministers plenipotentiary.

Any American administration will naturally be judged in South American countries by the attitude it has toward the Monroe Doctrine, and in that both President Coolidge and Secretary of State Hughes have expressed themselves most forcibly and clearly on a number of occasions.

Secretary of State Hughes, speaking as the official spokesman of the United States, at Brazil's celebration of her independence, held at Rio de Janeiro, gave the keynote of the American attitude toward all questions affecting South American republics when he said:

"We covet no territory; we seek no conquest; the liberty we cherish for ourselves we desire for others; and we assert no rights for ourselves that we do not accord to others. We sincerely desire to see throughout this hemisphere an abiding peace, the reign of justice, and the diffusion of the blessings of a beneficent co-operation. It is this desire that forms the basis of the Pan-American sentiment."

In an address before the American Bar association, the secretary of state emphasized the following points:

"The Monroe Doctrine is not a policy of aggression. It is a policy of self-defense.

"The policy of the Monroe Doctrine does not infringe upon the independence and sovereignty of other American states.

"So far as the Caribbean Sea is concerned, it may be said that if we had no Monroe Doctrine we should have to create one.

"It is apparent that the Monroe Doctrine does not stand in the way of Pan-American co-operation; rather it affords the necessary foundation for that co-operation in the independence and security of American state.

"The Monroe Doctrine is not an obstacle to a wider international co-operation, beyond the limits of the Pan-American aims and interests, whenever that co-operation is congenial to American institutions."

The test of generosity is the ability to contribute liberally to a worthy cause even when a tightwad does the collecting.—Akron (O.) Beacon-Journal.

Hostesses for barber shops are the very latest—which seems to use to be setting up an unfair opposition to manicure girls.—Columbus (O.) Dispatch.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—A page from the diary of a modern Samuel Pepys: Early out to buy some trifles and a high wind had flung down many signs. Then came clouds so black all street and shop lamps were lighted, which somehow pleased me.

Home again and to breakfast with Merle Crowell, the editor, and afterward to a toy store and such is the low order of my intellect I enjoyed browsing around there more than I have in great art galleries.

Walked about along the Rialto and fell in with William Boyd, the actor, and Joe King joined us and we fell to making nonsense rhymes about electric theater signs.

In the evening Roy Howard and Mistress Peg came and with them to the Park Lane to a dinner A. Eads gave and sat next to Mrs. Ned Jeffries, who is the fairest lady I have seen in many moons. All home late and so to bed.

They tell of two small time vaudeville actors who offered two trained ducks in an act. Their engagements were short and at long intervals. Then came a particularly long time they were at liberty. Finally a booking office wrote them: "Can offer you split week at Metuchen, N. J." Two days later come a telegram collect: "To late. We ate the act."

De Segurola, the singer, is back in town with the ever present monocle and a set of sideburns that may be described as just perfectly dandy. They run down below the middle of the cheek and turn at a sharp angle toward the chin. There has been quite a revival of sideburns lately. Up until this time they have not for many years been worn save by stage butlers.

A theatrical manager and a newspaper publisher journeyed to theater recently with a group of friends. Afterward the publisher asked if there was any place they all might like to go. The theatrical manager suggested a very exclusive homelike place where excellent food was served. It catered only to special parties. So after telephone arrangements off they went. They were admitted to a magnificent apartment by a Jap valet and there was a marvelous meal with proper trimmings. The publisher asked for the check and got one for $300. He paid it gladly and did not learn until several days later that the apartment was the theatrical manager's house and the whole thing had been pre-arranged.

It is a sad tale that Chief Tail Feather, an Oneida Indian, revealed to a New York magistrate. He tired of the medicine show business and came to New York, changed his name to Levy and opened a ham and eggery on Tenth avenue. Business prospered and he married a white woman. Immediately he asked her to do the cooking and in reply she bounced a $4.21 net coffee percolator off what had formerly been a fairly good head. Then she walked out. The chief closed his food laboratory, tucked his tomahawk in his beeveedees and is now back with a medicine show.

The champion nickel changer of New York is Miss Mae Davis, who presides at the Automat on Nassau street. She handles 300,000 nickles a day—mostly around the lunch hour and in all the years she has been there she has not made one mistake. There are now six Automats in New York. When they first started it was considered a silly venture. Vaudeville rang with jokes about it. Now it is patronized by the rich as well as poor.

DINNER STORIES

The young man and the girl were standing outside the front door having a final chat before he took his leave. He was leaning against the door post, talking in low tones. Presently the young lady looked round to discover her father in the doorway clad in a dressing gown.

"Why, father, what in the world is the matter?" she inquired.

"John," said the father, addressing himself to the young man, "you know I have never complained about your staying late, and I am not going to complain of that now; but for goodness sake stop leaning against the bell push and let the rest of the family get some sleep."

Uncle John watched his nephew and some other little boys playing at soldiers attacking a fort. "Tommy," he said, "if you and your side can take that fort in half an hour I'll give you a quarter."

About two minutes later there came an eager cry: "Uncle, can I have that quarter now? We've taken the fort."

"That was very smart," said Uncle John as he handed over the coin. "How did you manage it so quickly?"

"Oh, I just offered the other side a dime to give in," answered Tommy.

Haskin Letter

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

AMERICAN NUTS IN DEMAND

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—America's [illegible] for nuts is increasing. This means that more nut trees are being planted in the United States, and more nuts harvested. Even at that, the American crop is not big enough to fill the demand, and so we import, on an average, a million dollars' worth of nuts a week.

As one tree expert said, with an expansive wave of his hand: "The nut population of the United States is on the increase in every way."

It is especially interesting to find that the native American nuts are gaining favor. For years these native trees have been like an undeveloped and unnoticed gold mine. The early colonists ignored the delicious fruit of the black walnut tree, which was so plentiful here, and chose to import the so-called English walnut. This tree which is officially known as the Persian walnut, bore what the colonists rewarded as a civilized sort of nut. It had an easily cracked shell, and very good flavor. It was clean looking, and the tree was attractive for ornamental purposes.

Meantime, thousands of black walnut trees were being hacked down, because the wood made such beautiful balustrades, interior wood-work and furniture, and also, alas, because the black walnut was so durable for fence posts. The nuts, dirty black things, in heavy shells were admittedly of fine flavor, but shelling them was too tedious and annoying.

The point that was overlooked was that the Persian walnut was once a thick shelled, runty ball with no personality. But in nut trees, as in other forms of life, superior specimens occur by chance once in a while. The seed from a superior nut tree can be planted and by experimental work the desirable qualities are established. This was done centuries ago with the Persian walnut, and the result was so widely appreciated that in time the trees were planted by travelers and conquerors all over Asia and Europe.

The black walnut, however, is just emerging from its Cinderella stage. The shell of a nut would seem to be an unimportant part of it, because it is quickly removed and cast aside. And yet the shell is really so important that a nut's popularity cannot be established if it is handicapped in this respect. The rough, heavy shell, blackened by the stain from the outer husk, has always seriously damaged the native walnut's chances in the market. Recently, sand blasting has been attempted as a method of cleaning up the shells to their natural blondness, and washing them by machinery has been successfully tried.

Improvements are also being made along the line of cracking qualities. A variety of walnut recently produced does not shatter into bits when the shell is crushed. The claim made for this new variety is that 90 per cent of the nuts can be cracked so that the kernels remain in unbroken halves.

MAY DEVELOP THIN SHELL

A really thin shelled nut may yet be produced by some earnest experimenter. A paper shelled black walnut may sound like an absurdity, but the big, thin shelled pecan has been developed in this country from a species which is naturally a hard, wild little nut with very little to recommend it.

The Persian walnut and almond in their present states represent centuries of slow and often haphazard cultivation. Yet the same measure of development has been attained by the pecan in a little more than a quarter of a century. And with present day progress in grafting and cultivation we may expect still more remarkable results to come.

There are only three kinds of nuts which are being reproduced on a large commercial scale in this country. The west coast is doing a flourishing business in Persian walnuts and almonds. The pecan has proved attractive to the south from Texas to Georgia and up along the southern Atlantic coast. The entire California walnut crop, amounting to 48,000,000 pounds and valued at $15,000,000, was sold in 48 hours this year, partly because the nut crop is a little short, and partly because of the increasing demand.

The pecan industry of the south is also doing surprisingly well, in view of the difficulties it has had with speculation, bad years and some misguided enthusiasm. The first success with cultivated, thin shelled pecans attracted such great interest in the southern pecan orchards that speculators bought up quantities of land cheap and planted pecans and sold the "orchards" for large profits. For a time it looked as though American speculation in pecans might rival the national record for oil speculation. Those pecan planters who succeeded took the trouble to investigate conditions and to go into the business in a strictly practical way.

For such specialists, the pecan industry is a sound one in the south. Pecans fill a gap in southern agriculture, because they can be grown in the rich, well drained bottom lands which are not suitable for fruit culture, and which cannot be planted to better advantage than with the pecans.

GROWN IN ODD CORNERS

The fact about nut trees which should recommend them particularly to Americans is that one or two trees can be planted in an odd corner of land and the nuts can be disposed of as an incidental sort of profit. C. A. Reed, nut culturist of the department of agriculture, says that there are few large sections of this country in which some kinds of nut trees cannot be grown, and that Americans should no longer neglect these profitable, usseful and beautiful trees.

A nut of the black walnut tree planted in an unused corner of good, moist, well drained soil may produce a peck of nuts when it is only six years old. From that early start, a walnut tree, if well cared for, may go on bearing nuts each year for the best part of a century—and, then again, it may bear nuts very irregularly. The point is that if the tree is standing on unused ground, any nuts whatever represent profit. At the same time the tree is giving shade, and by the time it is 40 or 50 years old it may be worth several hundred dollars as timber. The same facts apply, more or less, to the hickory and other nut trees. Walnut is emphasized mainly because it grows in most parts of the country, because it has great value as a timber crop and because the demand for the nuts is increasing. Black walnut is one of the few nuts which retain their flavor after cooking. Eastern Tennessee alone is marketing 200,000 pounds of black walnut kernels a year.

In a farmers' bulletin on the subject of black walnut, Mr. Reed says: "There is enough unused but fetile land well suited to walnut planting on steep hillsides, along ditches, on stream banks, by roadways, in private lanes and drives, fence corners, parks, dooryards, to afford abundant opportunity for rapid and normal expansion of the black walnut industry at inappreciable cost.

"Great and worthy public service may be rendered by planting black walnut trees in such places. School teachers can do a great deal by encouraging children to plant useful tree seeds wherever there are idle areas of fertile land."

The black walnut is particularly fitting as a memorial tree, because of the part which it played in the recent war. The wood of this tree was the most desirable material for airplane propellers, gun stocks, and shells of the nuts were used in the manufacture of carbon for gas masks. The department of agriculture points out that native walnut trees should be planted for patriotic reasons, if for no other, because in the event of another nation emergency the United States might have still more difficulty in locating these valuable trees than it had in 1918.

Motor Car Killings

The problem of improving traffic conditions and lessening motor accidents is not confined to any city or state. Figures based on a survey covering the 3 states in which vital statistics are recorded, reveal interesting data concerning accident deaths.

In the first place, it is shown that one-fourth of all fatalities by accidents in the United States in 1923 were from motor car accidents. Such deaths were twice as numerous in cities as in rural districts. Only three states, Kentucky, Wyoming and Mississippi, had more deaths from railroads than from motor cars.

California had the highest mortality rate from motor accidents, 32.6 to 100,000 of population. Mississippi had the lowest, 44 to 100,000. The latter state is likely to pick up with population growth, road development and increased use of automobiles, unless it devises new and better ways to solve the problem that every state is facing

Of 66 cities of 100,000 population or more Camden, N. J., had the highest mortality rate from motor car accidents and New Bedford, Mass., the lowest. Fort Worth, Tex., seems to be the safest city of its size in the land. Its fatality rate from all kinds of accidents was only 47.3.

Such figures may not reduce the preventable death toll in themselves, but they help to emphasize the need for prompt and wise action.

Nonsensical Crosswords

Here is a brave man who dares to cross the cross-word puzzlers. The superintendent of schools in Kansas City, Mo., comes right out bluntly and says:

"The cross-word puzzle is not only a fad, but it is nonsensical, and, like all puzzles, it has very little educational value. We need to teach things in the schools that have some bearing on life's problems. The cross-word puzzle is a fad, and it has no place in the curriculum of any school."

This is said after others have tried to explain the epidemic which has recently swept the country by calling it educational.

Like other guessing games and puzzles and wit-teasers, the cross-word puzzle is rather fun if not taken too seriously. One that is cleverly worked out and then solved quickly for pastime certainly does no one any harm and serves the purpose of any similar game.

But the cross-word puzzle fad that has taken so many homes by storm probably has little to recommend it. When hours of time are spent in solving these puzzles or in making up posers to set before one's friends, the thing has gone to an extreme, and extremes are rarely wholesome or justifiable.

People who cry out against the cross-word puzzle, however, are almost as foolish as those who take it as seriously as their daily bread The very fact that this old pastime has suddenly sprung into national and almost international prominence and that "everybody is doing it" points to its early downfall.

Radio Dictatorship

Secretary of Commerce Hoover withdraws his support from pending legislation for complete federal radio regulation. He thinks the time has not come yet for such action, because radio development is still in the formative stage, with conditions likely to develop which cannot be foreseen now.

It will be enough, suggests Mr. Hoover, if the present very general radio laws are continued, with only such amendment as is needed to give the department of commerce better control over wireless communication.

What the secretary asks for seems to be really blanket powers to go ahead and regulate the industry as it develops from stage to stage, until such time as it is established definitely enough to warrant more specific regulation by congress. Ordinarily congress and the public might both balk at such a suggestion. It is generally felt, however, that Secretary Hoover's control of radio so far has been cautious and wise, interfering as little as possible with natural development, and he can probably be trusted not to abuse any authority granted him in this field.

WE HAVE CONTRASTS

NORTH PLATTE, Neb., Dec. 22—Life and climate in the United States are not monotonous. Violent contrasts make existence interesting. For instance, this train left on Tuesday over the Southern Pacific from San Francisco, where the average summer temperature is 50, and the average winter temperature 51. Leaving Cheyenne now, on the Union Pacific system, going from Wyoming into Nebraska the conductor tells you "it's six below zero now and getting colder."

"NO COMPETITION," COOLIDGE RIGHT

An Omaha newspaper quotes President Coolidge as opposed to any armament competition with other nations. The president is right.

There should be no competition but absolute unquestioned supremacy. This nation should be beyond competition, it should have everything needed to make successful attack impossible, and then stop regardless of what others do.

As part of the plan for peace through preparation, the United States should have a fleet of flying ships, at least double that of any other nation in the world. We have twice as much territory worth defending as any other modern nation.

The British set the example. They are not competing with other nations, they simply take steps to make the British empire safe.

When the war came we were glad to have British ships carry our soldiers, goods and passengers. After we entered the war, we were glad to know that the British fleet and British submarines made impossible any German raid across the Atlantic.

BUT WE LACK SAFETY

The president, you may be sure, objects to an out-of-date foolish plan for building battleships, to oblige the powers that control our navy. These powers are the oil companies and the steel companies. Oil companies want battleships to burn oil steel companies want the forty-five million dollar jobs.

The president knows that the battleship is out of date and that the cost of one battleship, $45,000,000, spent by honest engineers, not by patriotic grafters," would give this country a flying fleet half as great as that of France. The cost of two battleships would give us a fleet of airships as great as any in the world. And the price of five battleships, which is what we ought to spend on flying machines now, would make this country safe in the air, and therefore safe everywhere.

WE WANT SUPREMACY

Times and methods change, human character changes little, and that desire for conquest and revenue changes not at all. Desire is strong at this moment in Asia. For centuries the women and children of eastern Europe lived in horror of the brown and yellow men with slanting eyes and heavy swords that came on foot and on shaggy ponies, marching westward, killing and devouring as they passed.

The next visit from Asia will come through the air, not on foot, not bound for Europe, but flying across the Pacific ocean bound for this country. At this moment Asia could send, carried in huge freighters to avoid the 7,000-mile flight, enough machines to destroy all the principal cities on the Pacific coast. And that is fact, not theory.

So says the man, afraid somebody will tax him for national protection.

The middle-aged, plump owner of a grocery store may also be rich, prosperous, standing well with his neighbors. But a thin, consumptive, hollow-chested, drug-eastic gunman, with a revolver, can hold him up, clean out his place and stretch him dead.

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

By LLOYD LEHRBAS.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—The election of President Coolidge, carrying with it a continuance of the "common sense policies" with which he made his appeal to the American people, is generally looked upon by staunch friends of the Latin-American countries in Washington as an indication that increasingly strong efforts will be made by the government toward bringing the United States and her sister republic in South America into an even closer friendship and understanding.

President Coolidge's friendly feeling toward Argentina, Brazil, Mexico and the other republics which give the Americas almost a monopoly on the republics of the world, has been shown markedly in numerous instances; and Secretary of State Charles Evans Hughes, who will remain at the helm of the American ship of state, has also expressed his unwavering friendship in no uncertain terms on every occasion when relations between the United States and the Latin-American countries have been discussed.

President Coolidge's friendly atttitude toward the Latin-American republics has been emphasized with actions as well as by words within very recent days, notably in the reception accorded President Calles, of Mexico; the appointment of General John J. Pershing and his distinguished confreres as the American representatives at the celebration of the battle of Ayacucho, at Lima, and in the welcome extended to the new minister from Ecuador, Senor Francisco Ochoa-Ortiz, who succeeded Dr. Rafael H. Elizalde.

General Calles was the guest of President Coolidge at lunch and at an afternoon chat at the White House; the guest of Secretary Hughes at a formal dinner, and the guest of other dignitaries during his visit, and at all times was received most cordially. General Calles was extremely outspoken in his expression of friendliness toward the United States and expressed in glowing language the high regard he had for the American president, whom he met for the first time. President Coolidge, in American slang, made "a hit" with General Calles.

President Coolidge has long held that the various Pan-American conferences held from time to time are of the utmost importance to all of the nations in the two Americas and has suited his actions to his words by making careful choice of the American delegates to all such functions, always choosing men of marked ability and friendliness. An instance in point is the selection of delegates for the Lima celebration, when the named General Pershing, the United States' outstanding soldier, as ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary; and Rear Admiral John H. Dayton and ex-Congressman Frederick C. Hicks, of New York, as envoys extraordinary and ministers plenipotentiary.

Any American administration will naturally be judged in South American countries by the attitude it has toward the Monroe Doctrine, and in that both President Coolidge and Secretary of State Hughes have expressed themselves most forcibly and clearly on a number of occasions.

Secretary of State Hughes, speaking as the official spokesman of the United States, at Brazil's celebration of her independence, held at Rio de Janeiro, gave the keynote of the American attitude toward all questions affecting South American republics when he said:

"We covet no territory; we seek no conquest; the liberty we cherish for ourselves we desire for others; and we assert no rights for ourselves that we do not accord to others. We sincerely desire to see throughout this hemisphere an abiding peace, the reign of justice, and the diffusion of the blessings of a beneficent co-operation. It is this desire that forms the basis of the Pan-American sentiment."

In an address before the American Bar association, the secretary of state emphasized the following points:

"The Monroe Doctrine is not a policy of aggression. It is a policy of self-defense.

"The policy of the Monroe Doctrine does not infringe upon the independence and sovereignty of other American states.

"So far as the Caribbean Sea is concerned, it may be said that if we had no Monroe Doctrine we should have to create one.

"It is apparent that the Monroe Doctrine does not stand in the way of Pan-American co-operation; rather it affords the necessary foundation for that co-operation in the independence and security of American state.

"The Monroe Doctrine is not an obstacle to a wider international co-operation, beyond the limits of the Pan-American aims and interests, whenever that co-operation is congenial to American institutions."

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—A page from the diary of a modern Samuel Pepys: Early out to buy some trifles and a high wind had flung down many signs. Then came clouds so black all street and shop lamps were lighted, which somehow pleased me.

Home again and to breakfast with Merle Crowell, the editor, and afterward to a toy store and such is the low order of my intellect I enjoyed browsing around there more than I have in great art galleries.

Walked about along the Rialto and fell in with William Boyd, the actor, and Joe King joined us and we fell to making nonsense rhymes about electric theater signs.

In the evening Roy Howard and Mistress Peg came and with them to the Park Lane to a dinner A. Eads gave and sat next to Mrs. Ned Jeffries, who is the fairest lady I have seen in many moons. All home late and so to bed.

They tell of two small time vaudeville actors who offered two trained ducks in an act. Their engagements were short and at long intervals. Then came a particularly long time they were at liberty. Finally a booking office wrote them: "Can offer you split week at Metuchen, N. J." Two days later come a telegram collect: "To late. We ate the act."

De Segurola, the singer, is back in town with the ever present monocle and a set of sideburns that may be described as just perfectly dandy. They run down below the middle of the cheek and turn at a sharp angle toward the chin. There has been quite a revival of sideburns lately. Up until this time they have not for many years been worn save by stage butlers.

A theatrical manager and a newspaper publisher journeyed to theater recently with a group of friends. Afterward the publisher asked if there was any place they all might like to go. The theatrical manager suggested a very exclusive homelike place where excellent food was served. It catered only to special parties. So after telephone arrangements off they went. They were admitted to a magnificent apartment by a Jap valet and there was a marvelous meal with proper trimmings. The publisher asked for the check and got one for $300. He paid it gladly and did not learn until several days later that the apartment was the theatrical manager's house and the whole thing had been pre-arranged.

It is a sad tale that Chief Tail Feather, an Oneida Indian, revealed to a New York magistrate. He tired of the medicine show business and came to New York, changed his name to Levy and opened a ham and eggery on Tenth avenue. Business prospered and he married a white woman. Immediately he asked her to do the cooking and in reply she bounced a $4.21 net coffee percolator off what had formerly been a fairly good head. Then she walked out. The chief closed his food laboratory, tucked his tomahawk in his beeveedees and is now back with a medicine show.

The champion nickel changer of New York is Miss Mae Davis, who presides at the Automat on Nassau street. She handles 300,000 nickles a day—mostly around the lunch hour and in all the years she has been there she has not made one mistake. There are now six Automats in New York. When they first started it was considered a silly venture. Vaudeville rang with jokes about it. Now it is patronized by the rich as well as poor.

DINNER STORIES

The young man and the girl were standing outside the front door having a final chat before he took his leave. He was leaning against the door post, talking in low tones. Presently the young lady looked round to discover her father in the doorway clad in a dressing gown.

"Why, father, what in the world is the matter?" she inquired.

"John," said the father, addressing himself to the young man, "you know I have never complained about your staying late, and I am not going to complain of that now; but for goodness sake stop leaning against the bell push and let the rest of the family get some sleep."

Uncle John watched his nephew and some other little boys playing at soldiers attacking a fort. "Tommy," he said, "if you and your side can take that fort in half an hour I'll give you a quarter."

About two minutes later there came an eager cry: "Uncle, can I have that quarter now? We've taken the fort."

"That was very smart," said Uncle John as he handed over the coin. "How did you manage it so quickly?"

"Oh, I just offered the other side a dime to give in," answered Tommy.

Haskin Letter

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

AMERICAN NUTS IN DEMAND

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—America's for nuts is increasing. This means that more trees are being planted in the United States, and more nuts harvested. Even at that, the American crop is not big enough to fill the demand, and so we import, on an average, a million dollars' worth of nuts a week.

As one tree expert said, with an expansive wave of his hand: "The nut population of the United States is on the increase in every way."

It is especially interesting to find that the native American nuts are gaining favor. For years these native trees have been like an undeveloped and unnoticed gold mine. The early colonists ignored the delicious fruit of the black walnut tree, which was so plentiful here, and chose to import the so-called English walnut. This tree which is officially known as the Persian walnut, bore what the colonists rewarded as a civilized sort of nut. It had an easily cracked shell, and very good flavor. It was clean looking, and the tree was attractive for ornamental purposes.

Meantime, thousands of black walnut trees were being hacked down, because the wood made such beautiful balustrades, interior wood-work and furniture, and also, alas, because the black walnut was so durable for fence posts. The nuts, dirty black things, in heavy shells were admittedly of fine flavor, but shelling them was too tedious and annoying.

The point that was overlooked was that the Persian walnut was once a thick shelled, runty bait with no personality. But in nut trees, as in other forms of life, superior specimens occur by chance once in a while. The seed from a superior nut tree can be planted and by experimental work the desirable qualities are established. This was done centuries ago with the Persian walnut, and the result was so widely appreciated that in time the trees were planted by travelers and conquerors all over Asia and Europe.

The black walnut, however, is just emerging from its Cinderella stage. The shell of a nut would seem to be an unimportant part of it, because it is quickly removed and cast aside. And yet the shell is really so important that a nut's popularity cannot be established if it is handicapped in this respect. The rough, heavy shell, blackened by the stain from the outer husk, has always seriously damaged the native walnut's chances in the market. Recently, sand blasting has been attempted as a method of cleaning up the shells to their natural blondness and washing them by machinery has been successfully tried.

Improvements are also being made along the line of cracking qualities. A variety of walnut recently produced does not shatter into bits when the shell is crushed. The claim made for this new variety is that 90 per cent of the nuts can be cracked so that the kernels remain in unbroken halves.

MAY DEVELOP THIN SHELL

A really thin shelled nut may yet be produced by some earnest experimenter. A paper shelled black walnut may sound like an absurdity, but the big thin shelled pecan has been developed in this country from a species which is naturally a hard, wild little nut with very little to recommend it.

The Persian walnut and almond in their present states represent centuries of slow and often haphazard cultivation. Yet the same measure of development has been attained by the pecan in a little more than a quarter of a century. And with present day progress in grafting and cultivation we may expect still more remarkable results to come.

There are only three kinds of nuts which are being reproduced on a large commercial scale in this country. The west coast is doing a flourishing business in Persian walnuts and almonds. The pecan has proved attractive to the south from Texas to Georgia and up along the southern Atlantic coast. The entire California walnut crop, amounting to 48,000,000 pounds and valued at $15,000,000, was sold in 48 hours this year, partly because the nut crop is a little short, and partly because of the increasing demand.

The pecan industry of the south is also doing surprisingly well, in view of the difficulties it has had with speculation, bad years and some misguided enthusiasm. The first success with cultivated, thin shelled pecans attracted such great interest in the southern pecan orchards that speculators bought up quantities of land cheap and planted pecans and sold the "orchards" for large profits. For a time it looked as though American speculation in pecans might rival the national record for oil speculation. Those pecan planters who succeeded took the trouble to investigate conditions and to go into the business in a strictly practical way.

For such specialists, the pecan industry is a sound one in the south. Pecans fill a gap in southern agriculture, because they can be grown in the rich, well drained bottom lands which are not suitable for fruit culture, and which cannot be planted to better advantage than with the pecans.

GROWN IN ODD CORNERS

The fact about nut trees which should recommend them particularly to Americans is that one or two trees can be planted in an odd corner of land and the nuts can be disposed of as an incidental sort of profit. C. A. Reed, nut culturist of the department of agriculture, says that there are few large sections of this country in which some kinds of nut trees cannot be grown, and that Americans should no longer neglect these profitable, usseful and [illegible] trees.

A nut of the black walnut tree planted in an unused corner of good, moist, well drained soil may produce a peck of nuts when it is only six years old. From that early start, a walnut tree, if well cared for, may go on bearing nuts each year for the best part of a century—and, then again, it may bear nuts very irregularly. The point is that if the tree is standing on unused ground, any nuts whatever represent profit. At the same time the tree is giving shade, and by the time it is 40 or 50 years old it may be worth several hundred dollars as timber. The same facts apply, more or less, to the hickory and other nut trees. Walnut is emphasized mainly because it grows in most parts of the country, because it has great value as a timber crop and because the demand for the nuts is increasing. Black walnut is one of the few nuts which retain their flavor after cooking. Eastern Tennessee alone is marketing 200,000 pounds of black walnut kernels a year.

In a farmers' bulletin on the subject of black walnut, Mr. Reed says: "There is enough unused but fetile land well suited to walnut planting on steep hillsides, along ditches, on stream banks, by roadways, in private lanes and drives, fence corners, parks, dooryards, to afford abundant opportunity for rapid and normal expansion of the black walnut industry at inappreciable cost.

"Great and worthy public service may be rendered by planting black walnut trees in such places. School teachers can do a great deal by encouraging children to plant useful tree seeds wherever there are idle areas of fertile land."

The black walnut is particularly fitting as a memorial tree, because of the part which it played in the recent war. The wood of this tree was the most desirable material for airplane propellers, gun stocks, and shells of the nuts were used in the manufacture of carbon for gas masks. The department of agriculture points out that native walnut trees should be planted for patriotic reasons, if for no other, because in the event of another nation emergency the United States might have still more difficulty in locating these valuable trees than it had in 1918.

An Omaha newspaper quotes President Coolidge as opposed to any armament competition with other nations. The president is right.

There should be no competition but absolute unquestioned supremacy. This nation should be beyond competition, it should have everything needed to make successful attack impossible, and then stop regardless of what others do.

As part of the plan for peace through preparation, the United States should have a fleet of flying ships, at least double that of any other nation in the world. We have twice as much territory worth defending as any other modern nation.

The British set the example. They are not competing with other nations, they simply take steps to make the British empire safe.

When the war came we were glad to have British ships carry our soldiers, goods and passengers. After we entered the war, we were glad to know that the British fleet and British submarines made impossible any German raid across the Atlantic.

BUT WE LACK SAFETY

The president, you may be sure, objects to an out-of-date foolish plan for building battleships, to oblige the powers that control our navy. These powers are the oil companies and the steel companies. Oil companies want battleships to burn oil, steel companies want the forty-five million dollar jobs.

The president knows that the battleship is out of date and that the cost of one battleship, $45,000,000, spent by honest engineers, not by patriotic grafters," would give this country a flying fleet half as great as that of France. The cost of two battleships would give us a fleet of airships as great as any in the world. And the price of five battleships, which is what we ought to spend on flying machines now, would make this country safe in the air, and therefore safe everywhere.

WE WANT SUPREMACY

Times and methods change, human character changes little, and that desire for conquest and revenue changes not at all. Desire is strong at this moment in Asia. For centuries the women and children of eastern Europe lived in horror of the brown and yellow men with slanting eyes and heavy swords that came on foot and on shaggy ponies, marching westward, killing and devouring as they passed.

The next visit from Asia will come through the air, not on foot, not bound for Europe, but flying across the Pacific ocean bound for this country. At this moment Asia could send, carried in huge freighters to avoid the 7,000-mile flight, enough machines to destroy all the principal cities on the Pacific coast. And that is fact, not theory.

So says the man, afraid somebody will tax him for national protection.

The middle-aged, plump owner of a grocery store may also be rich, prosperous, standing well with his neighbors. But a thin, consumptive, hollow-chested, drug-eating gunman, with a revolver, can hold him up, clean out his place and stretch him dead.

A Democratic Practice.

President Coolidge's example of practicing what he preaches on economy, by patronizing an ordinary Pullman car on his trip to Chicago, not only is a praiseworthy New England trait, but carries out the idea of democracy with the chief executive on the same plane with the rest of us.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

By LLOYD LEHRBAS.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—The election of President Coolidge, carrying with it a continuance of the "common sense policies" with which he made his appeal to the American people, is generally looked upon by staunch friends of the Latin-American countries in Washington as an indication that increasingly strong efforts will be made by the government toward bringing the United States and her sister republic in South America into an even closer friendship and understanding.

President Coolidge's friendly feeling toward Argentina, Brazil, Mexico and the other republics which give the Americas almost a monopoly on the republics of the world, has been shown markedly in numerous instances; and Secretary of State Charles Evans Hughes, who will remain at the helm of the American ship of state, has also expressed his unwavering friendship in no uncertain terms on every occasion when relations between the United States and the Latin-American countries have been discussed.

President Coolidge's friendly atttitude toward the Latin-American republics has been emphasized with actions as well as by words within very recent days, notably in the reception accorded President Calles, of Mexico; the appointment of General John J. Pershing and his distinguished confreres as the American representatives at the celebration of the battle of Ayacucho, at Lima, and in the welcome extended to the new minister from Ecuador, Senor Francisco Ochoa-Ortiz, who succeeded Dr. Rafael H. Elizalde.

General Calles was the guest of President Coolidge at lunch and at an afternoon chat at the White House; the guest of Secretary Hughes at a formal dinner, and the guest of other dignitaries during his visit, and at all times was received most cordially. General Calles was extremely outspoken in his expression of friendliness toward the United States and expressed in glowing language the high regard he had for the American president, whom he met for the first time. President Coolidge, in American slang, made "a hit" with General Calles.

President Coolidge has long held that the various Pan-American conferences held from time to time are of the utmost importance to all of the nations in the two Americas and has suited his actions to his words by making careful choice of the American delegates to all such functions, always choosing men of marked ability and friendliness. An instance in point is the selection of delegates for the Lima celebration, when the named General Pershing, the United States' outstanding soldier, as ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary; and Rear Admiral John H. Dayton and ex-Congressman Frederick C. Hicks, of New York, as envoys extraordinary and ministers plenipotentiary.

Any American administration will naturally be judged in South American countries by the attitude it has toward the Monroe Doctrine, and in that both President Coolidge and Secretary of State Hughes have expressed themselves most forcibly and clearly on a number of occasions.

Secretary of State Hughes, speaking as the official spokesman of the United States, at Brazil's celebration of her independence, held at Rio de Janeiro, gave the keynote of the American attitude toward all questions affecting South American republics when he said:

"We covet no territory; we seek no conquest; the liberty we cherish for ourselves we desire for others; and we assert no rights for ourselves that we do not accord to others. We sincerely desire to see throughout this hemisphere an abiding peace, the reign of justice, and the diffusion of the blessings of a beneficent co-operation. It is this desire that forms the basis of the Pan-American sentiment."

In an address before the American Bar association, the secretary of state emphasized the following points:

"The Monroe Doctrine is not a policy of aggression. It is a policy of self-defense.

"The policy of the Monroe Doctrine does not infringe upon the independence and sovereignty of other American states.

"So far as the Caribbean Sea is concerned, it may be said that if we had no Monroe Doctrine we should have to create one.

"It is apparent that the Monroe Doctrine does not stand in the way of Pan-American co-operation; rather it affords the necessary foundation for that co-operation in the independence and security of American state.

"The Monroe Doctrine is not an obstacle to a wider international co-operation, beyond the limits of the Pan-American aims and interests, whenever that co-operation is congenial to American institutions."

The test of generosity is the ability to contribute liberally to a worthy cause even when a tightwad does the collecting.—Akron (O.) Beacon-Journal.

Hostesses for barber shops are the very latest—which seems to use to be setting up an unfair opposition to manicure girls.—Columbus (O.) Dispatch.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—A page from the diary of a modern Samuel Pepys: Early out to buy some trifles and a high wind had flung down many signs. Then came clouds so black all street and shop lamps were lighted, which somehow pleased me.

Home again and to breakfast with Merle Crowell, the editor, and afterward to a toy store and such is the low order of my intellect I enjoyed browsing around there more than I have in great art galleries.

Walked about along the Rialto and fell in with William Boyd, the actor, and Joe King joined us and we fell to making nonsense rhymes about electric theater signs.

In the evening Roy Howard and Mistress Peg came and with them to the Park Lane to a dinner A. Eads gave and sat next to Mrs. Ned Jeffries, who is the fairest lady I have seen in many moons. All home late and so to bed.

They tell of two small time vaudeville actors who offered two trained ducks in an act. Their engagements were short and at long intervals. Then came a particularly long time they were at liberty. Finally a booking office wrote them: "Can offer you split week at Metuchen, N. J." Two days later come a telegram collect: "To late. We ate the act."

De Segurola, the singer, is back in town with the ever present monocle and a set of sideburns that may be described as just perfectly dandy. They run down below the middle of the cheek and turn at a sharp angle toward the chin. There has been quite a revival of sideburns lately. Up until this time they have not for many years been worn save by stage butlers.

A theatrical manager and a newspaper publisher journeyed to theater recently with a group of friends. Afterward the publisher asked if there was any place they all might like to go. The theatrical manager suggested a very exclusive homelike place where excellent food was served. It catered only to special parties. So after telephone arrangements off they went. They were admitted to a magnificent apartment by a Jap valet and there was a marvelous meal with proper trimmings. The publisher asked for the check and got one for $300. He paid it gladly and did not learn until several days later that the apartment was the theatrical manager's house and the whole thing had been pre-arranged.

It is a sad tale that Chief Tail Feather, an Oneida Indian, revealed to a New York magistrate. He tired of the medicine show business and came to New York, changed his name to Levy and opened a ham and eggery on Tenth avenue. Business prospered and he married a white woman. Immediately he asked her to do the cooking and in reply she bounced a $4.21 net coffee percolator off what had formerly been a fairly good head. Then she walked out. The chief closed his food laboratory, tucked his tomahawk in his beeveedees and is now back with a medicine show.

The champion nickel changer of New York is Miss Mae Davis, who presides at the Automat on Nassau street. She handles 300,000 nickles a day—mostly around the lunch hour and in all the years she has been there she has not made one mistake. There are now six Automats in New York. When they first started it was considered a silly venture. Vaudeville rang with jokes about it. Now it is patronized by the rich as well as poor.

DINNER STORIES

The young man and the girl were standing outside the front door having a final chat before he took his leave. He was leaning against the door post, talking in low tones. Presently the young lady looked round to discover her father in the doorway clad in a dressing gown.

"Why, father, what in the world is the matter?" she inquired.

"John," said the father, addressing himself to the young man, "you know I have never complained about your staying late, and I am not going to complain of that now; but for goodness sake stop leaning against the bell push and let the rest of the family get some sleep."

Uncle John watched his nephew and some other little boys playing at soldiers attacking a fort. "Tommy," he said, "if you and your side can take that fort in half an hour I'll give you a quarter."

About two minutes later there came an eager cry: "Uncle, can I have that quarter now? We've taken the fort."

"That was very smart," said Uncle John as he handed over the coin. "How did you manage it so quickly?"

"Oh, I just offered the other side a dime to give in," answered Tommy.

Haskin Letter

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

AMERICAN NUTS IN DEMAND

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—America's [illegible] for nuts is increasing. This means that more nut trees are being planted in the United States, and more nuts harvested. Even at that, the American crop is not big enough to fill the demand, and so we import, on an average, a million dollars' worth of nuts a week.

As one tree expert said, with an expansive wave of his hand: "The nut population of the United States is on the increase in every way."

It is especially interesting to find that the native American nuts are gaining favor. For years these native trees have been like an undeveloped and unnoticed gold mine. The early colonists ignored the delicious fruit of the black walnut tree, which was so plentiful here, and chose to import the so-called English walnut. This tree which is officially known as the Persian walnut, bore what the colonists rewarded as a civilized sort of nut. It had an easily cracked shell, and very good flavor. It was clean looking, and the tree was attractive for ornamental purposes.

Meantime, thousands of black walnut trees were being hacked down, because the wood made such beautiful balustrades, interior wood-work and furniture, and also, alas, because the black walnut was so durable for fence posts. The nuts, dirty black things, in heavy shells were admittedly of fine flavor, but shelling them was too tedious and annoying.

The point that was overlooked was that the Persian walnut was once a thick shelled, runty ball with no personality. But in nut trees, as in other forms of life, superior specimens occur by chance once in a while. The seed from a superior nut tree can be planted and by experimental work the desirable qualities are established. This was done centuries ago with the Persian walnut, and the result was so widely appreciated that in time the trees were planted by travelers and conquerors all over Asia and Europe.

The black walnut, however, is just emerging from its Cinderella stage. The shell of a nut would seem to be an unimportant part of it, because it is quickly removed and cast aside. And yet the shell is really so important that a nut's popularity cannot be established if it is handicapped in this respect. The rough, heavy shell, blackened by the stain from the outer husk, has always seriously damaged the native walnut's chances in the market. Recently, sand blasting has been attempted as a method of cleaning up the shells to their natural blondness, and washing them by machinery has been successfully tried.

Improvements are also being made along the line of cracking qualities. A variety of walnut recently produced does not shatter into bits when the shell is crushed. The claim made for this new variety is that 90 per cent of the nuts can be cracked so that the kernels remain in unbroken halves.

MAY DEVELOP THIN SHELL

A really thin shelled nut may yet be produced by some earnest experimenter. A paper shelled black walnut may sound like an absurdity, but the big thin shelled pecan has been developed in this country from a species which is naturally a hard, wild little nut with very little to recommend it.

The Persian walnut and almond in their present states represent centuries of slow and often haphazard cultivation. Yet the same measure of development has been attained by the pecan in a little more than a quarter of a century. And with present day progress in grafting and cultivation we may expect still more remarkable results to come.

There are only three kinds of nuts which are being reproduced on a large commercial scale in this country. The west coast is doing a flourishing business in Persian walnuts and almonds. The pecan has proved attractive to the south from Texas to Georgia and up along the southern Atlantic coast. The entire California walnut crop, amounting to 48,000,000 pounds and valued at $15,000,000, was sold in 48 hours this year, partly because the nut crop is a little short, and partly because of the increasing demand.

The pecan industry of the south is also doing surprisingly well, in view of the difficulties it has had with speculation, bad years and some misguided enthusiasm. The first success with cultivated, thin shelled pecans attracted such great interest in the southern pecan orchards that speculators bought up quantities of land cheap and planted pecans and sold the "orchards" for large profits. For a time it looked as though American speculation in pecans might rival the national record for oil speculation. Those pecan planters who succeeded took the trouble to investigate conditions and to go into the business in a strictly practical way.

For such specialists, the pecan industry is a sound one in the south. Pecans fill a gap in southern agriculture, because they can be grown in the rich, well drained bottom lands which are not suitable for fruit culture, and which cannot be planted to better advantage than with the pecans.

GROWN IN ODD CORNERS

The fact about nut trees which should recommend them particularly to Americans is that one or two trees can be planted in an odd corner of land and the nuts can be disposed of as an incidental sort of profit. C. A. Reed, nut culturist of the department of agriculture, says that there are few large sections of this country in which some kinds of nut trees cannot be grown, and that Americans should no longer neglect these profitable, usseful and beautiful trees.

A nut of the black walnut tree planted in an unused corner of good, moist, well drained soil may produce a peck of nuts when it is only six years old. From that early start, a walnut tree, if well cared for, may go on bearing nuts each year for the best part of a century—and, then again, it may bear nuts very irregularly. The point is that if the tree is standing on unused ground, any nuts whatever represent profit. At the same time the tree is giving shade, and by the time it is 40 or 50 years old it may be worth several hundred dollars as timber. The same facts apply, more or less, to the hickory and other nut trees. Walnut is emphasized mainly because it grows in most parts of the country, because it has great value as a timber crop and because the demand for the nuts is increasing. Black walnut is one of the few nuts which retain their flavor after cooking. Eastern Tennessee alone is marketing 200,000 pounds of black walnut kernels a year.

In a farmers' bulletin on the subject of black walnut, Mr. Reed says: "There is enough unused but fetile land well suited to walnut planting on steep hillsides, along ditches, on stream banks, by roadways, in private lanes and drives, fence corners, parks, dooryards, to afford abundant opportunity for rapid and normal expansion of the black walnut industry at inappreciable cost.

"Great and worthy public service may be rendered by planting black walnut trees in such places. School teachers can do a great deal by encouraging children to plant useful tree seeds wherever there are idle areas of fertile land."

The black walnut is particularly fitting as a memorial tree, because of the part which it played in the recent war. The wood of this tree was the most desirable material for airplane propellers and gun stocks, and shells of the nuts were used in the manufacture of carbon for gas masks. The department of agriculture points out that native walnut trees should be planted for patriotic reasons, if for no other, because in the event of another nation emergency the United States might have still more difficulty in locating these valuable trees than it had in 1918.

HEART AND HOME PROBLEMS
BY MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Do Boys Like Flirts?

Dear Mrs. Thompson: What do boys think of girls who flirt? When I go with my girl friend she always gives some answer to anybody she hears talking. The person is not talking to her. I have tried to convince her that this is not right. It is always a boy she answers whether he is nice or not. I feel very cheap when she does this any I am afraid the boys judge me by her. Will some boy please answer this letter and tell me what he hinks? We are both seventeen. I like to flirt with a boy who looks decent and nicely dressed, but I don't do it in a rude, bold manner. Please answer, somebody. CUB.

Any well-bred person would find your friend's boldness offensive, I am sure. Men of refinement do not like to make themselves conspicuous and they are distressed when they are made conspicuous by a woman. Flirting is cheap and easily detected and so I would not advise you to indulge even if you think you are doing it in a lady-like manner. I will gladly print two or three letters in answer to your question.

Shall She Give Gift.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am working for some wealthy people as maid. I aw wondering whether it would be all right to give this lady a present for Christmas. I would like to give her flowers or a plant. She is very nice and helps me along wonderfully. She lets me use her sewing machine and shows me how to do a lot of fancy work. MABLE S.

It would be very nice for you to give the woman you work for flowers or a plant. I am sure that she would appreciate greatly your expression of appreciation for what she has done.

Cannot Forget.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Can one love with the greatest devotion of heart and soul and after losing forget? Forget! How simple that word seems, but how hard it is to do. Always when a love affair is ended there is one who must suffer and be told by each friend to forget. I have loved and lost. It just seemed as if it wasn't to be. We are still friends but never see each other. I could not marry him. My parents disliked him and I would never marry against their will. All through my life they have been dear and wonderful to me. I am very unhappy. I don't care for anyone and just want to be alone. I am very melancholy and nervous and in somewhat ill health. I have lost my good appearance and don't care how I look. I let my pretty dresses hang in the closet. Am I just weak minded because I cannot forget? Say something to me that sounds possible and not that I should forget. Don't send me

FORGETMENOTS.

You are enjoying a broken-heart too much to want to forget and so for the time being you will probably give up to despondency. It is most certainly possible to control your thoughts. Don't let your mind dwell on your disappointment. When you find yourself thinking in that way, go out for a brisk walk, do some difficult task, or force yourself to read and follow what you are reading. You are not weak-minded, because one of these days you will get tired of grieving and will regain your former interest in life, but you are very foolish. My advice is to brace up at once, opening your eyes and heart to new happiness.

Distrusted.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl in my teens and am deeply in love with a young man six years my senior. He never did or said anything out of the way around me, but my folks didn't like him and won't let me go with him. Is it wrong for me to let him bring me home from church, parties, etc., against the wishes of my folks. If he does bring me should I tell them or not? So many girls have told me things that he has said and done that are so bad that it has almost killed my love for him, but I can't find out whether he has done them or not and hardly believe he has. Should I take their word for it or ask him? When I am with him by myself or with two or three others he acts all right and as though he is glad I am there, but when in company he acts ashamed of me.

BLUE EYES.

As long as your girl friends have told you unfavorable things about the young man and your parents instinctively distrust him, put him out of your mind. Even if you asked him if the stories were true you could not expect him to answer in a way that would compromise himself, and you would place your girl friends in a bad light. Do not let him accompany you home. If you do, however, in spite of what I say, be open and above board and tell your parents.

Miraculous Case.

DEFIANCE, O., Dec.—While shooting at a target, his rifle was accidentally discharged, sending a .22 caliber ball up his nose and between the two hemispheres of the brain, lodging in his head, yet Wilbur Green, 12, apparently is recovering. Physicians said it would be almost impossible to remove the bullet.

Homer Sings Two "Mignon" Numbers— Rachmaninoff Plays

The plaintive song of the wandering Mignon is sung this week on a record by Mme. Louise Homer. "Connais-tu le pays" (Knowest Thou the Land) is one of the loveliest operatic melodies we know, summing up the longing of an exiled orphan for a homeland unknown but deeply beloved. The famous Gavotte—"Me voici dans son boudoir" (Here Am I in Her Boudoir) in which Mignon parades in borrowed plumage is a dainty bit, making a charming pair of melodies for a lovely contralto voice.

In a record of his own "Lilacs" Rachmaninoff reveals himself as a poetic tonalist. To lighten the colors he adds a fragment of classic jollity, "Humoresque" by Tschaikowsky. Do not confuse this with Dvorak's number of the same title. This one is equally cheerful and superbly recorded.

More Male Quartet Favorites

If you have never heard, or if you have, perchance, forgotten "Mandy Lee," this week comes your chance to hear this famous old-timer for the quartet masculine. It is well entrusted to Shannon Quartet. To go with it Peerless Quartet sings "My Old New Hampshire Home," equally rich and beautiful.

Victor Salon Orchestra makes two pleasant records of present-day popular songs, richly orchestrated. "All Alone" and "Memory Lane" are skilfully interpreted.

"Me and the Boy Friend" by Jane Green is a dancing sort of melody, subjectively agreeable and sunny. "Back Where the Daffodils Grow" sung by Aileen Stanley is a case of homesick blues.

Billy Murray chants in fox-trot time about one of these ubiquitous marriage-broken public terrors, "Big Bad Bill." On the other side Frank Richardson joins the group in a Hawaiian yodel specialty—at least a song in the Hawaiian manner, yodeled and named "Ukelele Lou."

Here's the "Chicago Stomp"

Whatever may be the truth of the legendary proportions of Chicago's feet, the Chicago "stomp" is a definite contribution to fox-trotting. One of its kind, "Get Lucky," serves to introduce to Victor audiences Ralph Williams and his Rainbo Orchestra this week. Coupled with it is a conventional fox-trot, "Prince of Wails," by the same organization.

If one cares for the fox-trot it would be well to hear "Nancy" by George Olsen and His Music, and "No One Knows What It's All About" by Jack Shilkret's Orchestra. Tastes in fox-trots vary, and these should be sure of a favorable hearing.

"Sax-o-Phun" by the Olsen organization is a happy-hick sort of fox-trot by Rudy Wiedoeft, featuring him and his sax. "Hey! Hey! and Hee! Hee!" by International Novelty Orchestra has an harmonica solo and other novelty effects.

HEART AND HOME PROBLEMS

BY MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Do Boys Like Flirts?

Dear Mrs. Thompson: What do boys think of girls who flirt? When I go with my girl friend she always gives some answer to anybody she hears talking. The person is not talking to her. I have tried to convince her that this is not right. It is always a boy she answers whether he is nice or not. I feel very cheap when she does this any I am afraid the boys judge me by her. Will some boy please answer this letter and tell me what he hinks? We are both seventeen. I like to flirt with a boy who looks decent and nicely dressed, but I don't do it in a rude, bold manner. Please answer, somebody. CUB.

Any well-bred person would find your friend's boldness offensive, I am sure. Men of refinement do not like to make themselves conspicuous and they are distressed when they are made conspicuous by a woman. Flirting is cheap and easily detected and so I would not advise you to indulge even if you think you are doing it in a lady-like manner. I will gladly print two or three letters in answer to your question.

Shall She Give Gift.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am working for some wealthy people as maid. I aw wondering whether it would be all right to give this lady a present for Christmas. I would like to give her flowers or a plant. She is very nice and helps me along wonderfully. She lets me use her sewing machine and shows me how to do a lot of fancy work. MABLE S.

It would be very nice for you to give the woman you work for flowers or a plant. I am sure that she would appreciate greatly your expression of appreciation for what she has done.

Cannot Forget.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Can one love with the greatest devotion of heart and soul and after losing forget? Forget! How simple that word seems, but how hard it is to do. Always when a love affair is ended there is one who must suffer and be told by each friend to forget. I have loved and lost. It just seemed as if it wasn't to be. We are still friends but never see each other. I could not marry him. My parents disliked him and I would never marry against their will. All through my life they have been dear and wonderful to me. I am very unhappy. I don't care for anyone and just want to be alone. I am very melancholy and nervous and in somewhat ill health. I have lost my good appearance and don't care how I look. I let my pretty dresses hang in the closet. Am I just weak minded because I cannot forget? Say something to me that sounds possible and not that I should forget. Don't send me

FORGETMENOTS.

You are enjoying a broken-heart too much to want to forget and so for the time being you will probably give up to despondency. It is most certainly possible to control your thoughts. Don't let your mind dwell on your disappointment. When you find yourself thinking in that way, go out for a brisk walk, do some difficult task, or force yourself to read and follow what you are reading. You are not weak-minded, because one of these days you will get tired of grieving and will regain your former interest in life, but you are very foolish. My advice is to brace up at once, opening your eyes and heart to new happiness.

Distrusted.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl in my teens and am deeply in love with a young man six years my senior. He never did or said anything out of the way around me, but my folks didn't like him and won't let me go with him. Is it wrong for me to let him bring me home from church, parties, etc., against the wishes of my folks. If he does bring me should I tell them or not? So many girls have told me things that he has said and done that are so bad that it has almost killed my love for him, but I can't find out whether he has done them or not and hardly believe he has. Should I take their word for it or ask him? When I am with him by myself or with two or three others he acts all right and as though he is glad I am there, but when in company he acts ashamed of me.

BLUE EYES.

As long as your girl friends have told you unfavorable things about the young man and your parents instinctively distrust him, put him out of your mind. Even if you asked him if the stories were true you could not expect him to answer in a way that would compromise himself, and you would place your girl friends in a bad light. Do not let him accompany you home. If you do, however, in spite of what I say, be open and above board and tell your parents.

Miraculous Case.

DEFIANCE, O., Dec.—While shooting at a target, his rifle was accidentally discharged, sending a .22 caliber ball up his nose and between the two hemispheres of the brain, lodging in his head, yet Wilbur Green, 12, apparently is recovering. Physicians said it would be almost impossible to remove the bullet.

The Week's new Records

Homer Sings Two "Mignon" Numbers— Rachmaninoff Plays

The plaintive song of the wandering Mignon is sung this week on a record by Mme. Louise Homer. "Connais-tu le pays" (Knowest Thou the Land) is one of the loveliest operatic melodies we know, summing up the longing of an exiled orphan for a homeland unknown but deeply beloved. The famous Gavotte—"Me voici dans son boudoir" (Here Am I in Her Boudoir) in which Mignon parades in borrowed plumage is a dainty bit, making a charming pair of melodies for a lovely contralto voice.

In a record of his own "Lilacs" Rachmaninoff reveals himself as a poetic tonalist. To lighten the colors he adds a fragment of classic jollity, "Humoresque" by Tschaikowsky. Do not confuse this with Dvorak's number of the same title. This one is equally cheerful and superbly recorded.

HOME LIGHTING WINNERS NAMED

Chester School Pupils Given High Rating for Essays.

Ned Davison, Wellsburg, was awarded first prize in the home lighting contest recently conducted in the schools of Chester, Wellsburg, Weirton, New Cumberland and Newell under the auspices of the West Penn system and Panhandle Electrical tongues.

Helen Hindman, Wellsburg, was awarded second prize, while Alice Louise McMurphy, also of Wellsburg, was given third place. Ruth Nichols, Chester, was named the winner of fourth place. Ida Mae McElfresh, Chester, was sixth, while Mildred Finley, Lew Hennen, Sue Vervin and Sarah McElfresh, all of Chester, were high up in the list of awards.

Prizes will be distributed this week to the winners by M. J. Zurick, division manager of the Brooke Electric company.

The judges were: Mrs. R. L. Ramsey, Follansbee; Mrs. A. F. Young, Follansbee; Mrs. F. E. Watson, Follansbee; Miss Mildred Wood, Follansbee; John E. Newell, Chester; George C. Holliday, Chester; F. S. Huff Jr., Chester; G. T. Kidder and W. H. Willhelm, Newell.

The winning essays have been forwarded to New York where they will be entered in the international contest for the $15,000 electrical home and 15 college scholarships in competition with pupils of other schools throughout the United States and Canada.

CHRISTMAS TREAT FOR PRISONERS

Christmas will not be a barren event for the inmates of the state prison at Moundsville, numbering approximately 1,700. Warden S. P. Smith will act as Santa Claus to the convicts, and Christmas eve will be virtually as busy for him as tradition paints the labors of the Yuletide saint.

Every man and woman in the prison will hang up stockings before retiring on Wednesday evening, and the warden and his aides will fill every stocking. In each will be placed a pound of candy, a half pound of nuts, a pound of crackerjack and an apple, a banana and an orange.

Warden Smith said last evening that the inmates enter into the holiday season with a splendid spirit, and show appreciation of the effort to being a bright spot in the necessary monotonous routine.

The shops in the prison will close down Wednesday afternoon and will not resume until Friday morning. It will be a day of peaceful enjoyment, so far as it is possible for the officials to minister.

Special allowances in "good time" are awarded the inmates as a Christmas gift, and this is a very welcome arrangement to them, cutting down the length of their periods of residence away from the outside world.

Chapel services will be held Christmas morning in the big auditorium, and at noon a special holiday dinner will be served.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS CLOSE WEDNESDAY

Public schools will close for the Christmas vacation period Wednesday afternoon. Short programs will be given in the various rooms. Sessions will be resumed Monday, January 5.

Number of teachers have planned to spend the vacation with out of town relatives and friends.

CHURCHES GIVE XMAS PROGRAMS

Christmas cantatas and musical programs were given last evening in the First Christian, First Presbyterian and First United Presbyterian churches. Long before the hour arrived for the services to begin the respective churches were taxed to capacitl.

The programs were carried out under the direction of the various choirs.

The annual program will be given tomorrow evening in the First Methodist Episcopal church by members of the Sunday school classes. Pupils of the First Presbyterian church Sunday school will give a program Christmas evening in the church. The usual treats will be distributed at both brances.

HOLLIDAY'S COVE TO HOLD ELECTION

Holliday's Cove officials were renominated for office at a town meeting held last Thursday evening. Election will be held January 7. Unless an independent ticket is placed in the field the following candidates will have no opposition:

Mayor William Fleming, Councilmen J. L. Thomas, D. K. McCullough, G. M. Briscoe, M. H. Campbell and Dan F. Sheckler. Recorder M. B. Fish. The other officers who are Thomas S. Hoffman, town solicitor; Dr. J. E. Richmond, health director; R. C. Morris, treasurer, and J. A. Tiley, chief of police, are all appointed to their positions by vote of the mayor and council only.

Linduff Funeral.

Funeral services for John Linduff, 84 years old, were conducted yesterday afternoon at the family home on the Harding road near New Cumberland, Rev. Charles Ewing, pastor of Bethel Methodist Episcopal church, officiated.

Booster Club Meeting.

Members of the Chester Boosters club will meet at noon tomorrow in the Masonic temple, First street. Program in keeping with the holiday season has been arranged.

WOMEN TO TAKE CENSUS OF FARMS

Women are to be employed this year for the first time in taking the federal census of farms in Hancock county and other counties, of the third census district which includes Ohio, West Virginia and 12 counties in western Pennsylvania.

The taking of the census is expected to be completed in about 60 days.

A new ruling was made this year allowing the employment of women as enumerators. Heretofore, the work has been done by young men living on the farms, but this year the department in Washington has encouraged women to take up the work.

According to the statistics furnished by the department of commerce, bureau of the census, there were 47,431 farms in the third district in 1920, the last previous census.

As soon as the quota of 168 enumerators has been filled the taking of the census for 1924 will go forward rapidly, it is said.

Cinders on Road.

BRIDGEPORT—Piles of cinders have been placed by the state highway department every few rods on Blaine hill, longest on the Ohio section of the National highway. The cinders are for use by motorists when the mile and a quarter incline becomes slippery in winter weather.

HIGHWAY WORK BEING PLANNED

East Rochester - North Georgetown Road to Be Improved.

That the county commissioners, as the new board will be composed, and the trustees of West township have reached a common understanding relative to the improving of the East Rochester-North Georgetown road seems to be well founded.

Whether the road will have a macadam surface or a concrete top is a matter that remains to be determined, and it is probable that this improvement will be the subject of early discussion between the new board of commissioners and the trustees of West township early in 1925.

At the suggestion of the new board of commissioners, County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk has prepared an estimate of the cost of the surfacing of this road in West township with either concrete or macadam.

A concrete top, with seven-inch center and nine-inch side, with limestone filler, will cost, according to the estimate, $25,200 per mile, or a total cost of $152,300.

To use gravel instead of limestone with the concrete the cost per mile is reduced to $24,300 per mile, or $156,500 for the entire length in that township.

The concrete estimate has been based on a roadway 12 feet in width.

To build a bituminous macadam road, 11 inches thick, and all slag, will cost, according to estimate for a 14-foot roadway, $24,700 per mile, or a total cost of $159,600.

A bituminous macadam road, 14 feet wide and 11 inches thick, with eight inches of slag base and three-inch top of limestone, will cost, according to the estimate, $26,700 per mile, or $172,100 for the entire length.

It may follow that when bids are sought for this improvement that the cost would be reduced to between 4 and 6 per cent, as it has generally followed that bids are lower than the estimates.

The estimate of the cost of this improvement will be presented the county commissioners at their next meeting, but as the old board has but two more sessions to serve, consideration of the communication will be left to the new board and the West township trustees.

Grading of this road has been finished, and it is pointed out that the roadbed has settled sufficiently to continue with the surfacing of the highway. When this road was graded there was no provision made for the widening of curves, therefore the estimate has been limited to this feature.

FARM BUREAU TO HOLD MEET

Annual Session Will be Held at County Seat Jan. 15.

The annual meeting of the Columbiana County Farm Bureau will be held in Lisbon Thursday, January 15, according to County Agent Clarence E. Rowland.

As Mr. Rowland retires from the office of county agent for Columbiana county next Wednesday, it has not been indicated whether or not he will return from Elyria to attend this meeting.

It has been expected that L. B. Palmer, president of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation would be in Lisbon to address the county meeting, but he has advised that because of previous engagements he will be unable to attend.

The program for the annual session is now being worked out. Every township farm bureau is expected to put on a special program, although a brief one during the annual session. There are 18 townships in the county, and there is a Farm Bureau organization in each of these townships.

Instead of each township president reading a report of its own activity, it has been proposed that all these reports be read as one, that is to say, the totals shown in each report will be read as one report, which will take in the county as a whole.

Officers for the neaw year will be elected at the annual meeting. John M. Kerr of Yellow Creek township, was elected president of the County Farm Bureau last January, succeeding Clark J. Halverstadt of Leetonia. In addition the election of officers, three women are also to be selected at the annual session to serve as members of the Farm Bureau executive committee.

It is probable that the annual meeting will be held in the Lisbon opera house, where it has been the custom to hold these gatherings for several years.

Perhaps one of the most interesting reports that will be read at the annual meeting will be that which will review the recent campaign in this county against tuberculosis in cattle.

Leetonia Water Case Aired Before Court; Injunction Granted

The old contest between the village of Leetonia and those who reside on East Columbia street, outside the corporate limits and in Fairfield township, east of Leetonia cropped out Saturday when Attorney Charles C. Connell of Lisban acting as city solicitor for the village of Leetonia opposed the granting of a mandatory injunction against the Board of Affairs and the superintendent of the municipal water department of Leetonia.

This cause came up for hearing before Judge James G. Moore after the noon hour Saturday. E. E. Morgan, a property owner on East Columbia street, through his counsel Matzgar & McCarty of Salem, filed the petition asking for the mandatory injunction. Mr. McCarty argued to the court on the grounds that the water main had been extended with the permission and knowledge of the Board of Affairs of Leetonia.

Mr. Connell argued that "there is a point of saturation" referring to the ability of the village to supply people outside of the corporation with water, but Mr. McCarty showed that others residing on East Columbia street had placed their own electric water plants within their homes, and were not now using "city water."

The court suggested to Mr. McCarty that he amend his petition which sought a mandatory injunction, and substitute "temporary mandatory" injunction. This was done, and then the court entered the order, which means that until further hearing, the village of Leetonia shall supply the property of Mr. Morgan with "city water" for which he shall pay the regular rate plus 10 percent excess charges as is the custom with all water users along East Columbia street who obtain their supply from the village of Leetonia.

The case is expected to come up for final hearing within the next 30 days.

SALEM MAN WINS COURT VERDICT

John Popa of Salem, who was arrested by Constable Clarence Wetzel of Lisbon on a charge preferred against him in the court of Justice of the Peace Claude E. Albright of Lisbon by Leonard Barber of Salem, charging him with the larceny of $20 won a verdict when the case was tried Saturday.

Popa was arrested on a similar charge on a warrant issued from the court of Justice of the Peace H. E. Gleckner of Salem earlier in the week, and the case in that court was dismissed.

Popa purchased some merchandise from Barber. He had it charged. Later Popa asked Barber to change him a $20 bill. Barber is said to have retained the cost of the goods out of the money without the consent of Popa. Then came the filing of the charges.

The costs in the two cases, which have been paid by Barber, amount to $10 more than he sued for.

COUNTY LOWEST IN CLUB WORK

Columbiana county established another new record this year, when it was placed at the bottom of the list of 88 counties in the state in the record for boys' and girls' club work.

In this county, 39.8 per cent of those who started boys' and girls' club work finished.

Last year, for the state as a whole, 24,351 youngsters started club work, and 72 per cent of that number finished, according to a record just received by the Country Farm Bureau office. Of the 24,385 who entered club work this year, 18,685 or 76.6 per cent finished their task in full.

HIGHWAY WORK BEING PLANNED

East Rochester - North Georgetown Road to Be Improved.

That the county commissioners, as the new board will be composed, and the trustees of West township have reached a common understanding relative to the improving of the East Rochester-North Georgetown road seems to be well founded.

Whether the road will have a macadam surface or a concrete top is a matter that remains to be determined, and it is probable that this improvement will be the subject of early discussion between the new board of commissioners and the trustees of West township early in 1925.

At the suggestion of the new board of commissioners, County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk has prepared an estimate of the cost of the surfacing of this road in West township with either concrete or macadam.

A concrete top, with seven-inch center and nine-inch side, with limestone filler, will cost, according to the estimate, $25,200 per mile, or a total cost of $172,300.

To use gravel instead of limestone with the concrete the cost per mile is reduced to $24,300 per mile, or $156,500 for the entire length in that township.

The concrete estimate has been based on a roadway 12 feet in width.

To build a bituminous macadam road, 11 inches thick, and all slag, will cost, according to estimate for a 14-foot roadway, $24,700 per mile, or a total cost of $159,600.

A bituminous macadam road, 14 feet wide and 11 inches thick, with eight inches of slag base and three-inch top of limestone, will cost, according to the estimate, $26,700 per mile, or $172,100 for the entire length.

It may follow that when bids are sought for this improvement that the cost would be reduced to between 4 and 6 per cent, as it has generally followed that bids are lower than the estimates.

The estimate of the cost of this improvement will be presented the county commissioners at their next meeting, but as the old board has but two more sessions to serve, consideration of the communication will be left to the new board and the West township trustees.

Grading of this road has been finished, and it is pointed out that the roadbed has settled sufficiently to continue with the surfacing of the highway. When this road was graded there was no provision made for the widening of curves, therefore the estimate has been limited to this feature.

FARM BUREAU TO HOLD MEET

Annual Session Will be Held at County Seat Jan. 15.

The annual meeting of the Columbiana County Farm Bureau will be held in Lisbon Thursday, January 15, according to County Agent Clarence E. Rowland.

As Mr. Rowland retires from the office of county agent for Columbiana county next Wednesday, it has not been indicated whether or not he will return from Elyria to attend this meting.

It has been expected that L. B. Palmer, president of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation would be in Lisbon to address the county meeting, but he has advised that because of previous engagements he will be unable to attend.

Halverstadt of Leetonia. In addition the election of officers, three women are also to be selected at the annual session to serve as members of the Farm Bureau executive committee.

It is probable that the annual meeting will be held in the Lisbon opera house, where it has been the custom to hold these gatherings for several years.

Perhaps one of the most interesting reports that will be read at the annual meeting will be that which will review the recent campaign in this county against tuberculosis in cattle.

Leetonia Water Case Aired Before Court; Injunction Granted

The old contest between the village of Leetonia and those who reside on East Columbia street, outside the corporate limits and in Fairfield township, east of Leetonia cropped out Saturday when Attorney Charles C. Connell of Lisban acting as city solicitor for the village of Leetonia opposed the granting of a mandatory injunction against the Board of Affairs and the superintendent of the municipal water department of Leetonia.

This cause came up for hearing before Judge James G. Moore after the noon hour Saturday. E. E. Morgan, a property owner on East Columbia street, through his counsel Matzgar & McCarty of Salem, filed the petition asking for the mandatory injunction. Mr. McCarty argued to the court on the grounds that the water main had been extended with the permission and knowledge of the Board of Affairs of Leetonia.

Mr. Connell argued that "there is a point of saturation" referring to the ability of the village to supply people outside of the corporation with water, but Mr. McCarty showed that others residing on East Columbia street had placed their own electric water plants within their homes, and were not now using "city water."

The court suggested to Mr. McCarty that he amend his petition which sought a mandatory injunction, and substitute "temporary mandatory" injunction. This was done, and then the court entered the order, which means that until further hearing, the village of Leetonia shall supply the property of Mr. Morgan with "city water" for which he shall pay the regular rate plus 10 percent excess charges as is the custom with all water users along East Columbia street who obtain their supply from the village of Leetonia.

The case is expected to come up for final hearing within the next 30 days.

SALEM MAN WINS COURT VERDICT

John Popa of Salem, who was arrested by Constable Clarence Wetzel of Lisbon on a charge preferred against him in the court of Justice of the Peace Claude E. Albright of Lisbon by Leonard Barber of Salem, charging him with the larceny of $20 won a verdict when the case was tried Saturday.

Popa was arrested on a similar charge on a warrant issued from the court of Justice of the Peace H. E. Gleckner of Salem earlier in the week, and the case in that court was dismissed.

Popa purchased some merchandise from Barber. He had it charged. Later Popa asked Barber to change him a $20 bill. Barber is said to have retained the cost of the goods out of the money without the consent of Popa. Then came the filing of the charges.

The costs in the two cases, which have been paid by Barber, amount to $10 more than he sued for.

COUNTY LOWEST IN CLUB WORK

Columbiana county established another new record this year, when it was placed at the bottom of the list of 88 counties in the state in the record for boys' and girls' club work.

In this county, 39.8 per cent of those who started boys' and girls' club work finished.

Last year, for the state as a whole, 24,351 youngsters started club work, and 72 per cent of that number finished, according to a record just received by the Country Farm Bureau office. Of the 24,385 who entered club work this year, 18,685 or 76.6 per cent finished their task in full.

Of the boys and girls in Jefferson county who took up club work, 86.1 per cent finished, and Carroll county has a record of 89.7 per cent, these two counties being up among the leaders.

IRA EELLS LEAVES FOR OKLAHOMA

Ira Eells, who was formerly engaged in the hardware business in East Liverpool and who has been connected with the oil business in Texas and Oklahoma for the last few years, has left the home of his brother, G. M. Eells on the Lincoln highway in Elkrun township, for Tulsa, Okla., where he will spend the holiday season with his family.

Mr. Eells spent the last two weeks in New York city on business for his oil interests before returning to this county en route to Tulsa.

Granted Leave to Plead.

In the $5,000 automobile damage action filed in common pleas court by Lucy A. Johnson, through her counsel, Billingsley & Moore of Lisbon against Elizabeth M. Wright, the defendant has been granted leave to plead by January 10. The defense is represented by Attorney J. E. O'Grady of Wellsville. The claims for damage is based upon injuries the plaintiff received while a passenger in the car of the defendant.

Case Dismissed.

On December 13, Lavina Stahl, through her counsel, Boone & Campbell of Salem, filed an action for divorce and alimony against her husband, Chester B. Stahl.

"Dismissed on motion of plaintiff at her costs," now reads an entry on the court docket. It was placed there just seven days after the original petition was filed.

LIST CASES FOR JANUARY TERM

Clerk of Courts John T. Burns Monday issued the January term bar docket which supercedes the bar docket issued for the September term 1924.

The new docket shows 555 cases listed for disposition during the new term, against 546 listed in the September docket, an increase of nine cases.

During the last three months, however, over 100 cases have been disposed of, and these have been eliminated from the record. The January term of court will open January 12.

HIGHWAY WORK BEING PLANNED

East Rochester - North Georgetown Road to Be Improved.

That the county commissioners, as the new board will be composed, and the trustees of West township have reached a common understanding relative to the improving of the East Rochester-North Georgetown road seems to be well founded.

Whether the road will have a macadam surface or a concrete top is a matter that remains to be determined, and it is probable that this improvement will be the subject of early discussion between the new board of commissioners and the trustees of West township early in 1925.

At the suggestion of the new board of commissioners, County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk has prepared an estimate of the cost of the surfacing of this road in West township with either concrete or macadam.

A concrete top, with seven-inch center and nine-inch side, with limestone filler, will cost, according to the estimate, $25,200 per mile, or a total cost of $152,300.

To use gravel instead of limestone with the concrete the cost per mile is reduced to $24,300 per mile, or $156,500 for the entire length in that township.

The concrete estimate has been based on a roadway 12 feet in width.

To build a bituminous macadam road, 11 inches thick, and all slag, will cost, according to estimate for a 14-foot roadway, $24,700 per mile, or a total cost of $159,600.

A bituminous macadam road, 14 feet wide and 11 inches thick, with eight inches of slag base and three-inch top of limestone, will cost, according to the estimate, $26,700 per mile, or $172,100 for the entire length.

It may follow that when bids are sought for this improvement that the cost would be reduced to between 4 and 6 per cent, as it has generally followed that bids are lower than the estimates.

The estimate of the cost of this improvement will be presented the county commissioners at their next meeting, but as the old board has but two more sessions to serve, consideration of the communication will be left to the new board and the West township trustees.

Grading of this road has been finished, and it is pointed out that the roadbed has settled sufficiently to continue with the surfacing of the highway. When this road was graded there was no provision made for the widening of curves, therefore the estimate has been limited to this feature.

FARM BUREAU TO HOLD MEET

Annual Session Will be Held at County Seat Jan. 15.

The annual meeting of the Columbiana County Farm Bureau will be held in Lisbon Thursday, January 15, according to County Agent Clarence E. Rowland.

As Mr. Rowland retires from the office of county agent for Columbiana county next Wednesday, it has not been indicated whether or not he will return from Elyria to attend this meting.

It has been expected that L. B. Palmer, president of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation would be in Lisbon to address the county meeting, but he has advised that because of previous engagements he will be unable to attend.

The program for the annual session is now being worked out. Every township farm bureau is expected to put on a special program, although a brief one during the annual session. There are 18 townships in the county, and there is a Farm Bureau organization in each of these townships.

Instead of each township president reading a report of its own activity, it has been proposed that all these reports be read as one, that is to say, the totals shown in each report will be read as one report, which will take in the county as a whole.

Officers for the neaw year will be elected at the annual meeting. John M. Kerr of Yellow Creek township, was elected president of the County Farm Bureau last January, succeeding Clark J. Halverstadt of Leetonia. In addition the election of officers, three women are also to be selected at the annual session to serve as members of the Farm Bureau executive committee.

It is probable that the annual meeting will be held in the Lisbon opera house, where it has been the custom to hold these gatherings for several years.

Perhaps one of the most interesting reports that will be read at the annual meeting will be that which will review the recent campaign in this county against tuberculosis in cattle.

Leetonia Water Case Aired Before Court; Injunction Granted

The old contest between the village of Leetonia and those who reside on East Columbia street, outside the corporate limits and in Fairfield township, east of Leetonia cropped out Saturday when Attorney Charles C. Connell of Lisban acting as city solicitor for the village of Leetonia opposed the granting of a mandatory injunction against the Board of Affairs and the superintendent of the municipal water department of Leetonia.

This cause came up for hearing before Judge James G. Moore after the noon hour Saturday. E. E. Morgan, a property owner on East Columbia street, through his counsel Matzgar & McCarty of Salem, filed the petition asking for the mandatory injunction. Mr. McCarty argued to the court on the grounds that the water main had been extended with the permission and knowledge of the Board of Affairs of Leetonia.

Mr. Connell argued that "there is a point of saturation" referring to the ability of the village to supply people outside of the corporation with water, but Mr. McCarty showed that others residing on East Columbia street had placed their own electric water plants within their homes, and were not now using "city water."

The court suggested to Mr. McCarty that he amend his petition which sought a mandatory injunction, and substitute "temporary mandatory" injunction. This was done, and then the court entered the order, which means that until further hearing, the village of Leetonia shall supply the property of Mr. Morgan with "city water" for which he shall pay the regular rate plus 10 percent excess charges as is the custom with all water users along East Columbia street who obtain their supply from the village of Leetonia.

The case is expected to come up for final hearing within the next 30 days.

SALEM MAN WINS COURT VERDICT

John Popa of Salem, who was arrested by Constable Clarence Wetzel of Lisbon on a charge preferred against him in the court of Justice of the Peace Claude E. Albright of Lisbon by Leonard Barber of Salem, charging him with the larceny of $20 won a verdict when the case was tried Saturday.

Popa was arrested on a similar charge on a warrant issued from the court of Justice of the Peace H. E. Gleckner of Salem earlier in the week, and the case in that court was dismissed.

Popa purchased some merchandise from Barber. He had it charged. Later Popa asked Barber to change him a $20 bill. Barber is said to have retained the cost of the goods out of the money without the consent of Popa. Then came the filing of the charges.

The costs in the two cases, which have been paid by Barber, amount to $10 more than he sued for.

COUNTY LOWEST IN CLUB WORK

Columbiana county established another new record this year, when it was placed at the bottom of the list of 88 counties in the state in the record for boys' and girls' club work.

In this county, 39.8 per cent of those who started boys' and girls' club work finished.

Last year, for the state as a whole, 24,351 youngsters started club work, and 72 per cent of that number finished, according to a record just received by the Country Farm Bureau office. Of the 24,385 who entered club work this year, 18,685 or 76.6 per cent finished their task in full.

Of the boys and girls in Jefferson county who took up club work, 86.1 per cent finished, and Carroll county has a record of 89.7 per cent, these two counties being up among the leaders.

Mr. Eells spent the last two weeks in New York city on business for his oil interests before returning to this county en route to Tulsa.

Granted Leave to Plead.

In the $5,000 automobile damage action filed in common pleas court by Lucy A. Johnson, through her counsel, Billingsley & Moore of Lisbon against Elizabeth M. Wright, the defendant has been granted leave to plead by January 10. The defense is represented by Attorney J. E. O'Grady of Wellsville. The claims for damage is based upon injuries the plaintiff received while a passenger in the car of the defendant.

Case Dismissed.

On December 13, Lavina Stahl, through her counsel, Boone & Campbell of Salem, filed an action for divorce and alimony against her husband, Chester B. Stahl.

"Dismissed on motion of plaintiff at her costs," now reads an entry on the court docket. It was placed there just seven days after the original petition was filed.

LIST CASES FOR JANUARY TERM

Clerk of Courts John T. Burns Monday issued the January term bar docket which supercedes the bar docket issued for the September term 1924.

The new docket shows 555 cases listed for disposition during the new term, against 546 listed in the September docket, an increase of nine cases.

During the last three months, however, over 100 cases have been disposed of, and these have been eliminated from the record. The January term of court will open January 12.

William de Mille's "Fast Set" Screen Feature at Ceramic

"There is so much to be said for "The Fast Set," William De Mille's film version of the famous Broadway stage play, "Spring Cleaning," which will make its local debut tonight at the Ceramic theatre, that the only way to prove it to yourself is to see this paramount production.

Briefly the action revovles around the efforts of a husband, a successful author, to keep his lovely young wife out of the clutches of a noted philanderer. At first glance it looks as if we had here the old, old eternal triangle with its stale situation and obvious happy ending. But wait. Don't jump at conclusions because the chances are that your conclusions will be wide of the mark. There is a brand new, decidedly startling twist in this story that makes it different from any before flashed on the screen.

Mr. de Mille has assembled a cast that leaves nothing to be desired. Betty Compson, as the wife, gives a marvelous performance. Adolphe Menjou impersonates the "great lover" and is more fascinating than ever. As for Elliott Dexter, who portrays the husband, and Zasu Pitts, the fourth featured member of the cast, these two artists are too well known to expect anything but an admirable performance from each. Needless to say they add fresh laurels to their former triumphs.

BRIGHT SPOT IN DAYS NEWS

Those fadists who believe they are playing with something newly developed when they search their brain for few-letter words to complete the cross-word puzzle, have another guess coming.

"They're as old as the hills," intoned U. S. Vance, professor of journalism at Akron University, discussing mah jong's successor.

"They have been used in teaching journalism," said Vance, "ever since John Campbell published his first news letter in 1704."

Writing headlines, according to the instructor, is a series of word puzzles, involving a search for an elusive word that is of a given number of letters and familiar.

Human Hair Made Into Rugs.

For years the short hair from men's heads fell to the barber floor and was swept up with other dirt and refuse of the place. Since bobbed hair came into fashion, however, men, commercially-minded, have figured out ways to utilize it. The latest and most practical seems to have been the idea of making rugs out of the hair. Some French manufacturers have made artistic and practical floor coverings in that way.

Bromides Being Exhausted.

Practicall the entire world's supply of bromide is approaching exhaustion due to the tremendous demand for it with the development of lead tetraethyl in gasoline. The demand has been so heavy for this use that the price has gone up from 15 cents to 50 cents a pound.

Moths Eaten as Delicacies.

In Australia, Tasmania and certain parts of New Zealand, there is a moth that was once highly prized as a tidbit of food. It is known as the Bugong moth, the scientific name of which is the Agrotis spina, and it measures from an inch and a quarter to two inches across the wings. These moths contain much oil and have a nut-like flavor. The natives learned to eat them from watching the crows feed on them when they swarmed on granite boulders.

Arctic mosquitoes are very large.

Don't scratch that rash

Relieve the itching and burning promptly

EVERY time you scratch that spot of eczema, you only increase the inflammation and add to the burning discomfort. Resinol Ointment applied lightly stops the itching, allays the irritation and brings comfort almost immediately.

Resinol is also an excellent household dressing for cuts, burns, scalds, boils, chafing, stings, etc. Get a jar from your druggist and see how it hastens the healing.

Resinol Soap and Resinol Shaving stick complete the trio. They are nature's aids to a more perfect skin—no home should be without them.

William de Mille's "Fast Set" Screen Feature at Ceramic

"There is so much to be said for "The Fast Set," William De Mille's film version of the famous Broadway stage play, "Spring Cleaning," which will make its local debut tonight at the Ceramic theatre, that the only way to prove it to yourself is to see this paramount production.

Briefly the action revovles around the efforts of a husband, a successful author, to keep his lovely young wife out of the clutches of a noted philanderer. At first glance it looks as if we had here the old, old eternal triangle with its stale situation and obvious happy ending. But wait. Don't jump at conclusions because the chances are that your conclusions will be wide of the mark. There is a brand new, decidedly startling twist in this story that makes it different from any before flashed on the screen.

Mr. de Mille has assembled a cast that leaves nothing to be desired. Betty Compson, as the wife, gives a marvelous performance. Adolphe Menjou impersonates the "great lover" and is more fascinating than ever. As for Elliott Dexter, who portrays the husband, and Zasu Pitts, the fourth featured member of the cast, these two artists are too well known to expect anything but an admirable performance from each. Needless to say they add fresh laurels to their former triumphs.

BRIGHT SPOT IN DAYS NEWS

Those fadists who believe they are playing with something newly developed when they search their brain for few-letter words to complete the cross-word puzzle, have another guess coming.

"They're as old as the hills," intoned U. S. Vance, professor of journalism at Akron University, discussing mah jong's successor.

"They have been used in teaching journalism," said Vance, "ever since John Campbell published his first news letter in 1704."

Writing headlines, according to the instructor, is a series of word puzzles, involving a search for an elusive word that is of a given number of letters and familiar.

Human Hair Made Into Rugs.

For years the short hair from men's heads fell to the barber floor and was swept up with other dirt and refuse of the place. Since bobbed hair came into fashion, however, men, commercially-minded, have figured out ways to utilize it. The latest and most practical seems to have been the idea of making rugs out of the hair. Some French manufacturers have made artistic and practical floor coverings in that way.

Bromides Being Exhausted.

Practicall the entire world's supply of bromide is approaching exhaustion due to the tremendous demand for it with the development of lead tetraethyl in gasoline. The demand has been so heavy for this use that the price has gone up from 15 cents to 50 cents a pound.

Moths Eaten as Delicacies.

In Australia, Tasmania and certain parts of New Zealand, there is a moth that was once highly prized as a tidbit of food. It is known as the Bugong moth, the scientific name of which is the Agrotis spina, and it measures from an inch and a quarter to two inches across the wings. These moths contain much oil and have a nut-like flavor. The natives learned to eat them from watching the crows feed on them when they swarmed on granite boulders.

Arctic mosquitoes are very large.

"HIS MASTER'S VOICE"

THE DOUBLE HOUSE

By Elizabeth Dejeans

CHAPTER THIRTEEN—Continued

Karesia's mental comment was, "She cares very little about her future home." Dascome's face had settled into sombre lines, and Karesia felt an active dislike for the daughter; from the beginning, she had sensed trouble from that quarter. Well, when it came, she would meet it. "I shall have the lease ready by evening, but I will not take more than eight hundred dollars a month rent," she said firmly. "I couldn't sleep last night until I had decided that—I am not a profiteer."

Dascome laughed a little, the first time Karesia had heard him laugh. "And I must pay a thousand dollars a month, otherwise I cannot take the house. What are you going to do about it?"

"It's unreasonable!"

He was grave again. "If you find no reason to regret your bargain, I shall be satisfied. Allow me to pay what I think is right."

Karesia was puzzled, but she did not ask him what he meant. "I suppose it's his daughter," was her conclusion. "There is no telling what sort she is." She agreed reluctantly, "I suppose I shall have to take it, but I feel uncomfortable over it."

Dascome changed the subject. "The name of your detective is Herbert Colt. I know him to be an honest, reliable man. I should tell him every circumstance which you think has a bearing on the theft. He is certain to make a careful examination, and he will want to know all you can tell him about this woman, Mary Blass. I should simply leave the matter in his hands then and try not to worry over it. Shall I come this evening? Just after dinner?"

"Yes. And thank you very much for helping me."

Karesia had given him her hand and Dascome held it; he took it in both of his. "I have done nothing. It was kind of you to send for me. I wish you would promise me not to shed any more tears over your paintings. I think Colt will get them back for you." He spoke steadily and he looked at her as steadily, not impersonally as he had the night before, with a sort of unwavering interest, an enveloping, consuming look.

Karesia flushed. "Oh, I fuss a good deal over things that are not vital. I can manage to live without my paintings, you know. When I'm faced by something really vital, I'm apt to be quiet, actually restrained, though you may not think it."

"It's exactly what I do think of you—you are confidence-inspiring."

"So are you, Mr. Dascome. That's why I sent for you."

He flushed hotly and dropped her hand, apparently deeply embarrassed. "Am I? I hope you may always think so. This evening, then?" he asked as he turned away.

From the gallery Karesia watched the sure way in which he backed his car uphill then coasted down the slope. He lifted his cap to her, and she waved in return. "I like him," she said to herself. It did not matter so much about the paintings; there was a circle of warmth about her heart.

XVI

"Yes, Mr. Colt seemed to think that he could find my paintings," Karesia told Dascome that evening.

"Did you like him?"

She hesitated. "I did and I didn't. Yes, I liked him well enough, personally, but I didn't like his detective ways—they made me think of Rus—" She caught herself up. "He was disguised, I suppose it was necessary. Without his side whiskers and spectacles he would look like a horse—his face, I mean. It's a type of face I like and usually it belongs to a strong body. He impressed me as very capable." Evidently the experience had been a trying one. Her severely plain black gown enhanced her paleness and her eyelids drooped more than usual and were darker tinged.

"What did he do that distressed you?" Dascome asked with concern. He was standing beside her and Karesia sat, elbows on the table, her chin supported on her clasped hands.

She glanced up at him. "It was about Mary Bliss. I wouldn't let him talk to her." Her lips quivered. "Men must have been horribly cruel to her at some time. The iceman, a big fellow, came plunging into the screened porch just before Mr. Colt came, and I thought that Mary would die. She ran in here to me, then she stood just shaking and making queer twittering noises like a bird, then fell in a heap on the floor. It was like epilepsy. I was going to call a doctor, but she begged and begged me not to, that she was not ill, only frightened Then she hurried around doing things, trying to show me that she was quite well again. I was afraid to get a doctor—I was afraid it would throw her into another fit. I told Mr. Colt about it when he came, and he agreed not to let her see him, but he insisted that he ought to see her, that it was important. So he hid himself in my room and I brought that poor thing up and set her to doing things where he could have a good view of her. I suppose it was necessary, but it made me feel ill. I lay down afterward, and then she crept in bringing me hot tea and she bathed my head—she was just sweet, so devoted and gentle—like a mother——" Karesia's lips quivered and she looked down. "It made me feel mean——"

Dascome looked down at her bent head; then he put his hand on her shoulder. "You are tired out," he said gently, "and I am to blame for it."

Karesia turned her hot cheek to his hand, a swift impulsive moment, and withdew it as quickly. "It is not your fault at all! Mary Bliss has made my heart ache, that's all." She drew her shoulder from his touch, but not impatiently. "Please look now at this lease and tell me if I have left you any loop-holes for escape?" She laughed somewhat uncertainly. "If I have, I shall never forgive myself. You see, it's the first I have ever drawn." She was angry with herself. Her muscles ached with weariness and her nerves were jumping. Her heartache was worst of all. It had been a fearfully trying day and, as always, when tired and depressed, the past became vivid and the future seemed doubly difficult. She was in a mood to turn her cheek to comfort; she had done it without pausing to consider.

Dascome looked the document over, taking time over it. He had flushed a dull crimson; he kept his eyes on the paper until his color faded. "An expert could not have done better," he said in his usual quiet way.

Without Light Contract.

ATHENS, O., Dec.—The city of Athens is now without a commercial and domestic electric lighting contract, its 10-year contract with the Athens Electric company having expired. It is reported that the Ohio Power company, which is building a transmission line several miles north of here, is desirous of entering Athens.

Enjoy Your Playtime/ GO TO The Gulf Coast

From Cincinnati and Louisville it takes only a day and a night to reach the Gulf Coast and New Orleans over the L. & N. R. R.'s fast through trains. The Pan-American and New Orleans Limited; in daily operation.

Here is a winter playground little more than a day's ride from Northern points. Yet it is as different as the seasons in climate; and like another world in its unusual charms of scenery and historic background. From Pensacola and Mobile to New Orleans, including Pascagoula, Ocean Springs, Biloxi, Mississippi City, Gulfport, Pass Christian and Bay St. Louis, excellent facilities are afforded for rest and for play. There are modern hotels to cater to your convenience indoors; and sporty golf courses, boating on the Gulf, horseback riding, hunting and fishing to provide continual diversion outdoors. A winter vacation on the Gulf Coast is easy to plan and delightful to experience.

The L. & N. serves the Gulf Coast with through daily trains from the North. Winter fares are very moderate. The undersigned will gladly furnish descriptive literature, give you full information about hotels, train schedules, etc., and arrange sleeper reservations.

HEALTH RULES TO BE ENFORCED

Dr. Charles Koenig, county health agent, has announced that regulations covering quarantine of contagious diseases will hereafter be strictly enforced.

His statement was called forth by the recent death of three children in and about Weirton from measules, which, it is claimed, was caused by the failure of parents to call in physicians promptly.

Four cases of smallpox have also been reported from the lower end of the county during the past week and the homes quarantined.

Evangelistic Services.

Rev. J. A. Schrader, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, announced last evening that evangelistic services would be held in the church Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday afternoon. Rev. Joseph H. Smith of Redlands, Cal., is preaching the sermons. The meetings will come to a close Wednesday night.

Xmas Program Given.

Annual Christmas entertainment held last evening in the First Presbyterian church was largely attended. A fine program was rendered by members of the Sunday school. The affair was directed by Mrs. S. D. Carson. The usual treat was distributed to the pupils.

Police Baffled.

LIMA, O. — Police are baffled by the finding of a box of human bones beneath a residence on South Central avenue here. The discovery was made by workmen excavating. They notified the police of their discovery and later the bones were taken to the police station. Searching of the police records failed to reveal any report of a murder in the vicinity of the house where the bones were found.

A railroad 2,000 miles long across the Sahara desert is planned.

Home-made, but Has No Equal for Coughs

Makes a family supply of really dependable cough medicine. Easily prepared, and saves about $2.

If you have a severe cough or chest cold accompanied with soreness, throat tickle, hoarseness, or difficult breathing, or if your child wakes up during the night with croup and you want quick help, try this reliable old home-made cough remedy. Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. This recipe makes a pint of really remarkable cough remedy. It tastes good, and in spite of its low cost, it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

You can feel this take hold of a cough in a way that means business. It loosens and raises the phlegm, stops throat tickle and soothes and heals the irritated membranes that line the throat and bronchial tubes with such promptness, ease and certainty that it is really astonishing.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and is probably the best known means of overcoming severe coughs, throat and chest colds.

There are many worthless imitations of this mixture. To avoid disappointment, ask for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Collection for Orphans.

BARNESVILLE, O. — A penny collection was taken in Belmont county Sunday schools to provide a Christmas tree for the 93 orphans in the Belmont county children's home here. The fact that many letters written by the orphans asked for gifts by specifying their trade names, is said to be due to reading advertisements in newspapers received at the home.

Who's Who In San Carlo Grand Opera Company, Here Jan. 15

Favorites of Past Seasons as Well as New Stars Join Fortune Gallo's Cast of Artists.

Ever alert to find new and greater artists, Fortune Gallo each year recruits the San Carlo Grand Opera company, which comes to the Ceramic theatre on January 15, retaining the favorites of past seasons, and adding to his organization leading stars to strengthen the roster for the coming tour.

The following biographical facts are confined to those introduced to the San Carlo clientele in the last several seasons, as well as several others who have continued in the organization for a few years past, who need no introduction.

Tina Paggi—Coloraturn Soprano: Of Italian birth, Mms. Paggi, after attaining success in her homeland, visited South America, where she became the idol of opera-lovers in this land of music-centers. Last season, Mr. Gallo heard her sing, when she appeared as guest artist with the Chicago Opera company, with the result that she made her debut with his organization at the New York Jolson Theatre this season. Of Mme. Paggi, Metropolitan critics wrote: "This artist received as great an ovation as was ever accorded a singer in this city."

Ludovico Tomarchio, Tenor: Possesses a voice of admirable quality, which he uses to excellent effect both in lyric and dramatic roles. Before coming to America a few seasons ago, Tomarchio had won for himself a high position in the ranks of Italian operatic tenors in many of the leading opera houses of his native country. In all American cities in which he has been heard he has won the hearty commendation from the press and public.

Ada Salori, Mezzo Soprano: Is also one of the new artists introduced by Fortune Gallo this season. From European and South American opera houses, Mme. Salori was brough here mainly for her ability to portray the role of "Maddalena" and other Verdi roles. She will be heard in the important mezzo characters of the San Carlo repertoire this season.

Guiseppe Interrante, leading baritone with this company, has an enviable record, both in this country and abroad. In Covent Garden he was a general favorite, creating several roles while there, and he also is much beloved by Metropolitan Opera company patrons. In France he spent considerable time, singing with the leading opera companies in that country.

Edith de Lys, lyric soprano, returned to America to join the San Carlo company, after a long tour abroad where her name was glorified by the long list of foreign triumphs attained by the young and attractive singer. She sang in nearly all of the capitals of Europe and everywhere her success was sensational. A Bostonian by birth, she began her operatic studies in that city, at the New England Conservatory of Music, where she was awarded two scholarships. Later she sang for Mme. Schumann-Heink, who insisted that she go to Europe. In Paris, Miss de Lys studied with the great Jean de Rezzke, to whom she owes her brilliant career. Her debut was made in Rome, as Elsa, in Lohengrin.

Amund Sjovik: This singer was brought here for the first time this season, from the Scandinavian opera ranks. He has sung principal roles in Norway, Sweden and Denmark opera houses, and is singing the leading basso roles with the San Carlo Opera company.

Giulio Fregosi, one of the most distinguished baritones of the Italian school, after some exceptional successes in his native land, came to America to join the San Carlo organization. This artist's dramatic singing and distinguished appearance have won for him immediate favor. He appears in the roles of Rigoletto to marked advantage regardless of the tremendous changes in makeup required to impersonate the ugly and deformed court pandour. Fregosi also assumes the leading baritone roles in "La Boheme," "I Pagliacci" and "Madame Butterfly."

Giovanni Rosich, tenor, has just arrived from Spain to make his American debut under the San Carlo banner. He comes heralded with many honors won in the land of his birth as well as other European music centers.

Giuseppe Cavadori is another Spanish tenor who claims that country as the seat of his many earlier triumphs. With Giovanni Rosich he shares many of the tenor roles in the operas that are presented by the San Carlo company.

Felice De Gregoric, Baritone: Is a product of La Scala, Milan, where he made a profoundly successful debut before becoming a member of Fortune Gallo's company in this country. The foremost critics of Rome, Naples and Milan, have stamped this artist's work with their most enthusiastic approval.

Yolanda Rinaldi, Soprano, is a graduate of Viennese Opera Schools, and is one of the younger of the San Carlos company. She is heard to advantage in several of the operas presented this year, including "Carmen," "The Tales of Hoffman," "Ta Bohme," etc.

William Giuliani, Baritone: Was born in Palmero, Italy, and made his debut at the Constanzi Theatre, in Rome. He has sung in Porto Rico and Havana, where he has many admirers and gained recognition in the grand opera world at an extremely early age.

Bernice Shalker, Mezzo Soprano: Has made herself quite popular with the San Carlo company this season, being warmly received wherever she appears. Her principal roles are in "Madame Butterfly," in the role of Suzuki; "Martha," "The Barber of Seville" and other operas requiring important mezzo characterizations.

Olga Kargau, American lyric soprano, is this year making her debut with the San Carlo company, receiving unusually enthusiastic praise from both press and public wherever she appears. Her principal roles are Musette in "La Boheme" and Micaela in "Carmen." She is a Chicago girl and received most of her musical education in this country.

Fausto Bozza, Basso: Sang first in Verona, Italy, where he had studied in the Conservatory of Music, appearing in "Norma" and other operas with much success. He later became a favorite in Canadian cities where he appeared in opera for several seasons. With Amund Sjovik, he shares the basso roles in the San Carlo opera this season.

Maetro Aldo Franchetti, Director of the San Carlo Grand Opera company, is making new records for himself during this, the fourteenth annual tour of this organization. Before joining the company several seasons ago he presided at the Dabuerme and La Scala in Milan and is also noted in Germany, Spain and Austria. He has recently returned from a trip around the world.

COSSACKS ARE BLINDED BY LIFE OF YEARS IN HOLDS OF SHIPS

Refugees in Shanghai Are Being Sent Back to Manchuria as Fast as Possible by Relief Committee.

SHANGHAI, China, Dec. —Scores of former Russian Cossacks who, driven out of Siberia as a result of the Red revolution, have maintained themselves for the past two years aboard the Russian volunteer fleet in Shanghai harbor, are now suffering from "chicken blindness" due to having been cooped up in the holds of the ships for long periods of time.

For about nine months 450 of the Cossocks, who had come from the Trans-Baikal and Amur districts, in Siberia, were confined entirely to the ships, because the Chinese government had denied them permission to land. So crowded were the vessels that it was necessary for many of the men to spend almost all of the time in the dark holds. When they were brought ashore recently by the Russian Refugee Relief committee here, most of them could see nothing in daylight.

The men are now being housed in small Chinese dwellings, where conditions are little better; but they have the benefit of medical attention, of which they are desperately in need. Each of them is granted a subsistence allowance of fifteen copper cents daily (about five cents gold). They are also provided with soup, bread and tea once a day.

The Refugee committee is making a strenuous eff ort to get them out of Shanghai as there are not sufficient funds available here.

A party of 125 of them has already been dispatched to Hailar, Manchuria, where, it is hoped, they will be able to find some sort of employment; and is is planned to send other parties as soon as passport arrangements can be made.

ERIN TO CURB USE OF LIQUORS

Drastic Reduction Now Planned in Number of Saloons.

DUBLIN, Dec.—Drastic restrictions on the consumption of liquor in the Irish Free State are accumulating as the government's intoxicating liquor bill progresses through its stages.

Kevin O'Higgins, the Free State Minister of Justice, during the course of debates, foreshadowed a big reduction in the huge number of saloons throughout the country. He told members of the Senate that the general feeling of the country was that 15,000 saloons was a number grossly in excess of reasonable requirements, while members of the licensing trade themselves were of the opinion that the huge number of the saloons produced too keen a struggle for existence.

COSSACKS ARE BLINDED BY LIFE OF YEARS IN HOLDS OF SHIPS

Refugees in Shanghai Are Being Sent Back to Manchuria as Fast as Possible by Relief Committee.

SHANGHAI, China, Dec. —Scores of former Russian Cossacks who, driven out of Siberia as a result of the Red revolution, have maintained themselves for the past two years aboard the Russian volunteer fleet in Shanghai harbor, are now suffering from "chicken blindness" due to having been cooped up in the holds of the ships for long periods of time.

For about nine months 450 of the Cossocks, who had come from the Trans-Baikal and Amur districts, in Siberia, were confined entirely to the ships, because the Chinese government had denied them permission to land. So crowded were the vessels that it was necessary for many of the men to spend almost all of the time in the dark holds. When they were brought ashore recently by the Russian Refugee Relief committee here, most of them could see nothing in daylight.

The men are now being housed in small Chinese dwellings, where conditions are little better; but they have the benefit of medical attention, of which they are desperately in need. Each of them is granted a subsistence allowance of fifteen copper cents daily (about five cents gold). They are also provided with soup, bread and tea once a day.

The Refugee committee is making a strenuous eff ort to get them out of Shanghai as there are not sufficient funds available here.

A party of 125 of them has already been dispatched to Hailar, Manchuria, where, it is hoped, they will be able to find some sort of employment; and is is planned to send other parties as soon as passport arrangements can be made.

ERIN TO CURB USE OF LIQUORS

Drastic Reduction Now Planned in Number of Saloons.

DUBLIN, Dec.—Drastic restrictions on the consumption of liquor in the Irish Free State are accumulating as the government's intoxicating liquor bill progresses through its stages.

Kevin O'Higgins, the Free State Minister of Justice, during the course of debates, foreshadowed a big reduction in the huge number of saloons throughout the country. He told members of the Senate that the general feeling of the country was that 15,000 saloons was a number grossly in excess of reasonable requirements, while members of the licensing trade themselves were of the opinion that the huge number of the saloons produced too keen a struggle for existence.

Among some of the restrictions already adopted is one providing for the closing of all saloons on St. Patrick's Day, so there is a probability that in future the Shamrock will have to be drowned in non-alcoholic beverages.

The government's chief contention for the adoption of the new bill is that it will do away with a great deal of the existing poverty among the working classes.

Runyon Says

It Takes Years to Make an Umpire.
And Most of the Human Virtues.
Evans and Quigley Are One Type.
Bill Klem is Distinctly Another.
You Never Hear of a Crooked Ump.

By DAMON RUNYON.

"I WOULD like to become a baseball umpire," writes a young man, whose name is withheld. "Tell me how to go about it and also please tell me something about umpires."

One goes about becoming a baseball umpire, as the writer understands it, by umpiring.

That is to say, by EXPERIENCE. There is no other method.

The good baseball umpire is the product of years of study of his profession, of active service.

It IS a profession—an honorable, lucrative profession. Good big league umpires are paid as high as $10,000 for seven months' work.

To be a GOOD umpire, one must have an even temper, a fast working brain, a knowledge of human nature, sincerity of purpose.

Few jobs on this old earth require more of a man.

The umpire is judge and jury in cases of the greatest importance to those concerned.

But, unlike the judge and jury of a court of law, the umpire has no opportunity to carefully study his cases, to listen to arguments, to weigh the evidence.

In one second he has to give a decision that may mean the loss to one side of hundreds of thousands of dollars, as in the case of a game on which a pennant or world's series depends.

That is heavy responsibility to put on any man. How many of the readers of this column would care to accept it?

It takes at least five years to make a good big league umpire, regardless of his previous experience in minor leagues.

He may have plenty of ability when he first comes in the big league. But it takes five years for him to establish himself with the baseball fans, to acquire the experience that makes fans and players respect his judgment.

The fans are always inclined to jeer a new umpire, however able he may be. The players try to take advantage of his inexperience. But after a few years the fans acquire a feeling of acquaintanship with him; the players realize that he knows his business.

The older umpires, O'Day, Klem, Evans, Connolly, Rigler, Quigley, Dineen and others have comparatively little trouble nowadays with fans or players.

Some of these, notably Billy Evans and Ernest Quigley, probably make more than $10,000 a year.

Both Evans and Quigley are educated, polished. Neither played professional baseball before becoming umpires. Years ago it was the popular theory that it took a former ball player to make a good umpire.

As a matter of fact, some of the greatest umpires of baseball history never played professionally. Perhaps that was their success. They had no baseball traditions, no baseball prejudices to overcome.

Evans has been called the best umpire in the business. That is perhaps, a matter of opinion. Bill Klem of a rougher type than Evans or Quigley, is a great umpire. The writer isn't sure Klem doesn't rank FIRST.

Evans and Quigley, using them as a type, are suave, diplomatic. They seem to believe a soft answer turneth away wrath. Klem is harsh, autocratic, sometimes domineering.

When Klem yells "ply," you have no doubt who is boss of the game. Evans and Quigley are more unobtrusive, though none the less authoritative. When Klem shrieks, "He's out, you know the man is out.

He roars his decisions rather than pronounces them. He carries on with some bluster. But Klem has rare good judgment in his umpiring. He seldom makes mistakes.

Academy Quintet's Rally In Last Half Produces Victory

Todd, Wyant, Greenspun, Former School Stars of District, are Visitors' Aces; Pusey, McKeever and English Principal Scorers for Boone's Squad.

In a game that was waged along the rapid fire order from start to finish, East Liverpool high school passers were forced to acknowledge the superiority of the Franklin & Marshall preparatory school quint, of Lancaster, Pa., carrying three former school athletes of this district, Saturday night in the high gymnasium. The score was 44 to 34.

The Academy lads found Coach Boone's charges a much stiffer proposition than they encountered at Chester on Friday night, and although they won out by a 10-point margin, their victory was not easily earned, the Blue and White five giving them real basketball.

The locals were on even terms with the visitors during the first half, each squad counting 10 points. In the second period Boone's lads outplayed the proteges of Sam Taylor and the intermission at the half found them leading, 17 to 15.

The Academy lads went out in the third period and practically clinched the contest. A point from the foul line and a field goal by Todd put the visitors in the lead. Out in front the Pennsylvanians played their best basketball of the game and with Todd and Wyant hitting the baskets with the consistency of nickels finding their way into the street car fare box, they piled up a lead that only super-human basketball could have overcome. When time was up at the end of the third period the score stood 34 to 26.

During the first few minutes of the final period English and the diminutive Pusey raised the hopes of local fans when they began to cut into the Academy lead with a succession of two-pointers, but Todd and Wyant came back again and field goals kept the visitors in front of the procession.

The Pennsylvanians, feeling confident of ultimate success, launched a passing game in the closing minutes, waiting for the timer's whistle, and although the locals bosted their score a few points, the visitors did likewise.

Todd enacted the leading role for the F. & M. quintet, finding the baskets for nine double deckers and three fouls besides showing an unusual allotment of class in other departments of the game. Wyant followed Todd in scoring with five field goals and a foul, besides playing good all around basketball. Greenspun and Hulleberg at the guards, performed in first class style.

McKeever and Pusey, playing the forwards for the locals, gave a mighty good account of themselves, playing a sterling brand of basketball despite their size. Pusey collected four field goals, McKeever three and English three.

English played well at center while Liebschner and McConville performed in their usual capable manner at guards.

In the preliminary the high school girls' team won from the reserves by the score of 3 to 8. McElray and Kannall were the stars for the winners. Imbrie was the principal performer for the reserves.

Umps." On the ball field he chanted nearly everything he said, improvising tunes to his words.

Not long ago the writer used Byron as the subject of a bit of verse, bringing in Byron's famous sing-song retort to the ball player who complained when he called a strike on him.

"Can't gitta hit
With the bat on yer shoulder!
Can't gitta hit
With the bat on yer shoulder!

By the way, there's a lot of sound advice in Byron's chant.

Byron was a good umpire in the big league. His fault was in pugnacity. He was always ready for battle, wordy or physical.

Then, too, "Lord Byron couldn't resist the temptation to "kid" the ball players and managers. He got on their nerves.

The ball players and managers like to do any "kidding" that may be done themselves. They can't stand "kidding" in return.

That's true of the "kidder" the world over. The "kidder" enjoys himself when he is directing the laugh at someone. Turn the laugh on him, and HE SEES RED!

Isn't that so?

Groh Will Return To Third in 1925 McGraw Announces

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—In an interview made public today, John McGraw stated that Heine Groh would start the 1925 season at third base for the New York Giants, with Fred Linstrom, juvenile sensation of the last world series sitting on the bench.

"Groh played great ball during the European tour" McGraw declared. "He is ready to take his place with the best of them right now. I have nothing but praise for young Lindstrom but he can view a few more games from the bench without doing him any harm. You must remember that he is less than twenty years old and has lots of time to develop into the great player I confidently expect him to be."

The most picteresque umpire the game has known in recent years was William Byron, who has just been signed to umpire again next season in the Pacific Coast League.

IRISH FACING BIGGEST TEST

Climate and Long Trip Against Eastern Gridders.

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, Dec. 22—It might be well for the many who are pleased to regard Notre Dame as a walk-in against Stanford on New Year's day to recollect that all too few eastern and middlewestern teams have been able to invade Pasadena and bring their best form with them. The climatic change is to abrupt for one thing. The transcontinental journey dulls the fine edge of condition, for another.

In view of this Notre Dame will have an excellent alibi if it loses. Whether it actually will need one is a question. There isn't the slightest guarantee that the so-called Irish are a better team than Stanford in the first place. The horsemen have been rated the leading eleven of the country on their record and not without reason. But the fact remains that the Coast is the only section through which no line of comparison can be drawn. For all anyone knows coast football and therefore the speed of its leading team—may have several steps faster than that of any other section during the late season.

It seems to me that lack of certainty about Standford's exact ability comparisons. Stanford, of course, must undergo something of a climatic change itself but this will be more gradual and less drastic than that featuring ice-bound South-Bend and the Bowers of Pasadena. Yet even Californians have passed the good word along that Notre Dame is a cinch.

The records of the Pasadena classic are all against it. To the Eastern and Middle Western teams, that have visited the Coast Carnival, the following has happened:

Pennsylvania lost to the Oregon Aggies, Brown was beaten by Washington, Ohio State was overwhelmed by California and Washington and Jefferson played a scoreless tie with the Bear.

Harvard alone gained a decision and that by a single point from Oregon in 1920.

This game, by the way, serves as an appropriate comparison of the rigors that sometimes must be undergone by the visiting team. Early snows kept the Harvard team from practicing at all after the regular season and only one workout in doors was attempted before getting on the train. It was five degrees below zero on the day the Harvard team left Boston. It was said to have been 89 degrees above when the game was played in Pasadena. That was asking plenty of a finely conditioned squad of athletes. Coast football has come to be recognized as ranking with any played in other sections and its almost unbroken string of victories in the intersectional classes has served to heighten this impression. The visiting coach, therefore, has two things to beat, to wit: what is certain to be a good football team, and the climate.

CENTRAL LEAGUE, OF EIGHT CLUBS, IS REORGANIZED

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 22—With organization plans complete, members of the new Central baseball league today were enthusiastic over its prospects. The proposed new league backed by prominent sportsmen will open its campaign the first of next season with eight cities represented.

Six cities were represented at the organization meeting here; Wheeling by Dr. G. W. Otto, and Ray Archibald; Youngstown, by Joseph Shoemaker; Erie by Col. Joseph Thompson, and Richard Guy; Altoona by William Crawford; Johnstown, by Harry Mollitor and Canton, Ohio, by Fred Corlius.

Petitions for franchises have also also been received from Dayton, Zanesville, Akron, New Castle, Uniontown, Fort Wayne and Parkersburg, and a committee is to visit each of these cities to sleect two more franchise holders in the league.

William T. McCullough, former secretary of the Pittsburgh Federal League team was elected President and Secretary of the new league, and a board of directors will be chosen in two weeks.

Honus Wagner, famous shortstop of the Pittsburgh Pirates will be sought as manager of the Youngstown team, according to Shoemaker.

As a result of their victory the Presbyterians remained in the three-cornered race for top honors with the M. E. and the M. P. fives. None of the trio has lost a game thus far.

The U. P. five, in its clash with the Baptists led by the score of 11 to 4 at the end of the first half. In the second they continued to increase their margin and when the final whistle tooted left the floor with their first victory of the season. Berg and Dickey were the leading scorers for the U. P's, while G. Mackey, Fugate and Kittridge did most of the work for the Baptists.

There was nothing to it but Presbyterians in this outfit's game with the Penn Avenue quintet. The first half saw the Presbyterians out in front by a margin of 25 to 3. The second half was practically a repetition of the first, the Presbyterians apparently scoring at will although the East Enders put up a much better game than they did in the opening Canto scoring 11 of their 14 points.

In the preliminary the United Presbyterian Juniors won from the Baptist Juniors by the score of 17 to 12. Dickey and Skidmore were the premier point makers for the U. P. lads while Kittridge was the Baptists' ace.

YANKEE FANS PROTEST DEAL

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—Protests by New York fans against the deal, whereby the Yankees regained possession of Urban Shocker, displayed increasing volume today. The consensus was that the Yankees had got the worst of the transaction in sending Joe Bush, pitcher and pinch hitter, and Milton Gaston and Joe Girard, recruit pitchers, to St. Louis for the veteran spitballer. Much of the dissatisfaction is centered around Bush, who not only pitched good ball but hit well while in a Yankee uniform.

Flowers to Meet Lohman.

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—Tiger Flowers' neat appearance in a local ring will be on the afternoon of New Year's day when he will meet Joe Lohman of Toledo, according to an announcement made public today. They will appear in the star bout at the rink arena, Brooklyn. Flowers created a sensation recently when he knocked out John Wilson, former middleweight champion, in the third round.

Runyon Says

It Takes Years to Make an Umpire.
And Most of the Human Virtues.
Evans and Quigley Are One Type.
Bill Klem is Distinctly Another.
You Never Hear of a Crooked Ump.

By DAMON RUNYON.

"I WOULD like to become a baseball umpire," writes a young man, whose name is withheld. "Tell me how to go about it and also please tell me something about umpires."

One goes about becoming a baseball umpire, as the writer understands it, by umpiring.

That is to say, by EXPERIENCE. There is no other method.

The good baseball umpire is the product of years of study of his profession, of active service.

It IS a profession—an honorable, lucrative profession. Good big league umpires are paid as high as $10,000 for seven months' work.

To be a GOOD umpire, one must have an even temper, a fast working brain, a knowledge of human nature, sincerity of purpose.

Few jobs on this old earth require more of a man.

The umpire is judge and jury in cases of the greatest importance to those concerned.

But, unlike the judge and jury of a court of law, the umpire has no opportunity to carefully study his cases, to listen to arguments, to weigh the evidence.

In one second he has to give a decision that may mean the loss to one side of hundreds of thousands of dollars, as in the case of a game on which a pennant or world's series depends.

That is heavy responsibility to put on any man. How many of the readers of this column would care to accept it?

It takes at least five years to make a good big league umpire, regardless of his previous experience in minor leagues.

He may have plenty of ability when he first comes in the big league. But it takes five years for him to establish himself with the baseball fans, to acquire the experience that makes fans and players respect his judgment.

The fans are always inclined to jeer a new umpire, however able he may be. The players try to take advantage of his inexperience. But after a few years the fans acquire a feeling of acquaintanship with him; the players realize that he knows his business.

The older umpires, O'Day, Klem, Evans, Connolly, Rigler, Quigley, Dineen and others have comparatively little trouble nowadays with fans or players.

Some of these, notably Billy Evans and Ernest Quigley, probably make more than $10,000 a year.

Both Evans and Quigley are educated, polished. Neither played professional baseball before becoming umpires. Years ago it was the popular theory that it took a former ball player to make a good umpire.

As a matter of fact, some of the greatest umpires of baseball history never played professionally. Perhaps that was their success. They had no baseball traditions, no baseball prejudices to overcome.

Evans has been called the best umpire in the business. That is perhaps, a matter of opinion. Bill Klem of a rougher type than Evans or Quigley, is a great umpire. The writer isn't sure Klem doesn't rank FIRST.

Evans and Quigley, using them as a type, are suave, diplomatic. They seem to believe a soft answer turneth away wrath. Klem is harsh, autocratic, sometimes domineering.

When Klem yells "ply," you have no doubt who is boss of the game. Evans and Quigley are more unobtrusive, though none the less authoritative. When Klem shrieks, "He's out, you know the man is out.

He roars his decisions rather than pronounces them. He carries on with some bluster. But Klem has rare good judgment in his umpiring. He seldom makes mistakes.

Groh Will Return To Third in 1925 McGraw Announces

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—In an interview made public today, John McGraw stated that Heine Groh would start the 1925 season at third base for the New York Giants, with Fred Linstrom, juvenile sensation of the last world series sitting on the bench.

"Groh played great ball during the European tour" McGraw declared. "He is ready to take his place with the best of them right now. I have nothing but praise for young Lindstrom but he can view a few more games from the bench without doing him any harm. You must remember that he is less than twenty years old and has lots of time to develop into the great player I confidently expect him to be."

The most picteresque umpire the game has known in recent years was William Byron, who has just been signed to umpire again next season in the Pacific Coast League.

This is "Lord" Byron, so nicknamed by the writer years ago because of his pomposity and poetic tendency. Byron was known as "The Singing Umps." On the ball field he chanted nearly everything he said, improvising tunes to his words.

Not long ago the writer used Byron as the subject of a bit of verse, bringing in Byron's famous sing-song retort to the ball player who complained when he called a strike on him.

"Can't gitta hit
With the bat on yer shoulder!
Can't gitta hit
With the bat on yer shoulder!"

By the way, there's a lot of sound advice in Byron's chant.

Byron was a good umpire in the big league. His fault was in pugnacity. He was always ready for battle, wordy or physical.

Then, too, "Lord Byron couldn't resist the temptation to "kid" the ball players and managers. He got on their nerves.

The ball players and managers like to do any "kidding" that may be done themselves. They can't stand "kidding" in return.

That's true of the "kidder" the world over. The "kidder" enjoys himself when he is directing the laugh at someone. Turn the laugh on him, and HE SEES RED!

Isn't that so?

Academy Quintet's Rally In Last Half Produces Victory

Todd, Wyant, Greenspun, Former School Stars of District, are Visitors' Aces; Pusey, McKeever and English Principal Scorers for Boone's Squad.

In a game that was waged along the rapid fire order from start to finish, East Liverpool high school passers were forced to acknowledge the superiority of the Franklin & Marshall preparatory school quint, of Lancaster, Pa., carrying three former school athletes of this district, Saturday night in the high gymnasium. The score was 44 to 34.

The Academy lads found Coach Boone's charges a much stiffer proposition than they encountered at Chester on Friday night, and although they won out by a 10-point margin, their victory was not easily earned, the Blue and White five giving them real basketball.

The locals were on even terms with the visitors during the first half, each squad counting 10 points. In the second period Boone's lads outplayed the proteges of Sam Taylor and the intermission at the half found them leading, 17 to 15.

The Academy lads went out in the third period and practically clinched the contest. A point from the foul line and a field goal by Todd put the visitors in the lead. Out in front the Pennsylvanians played their best basketball of the game and with Todd and Wyant hitting the baskets with the consistency of nickels finding their way into the street car fare box, they piled up a lead that only super-human basketball could have overcome. When time was up at the end of the third period the score stood 34 to 26.

During the first few minutes of the final period English and the diminutive Pusey raised the hopes of local fans when they began to cut into the Academy lead with a succession of two-pointers, but Todd and Wyant came back again and field goals kept the visitors in front of the procession.

The Pennsylvanians, feeling confident of ultimate success, launched a passing game in the closing minutes, waiting for the timer's whistle, and although the locals bosted their score a few points, the visitors did likewise.

Todd enacted the leading role for the F. & M. quintet, finding the baskets for nine double deckers and three fouls besides showing an unusual allotment of class in other departments of the game. Wyant followed Todd in scoring with five field goals and a foul, besides playing good all around basketball. Greenspun and Hulleberg at the guards, performed in first class style.

McKeever and Pusey, playing the forwards for the locals, gave a mighty good account of themselves, playing a sterling brand of basketball despite their size. Pusey collected four field goals, McKeever three and English three.

English played well at center while Liebschner and McConville performed in their usual capable manner at guards.

In the preliminary the high school girls' team won from the reserves by the score of 3 to 8. McElray and Kannall were the stars for the winners. Imbrie was the principal performer for the reserves.

Runyon Says

It Takes Years to Make an Umpire.
And Most of the Human Virtues.
Evans and Quigley Are One Type.
Bill Klem Is Distinctly Another.
You Never Hear of a Crooked Ump.

By DAMON RUNYON.

"I WOULD like to become a baseball umpire," writes a young man, whose name is withheld. "Tell me how to go about it and also please tell me something about umpires."

One goes about becoming a baseball umpire, as the writer understands it, by umpiring.

That is to say, by EXPERIENCE. There is no other method.

The good baseball umpire is the product of years of study of his profession, of active service.

It IS a profession—an honorable, lucrative profession. Good big league umpires are paid as high as $10,000 for seven months' work.

To be a GOOD umpire, one must have an even temper, a fast working brain, a knowledge of human nature, sincerity of purpose.

Few jobs on this old earth require more of a man.

The umpire is judge and jury in cases of the greatest importance to those concerned.

But, unlike the judge and jury of a court of law, the umpire has no opportunity to carefully study his cases, to listen to arguments, to weigh the evidence.

In one second he has to give a decision that may mean the loss to one side of hundreds of thousands of dollars, as in the case of a game on which a pennant or world's series depends.

That is heavy responsibility to put on any man. How many of the readers of this column would care to accept it?

It takes at least five years to make a good big league umpire, regardless of his previous experience in minor leagues.

He may have plenty of ability when he first comes in the big league. But it takes five years for him to establish himself with the baseball fans, to acquire the experience that makes fans and players respect his judgment.

The fans are always inclined to jeer a new umpire, however able he may be. The players try to take advantage of his inexperience. But after a few years the fans acquire a feeling of acquaintanship with him; the players realize that he knows his business.

The older umpires, O'Day, Klem, Evans, Connolly, Rigler, Quigley, Dineen and others have comparatively little trouble nowadays with fans or players.

Some of these, notably Billy Evans and Ernest Quigley, probably make more than $10,000 a year.

Both Evans and Quigley are educated, polished. Neither played professional baseball before becoming umpires. Years ago it was the popular theory that it took a former ball player to make a good umpire.

As a matter of fact, some of the greatest umpires of baseball history never played professionally. Perhaps that was their success. They had no baseball traditions, no baseball prejudices to overcome.

Evans has been called the best umpire in the business. That is perhaps, a matter of opinion. Bill Klem of a rougher type than Evans or Quigley, is a great umpire. The writer isn't sure Klem doesn't rank FIRST.

Evans and Quigley, using them as a type, are suave, diplomatic. They seem to believe a soft answer turneth away wrath. Klem is harsh, autocratic, sometimes domineering.

When Klem yells "ply," you have no doubt who is boss of the game. Evans and Quigley are more unobtrusive, though none the less authoritative. When Klem shrieks, "He's out, you know the man is out.

He roars his decisions rather than pronounces them. He carries on with some bluster. But Klem has rare good judgment in his umpiring. He seldom makes mistakes.

The most picteresque umpire the game has known in recent years was William Byron, who has just been signed to umpire again next season in the Pacific Coast League.

This is "Lord" Byron, so nicknamed by the writer years ago because of his pomposity and poetic tendency. Byron was known as "The Singing Umps." On the ball field he chanted nearly everything he said, improvising tunes to his words.

Not long ago the writer used Byron as the subject of a bit of verse, bringing in Byron's famous sing-song retort to the ball player who complained when he called a strike on him.

"Can't gitta hit
With the bat on yer shoulder!
Can't gitta hit
With the bat on yer shoulder!

By the way, there's a lot of sound advice in Byron's chant.

Byron was a good umpire in the big league. His fault was in pugnacity. He was always ready for battle, wordy or physical.

Then, too, "Lord Byron couldn't resist the temptation to "kid" the ball players and managers. He got on their nerves.

The ball players and managers like to do any "kidding" that may be done themselves. They can't stand "kidding" in return.

That's true of the "kidder" the world over. The "kidder" enjoys himself when he is directing the laugh at someone. Turn the laugh on him, and HE SEES RED!

Isn't that so?

Groh Will Return To Third in 1925 McGraw Announces

NEW YORK, Dec. 22,—In an interview made public today, John McGraw stated that Heine Groh would start the 1925 season at third base for the New York Giants, with Fred Linstrom, juvenile sensation of the last world series sitting on the bench.

"Groh played great ball during the European tour" McGraw declared. "He is ready to take his place with the best of them right now. I have nothing but praise for young Lindstrom but he can view a few more games from the bench without doing him any harm. You must remember that he is less than twenty years old and has lots of time to develop into the great player I confidently expect him to be."

Academy Quintet's Rally In Last Half Produces Victory

Todd, Wyant, Greenspun, Former School Stars of District, are Visitors' Aces; Pusey, McKeever and English Principal Scorers for Boone's Squad.

In a game that was waged along the rapid fire order from start to finish, East Liverpool high school passers were forced to acknowledge the superiority of the Franklin & Marshall preparatory school quint, of Lancaster, Pa., carrying three former school athletes of this district, Saturday night in the high gymnasium. The score was 44 to 34.

The Academy lads found Coach Boone's charges a much stiffer proposition than they encountered at Chester on Friday night, and although they won out by a 10-point margin, their victory was not easily earned, the Blue and White five giving them real basketball.

The locals were on even terms with the visitors during the first half, each squad counting 10 points. In the second period Boone's lads outplayed the proteges of Sam Taylor and the intermission at the half found them leading, 17 to 15.

The Academy lads went out in the third period and practically clinched the contest. A point from the foul line and a field goal by Todd put the visitors in the lead. Out in front the Pennsylvanians played their best basketball of the game and with Todd and Wyant hitting the baskets with the consistency of nickels finding their way into the street car fare box, they piled up a lead that only super-human basketball could have overcome. When time was up at the end of the third period the score stood 34 to 26.

During the first few minutes of the final period English and the diminutive Pusey raised the hopes of local fans when they began to cut into the Academy lead with a succession of two-pointers, but Todd and Wyant came back again and field goals kept the visitors in front of the procession.

The Pennsylvanians, feeling confident of ultimate success, launched a passing game in the closing minutes, waiting for the timer's whistle, and although the locals bosted their score a few points, the visitors did likewise.

Todd enacted the leading role for the F. & M. quintet, finding the baskets for nine double deckers and three fouls besides showing an unusual allotment of class in other departments of the game. Wyant followed Todd in scoring with five field goals and a foul, besides playing good all around basketball. Greenspun and Hulleberg at the guards, performed in first class style.

McKeever and Pusey, playing the forwards for the locals, gave a mighty good account of themselves, playing a sterling brand of basketball despite their size. Pusey collected four field goals, McKeever three and English three.

English played well at center while Liebschner and McConville performed in their usual capable manner at guards.

In the preliminary the high school girls' team won from the reserves by the score of 3 to 8. McElray and Kannall were the stars for the winners. Imbrie was the principal performer for the reserves.

CENTRAL LEAGUE, OF EIGHT CLUBS, IS REORGANIZED

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 22—With organization plans complete, members of the new Central baseball league today were enthusiastic over its prospects. The proposed new league backed by prominent sportsmen will open its campaign the first of next season with eight cities represented.

Six cities were represented at the organization meeting here; Wheeling by Dr. G. W. Otto, and Ray Archibald; Youngstown, by Joseph Shoemaker; Erie by Col. Joseph Thompson, and Richard Guy; Altoona by William Crawford; Johnstown, by Harry Mollitor and Canton, Ohio, by Fred Corlius.

Petitions for franchises have also also been received from Dayton, Zanesville, Akron, New Castle, Uniontown, Fort Wayne and Parkersburg, and a committee is to visit each of these cities to sleect two more franchise holders in the league.

William T. McCullough, former secretary of the Pittsburgh Federal League team was elected President and Secretary of the new league, and a board of directors will be chosen in two weeks.

Honus Wagner, famous shortstop of the Pittsburgh Pirates will be sought as manager of the Youngstown team, according to Shoemaker.

IRISH FACING BIGGEST TEST

Climate and Long Trip Against Eastern Gridders.

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, Dec. 22—It might be well for the many who are pleased to regard Notre Dame as a walk-in against Stanford on New Year's day to recollect that all too few eastern and middlewestern teams have been able to invade Pasadena and bring their best form with them. The climatic change is to abrupt for one thing. The transcontinental journey dulls the fine edge of condition, for another.

In view of this Notre Dame will have an excellent alibi if it loses. Whether it actually will need one is a question. There isn't the slightest guarantee that the so-called Irish are a better team than Stanford in the first place. The horsemen have been rated the leading eleven of the country on their record and not without reason. But the fact remains that the Coast is the only section through which no line of comparison can be drawn. For all anyone knows coast football and therefore the speed of its leading team—may have several steps faster than that of any other section during the late season.

It seems to me that lack of certainty about Standford's exact abaility comparisons. Stanford, of course, must undergo something of a climatic change itself but this will be more gradual and less drastic than that featuring ice-bound South-Bend and the Bowers of Pasadena. Yet even Californians have passed the good word along that Notre Dame is a cinch.

The records of the Pasadena classic are all against it. To the Eastern and Middle Western teams, that have visited the Coast Carnival, the following has happened:

Pennsylvania lost to the Oregon Aggies, Brown was beaten by Washington, Ohio State was overwhelmed by California and Washiagton and Jefferson played a scoreless tie with the Bear.

Harvard alone gained a decision and that by a single point from Oregon in 1920.

This game, by the way, serves as an appropriate comparison of the rigors that sometimes must be undergone by the visiting team. Early snows kept the Harvard team from practicing at all after the regular season and only one workout in doors was attempted before getting on the train. It was five degrees below zero on the day the Harvard team left Boston. It was said to have been 89 degrees above when the game was played in Pasadena. That was asking plenty of a finely conditioned squad of athletes. Coast football has come to be recognized as ranking with any played in other sections and its almost unbroken string of victories in the intersectional classes has served to heighten this impression. The visiting coach, therefore, has two things to beat, to wit: what is certain to be a good football team, and the climate.

Three Unbeaten Teams In Race For League Honors

Presbyterians Remain in Running by Downing Penn. Ave., Five; U. P. Team Cops First Victory, Defeating Baptists.

The First U. P. crew won from the Baptists by the count of 28 to 17 and the Presbyterians defeated the Penna. Ave., M. E. outfit, 46 to 14, in Sunday scrool floor league engagements on Saturday night at the Y. M. C. A.

As a result of their victory the Presbyterians remained in the three-cornered race for top honors with the M. E. and the M. P. fives. None of the trio has lost a game thus far.

The U. P. five, in its clash with the Baptists led by the score of 11 to 4 at the end of the first half. In the second they continued to increase their margin and when the final whistle tooted left the floor with their first victory of the season. Berg and Dickey were the leading scorers for the U. P's, while G. Mackey, Fugate and Kittridge did most of the work for the Baptists.

There was nothing to it but Presbyterians in this outfit's game with the Penn Avenue quintet. The first half saw the Presbyterians out in front by a margin of 25 to 3. The second half was practically a repetition of the first, the Presbyterians apparently scoring at will although the East Enders put up a much better game than they did in the opening Canto scoring 11 of their 14 points.

In the preliminary the United Presbyterian Juniors won from the Baptist Juniors by the score of 17 to 12. Dickey and Skidmore were the premier point makers for the U. P. lads while Kittridge was the Baptists' ace.

YANKEE FANS PROTEST DEAL

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—Protests by New York fans against the deal, whereby the Yankees regained possession of Urban Shocker, displayed increasing volume today. The consensus was that the Yankees had got the worst of the transaction in sending Joe Bush, pitcher and pinch hitter, and Milton Gaston and Joe Girard, recruit pitchers, to St. Louis for the veteran spitballer. Much of the dissatisfaction is centered around Bush, who not only pitched good ball but hit well while in a Yankee uniform.

Flowers to Meet Lohman.

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—Tiger Flowers' neat appearance in a local ring will be on the afternoon of New Year's day when he will meet Joe Lohman of Toledo, according to an announcement made public today. They will appear in the star bout at the rink arena, Brooklyn. Flowers created a sensation recently when he knocked out John Wilson, former middleweight champion, in the third round.

How to Solve Puzzle.

The best way to solve this cross-word puzzle is to run over the list of horizontal and vertical synonyms in search of evident or "easy" words. If horizontal, the word you are looking for must extend crosswise from the number to the first shaded stop on the right; if vertical, it must extend downward from the number to the first shaded stop below. When finished, the words should read equally well crosswise and downward.

Seeks Divorce.

MIDDLEPORT, O. — Mrs. Leah Ray, still under age and therefore a child in the eyes of the law, has instituted divorce proceedings against her husband, Frank Ray. She charges that he is an inmate of the penitentiary, having stolen an automobile. She brought action through a friend.

Joe Vodrey Captain of Tiger Team

PRINCETON, N. J., Dec. 22.—As a result of the unanimous vote of his teammates Joseph K. Vodrey, Park boulevard, East Liverpool, Ohio, has been chosen to captain the Princeton varsity cross country team for the season of 1925. Vodrey is at present a member of the junior class and has been active in cross country and track at Princeton since his matriculation freshman year. In the fall of his first year at Princeton, Vodrey was the star and captain of the yearling cross country team, and the following spring he ran the longer distances on the freshman track team.

Making the varsity in his sophomore year, Vodrey ran consistently well, finishing well up in all his starts. Last spring he made the varsity track squad and kept in good condition for his efforts this fall, which conclusively showed that he was deserving of the honor bestowed upon him. Vodrey, who is the son of W. H. Vodrey of East Liverpool, is a member of Terrace Upperclass club, and in addition to his athletic accomplishments, he adds a notable scholastic record and interest in debating.

William H. Vodrey III, brother of J. K. Vodrey, is also a member of the varsity cross country team and is similarly interested in debating and the maintainance of a high standing of scholarship. He is a member of Cloister Inn Upperclass club. Both men prepared for Princeton at Mercersburg Academy, where the two brothers made the same cross country and track activities.

ST. STEPHENS DROPS OPENER

By the count of 72 to 28 the St. Stephen's five of this city, making its basketball debut of the 1924-15 season, went down to defeat Saturday night at Salem before the Salem Aces.

SPORTSMEN PLAN DRIVE ON PESKY FOX, GAME'S FOE

The pesky fox is getting too fresh, in the opinion of members of the East Liverpool branch of the Columbiana County Fish and Game association, and as a result, he will be the victim of two successive assaults, one on Christmas day and one on New Year's.

J. C. Miller, secretary-treasurer of the local sportsmen's branch, has sounded the call. Now is the time for all good sportsmen to come to the aid of rabbits, quail, pheasants and grouse, he asserts.

The sportsmen are procuring rabbits and also pheasants for restocking after the season closes on January 1, 1925. After considerable discussion at their recent meeting, the sportsmen concluded that it would be best to reduce the number of foxes in this district. They have become entirely too plentiful, it is contended, and consequently are a menace to birds of all kinds, as well as rabbits, quail, grouse and pheasants. While it is not the intention to destroy all foxes, Mr. Miller explains, it is the plan of the sportsmen's branch to kill off some of them or there will be left nothing to hunt next season but foxes.

Sportsmen who are interested in the Christmas and New Year's drives have been asked to call at the office of the Riverside Knob company, foot of Market street, Wednesday evening, and make arrangements to take part in the hunt.

How to Solve Puzzle.

The best way to solve this cross-word puzzle is to run over the list of horizontal and vertical synonyms in search of evident or "easy" words. If horizontal, the word you are looking for must extend crosswise from the number to the first shaded stop on the right; if vertical, it must extend downward from the number to the first shaded stop below. When finished, the words should read equally well crosswise and downward.

Seeks Divorce.

MIDDLEPORT, O. — Mrs. Leah Ray, still under age and therefore a child in the eyes of the law, has instituted divorce proceedings against her husband, Frank Ray. She charges that he is an inmate of the penitentiary, having stolen an automobile. She brought action through a friend.

Joe Vodrey Captain of Tiger Team

PRINCETON, N. J., Dec. 22.—As a result of the unanimous vote of his teammates Joseph K. Vodrey, Park boulevard, East Liverpool, Ohio, has been chosen to captain the Princeton varsity cross country team for the season of 1925. Vodrey is at present a member of the junior class and has been active in cross country and track at Princeton since his matriculation freshman year. In the fall of his first year at Princeton, Vodrey was the star and captain of the yearling cross country team, and the following spring he ran the longer distances on the freshman track team.

Making the varsity in his sophomore year, Vodrey ran consistently well, finishing well up in all his starts. Last spring he made the varsity track squad and kept in good condition for his efforts this fall, which conclusively showed that he was deserving of the honor bestowed upon him. Vodrey, who is the son of W. H. Vodrey of East Liverpool, is a member of Terrace Upperclass club, and in addition to his athletic accomplishments, he adds a notable scholastic record and interest in debating.

William H. Vodrey III, brother of J. K. Vodrey, is also a member of the varsity cross country team and is similarly interested in debating and the maintainance of a high standing of scholarship. He is a member of Cloister Inn Upperclass club. Both men prepared for Princeton at Mercersburg Academy, where the two brothers made the same cross country and track activities.

ST. STEPHENS DROPS OPENER

By the count of 72 to 28 the St. Stephen's five of this city, making its basketball debut of the 1924-25 season, went down to defeat Saturday night at Salem before the Salem Aces.

SPORTSMEN PLAN DRIVE ON PESKY FOX, GAME'S FOE

The pesky fox is getting too fresh, in the opinion of members of the East Liverpool branch of the Columbiana County Fish and Game association, and as a result, he will be the victim of two successive assaults, one on Christmas day and one on New Year's.

J. C. Miller, secretary-treasurer of the local sportsmen's branch, has sounded the call. Now is the time for all good sportsmen to come to the aid of rabbits, quail, pheasants and grouse, he asserts.

The sportsmen are procuring rabbits and also pheasants for restocking after the season closes on January 1, 1925. After considerable discussion at their recent meeting, the sportsmen concluded that it would be best to reduce the number of foxes in this district. They have become entirely too plentiful, it is contended, and consequently are a menace to birds of all kinds, as well as rabbits, quail, grouse and pheasants. While it is not the intention to destroy all foxes, Mr. Miller explains, it is the plan of the sportsmen's branch to kill off some of them or there will be left nothing to hunt next season but foxes.

Sportsmen who are interested in the Christmas and New Year's drives have been asked to call at the office of the Riverside Knob company, foot of Market street, Wednesday evening, and make arrangements to take part in the hunt.

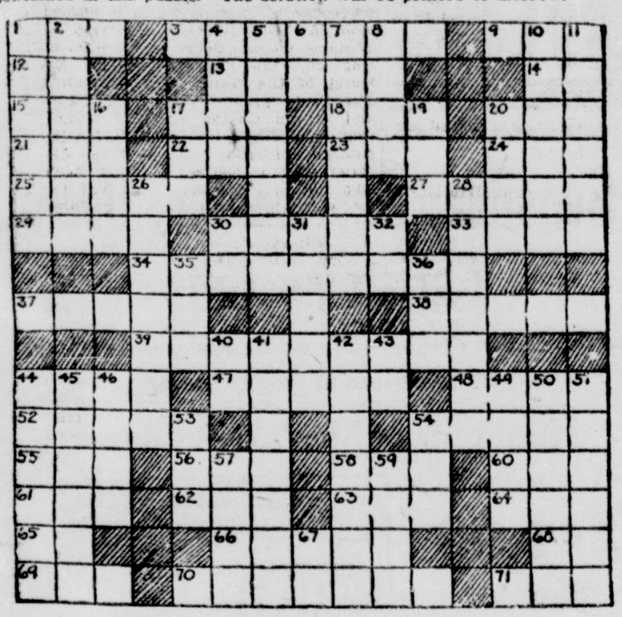
Today's Cross-Word Puzzle

CHRISTMAS WEEK CROSS—Twister No. 55

THIS one is going to produce more cross words than are actually in the puzzle, but if you get some of the longer words first the rest ought to come easy. There are only seven words in this puzzle which are not used in everyday English, so the temptation to solve this one is all the greater.

Below are the definitions—horizontal and vertical—for the words contained in this puzzle. The solution will be printed to-morrow.



HORIZONTAL.

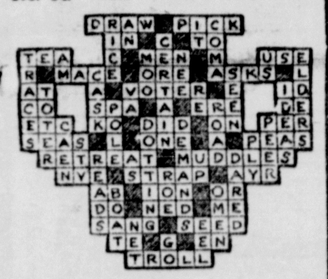
Herewith is solution to puzzle No. 54.



Copyright, 1924, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

How to Solve Puzzle.

The best way to solve this cross-word puzzle is to run over the list of horizontal and vertical synonyms in search of evident or "easy" words. If horizontal, the word you are looking for must extend crosswise from the number to the first shaded stop on the right; if vertical, it must extend downward from the number to the first shaded stop below. When finished, the words should read equally well crosswise and downward.

Seeks Divorce.

MIDDLEPORT, O. — Mrs. Leah Ray, still under age and therefore a child in the eyes of the law, has instituted divorce proceedings against her husband, Frank Ray. She charges that he is an inmate of the penitentiary, having stolen an automobile. She brought action through a friend.

Joe Vodrey Captain of Tiger Team

PRINCETON, N. J., Dec. 22.—As a result of the unanimous vote of his teammates Joseph K. Vodrey, Park boulevard, East Liverpool, Ohio, has been chosen to captain the Princeton varsity cross country team for the season of 1925. Vodrey is at present a member of the junior class and has been active in cross country and track at Princeton since his matriculation freshman year. In the fall of his first year at Princeton, Vodrey was the star and captain of the yearling cross country team, and the following spring he ran the longer distances on the freshman track team.

Making the varsity in his sophomore year, Vodrey ran consistently well, finishing well up in all his starts. Last spring he made the varsity track squad and kept in good condition for his efforts this fall, which conclusively showed that he was deserving of the honor bestowed upon him. Vodrey, who is the son of W. H. Vodrey of East Liverpool, is a member of Terrace Upperclass club, and in addition to his athletic accomplishments, he adds a notable scholastic record and interest in debating.

William H. Vodrey III, brother of J. K. Vodrey, is also a member of the varsity cross country team and is similarly interested in debating and the maintainance of a high standing of scholarship. He is a member of Cloister Inn Upperclass club. Both men prepared for Princeton at Mercersburg Academy, where the two brothers made the same cross country and track activities.

ST. STEPHENS DROPS OPENER

By the count of 72 to 28 the St. Stephen's five of this city, making its basketball debut of the 1924-25 season, went down to defeat Saturday night at Salem before the Salem Aces.

The game, despite the lop-sided score, proved interesting to a large crowd. The Salem passers frequently resorted to distance shooting, with telling effect.

Lineup and summary:

St. Stephens		Salem Aces
Kenney	F	Roudebush
Hancock	F	Morris
Sayre	C	Sanders
Davies	G	Spencer
Dyer	G	Roessler

Substitutions—Pollock for Hancock, Manypenny for Dyer, Mackey for Sayre, Kelly for Morris, Springer for Sanders, Jones for Spencer, Probert for Roessler.

Field goals—Kenney 3, Hancock 2, Mackey 2, Davies, Dyer 2, Roudebush 3, Kelley 5, Morris 7, Sanders, Springer 9, Spencer 5.

Referee, Scullion; timer, Barlow; scorer, Hindley.

SPORTSMEN PLAN DRIVE ON PESKY FOX, GAME'S FOE

The pesky fox is getting too fresh, in the opinion of members of the East Liverpool branch of the Columbiana County Fish and Game association, and as a result, he will be the victim of two successive assaults, one on Christmas day and one on New Year's.

J. C. Miller, secretary-treasurer of the local sportsmen's branch, has sounded the call. Now is the time for all good sportsmen to come to the aid of rabbits, quail, pheasants and grouse, he asserts.

The sportsmen are procuring rabbits and also pheasants for restocking after the season closes on January 1, 1925. After considerable discussion at their recent meeting, the sportsmen concluded that it would be best to reduce the number of foxes in this district. They have become entirely too plentiful, it is contended, and consequently are a menace to birds of all kinds, as well as rabbits, quail, grouse and pheasants. While it is not the intention to destroy all foxes, Mr. Miller explains, it is the plan of the sportsmen's branch to kill off some of them or there will be left nothing to hunt next season but foxes.

Sportsmen who are interested in the Christmas and New Year's drives have been asked to call at the office of the Riverside Knob company, foot of Market street, Wednesday evening, and make arrangements to take part in the hunt.

Get your 1925 automobile license plates before the first of the year if you expect to drive January 1.

This was the warning issued today by Deputy Automobile Registrar James S. Hilbert, who declared that not more than 130 sets of the new series have been issued. Secretary of State Thad H. Brown has announced that 1924 plates will not be valid after December 31.

Both passenger car and truck licenses, beginning with 112-301, have been received. Tags were placed on sale for the first time last Monday.

Free Concerts Given Dresden Unemployed By Musical League

DRESDEN.—To cheer the downtrodden, a series of free symphony concerts has been given to the unemployed of this city by the League for Musical Culture.

The attendance was overwhelming and the interest of the audience keen, especially when the management provided musical experts as speakers, who, previous to each performance, sketched the life of the composer and explained in simple language the undertaking musical ideas of the opus.

Sad Case Unearthed.

ELYRIA, O. — County health authorities, the county humane society, county commissioners and the sheriff's office are probing what they declare to be the worst case of insanitation ever reported in Lorain county. The undertaker who responded in the death of Kate Hoffhines, 78, in Camden township, near Wellington, found the deceased's sister, Lucy Hoffhines, 82, and five others destitute. The seven had been existing on the total of $320 annual blind pensions the women had been receiving. Two elderly men, nephews of the sisters, are to be taken to the Wood county home. A niece and her daughter and sister-in-law also were in the home.

MANY SCHOOL GIRLS HAVE GOITER
Simple Treatment Discovered to Prevent It

Goiter is generally considered more of a disfigurement than anything else, especially in the case of young women. But medical science has found that Goiter or thyroid trouble has a very decided effect upon the physical and mental condition of those afflicted. Health authorities in many states have taken up the fight against Goiter and they are recommending the use of table salt, which contains enough iodine to keep the thyroid in a healthy condition. State health officials have given their endorsement to MULKEY'S IODINE SALT and urge its use in every family. Grocers have been supplied, and it is now possible for parents to safeguard their children against Goiter without any expense or trouble.

For Cooking and Table Use

MULKEY'S IODINE SALT in taste, color and seasoning quality is just like any other high grade free running salt. Use it every day for cooking and on the table. Your grocer will supply you. Tell him you want MULKEY'S, the original IODINE SALT distributed through the grocery trade for Goiter prevention.

CHURCH BUILDING TO BE DISCUSSED

Members of the building committee of the Pennsylvania Avenue Church of Christ will meet at 8 o'clock this evening in the church parlors. Plans will be discussed for the erection of a new two-story edifice to seat 500 persons with an additional number of Sunday school rooms.

The committee is composed of Rev. A. J. Travis, Ralph Smith, H. E. Stoddard, John Pearson, Walter Bennett, T. M. Fullerton and Thomas Lampo.

CHURCHES TO GIVE YULE PROGRAMS

Sunday school pupils will take the principal parts in the programs which have been arranged by the teachers.

Exercises will be held Wednesday evening at the Pennsylvania Avenue Church of Christ, while the program will be given Sunday evening at the Second United Presbyterian church.

Must Have New Plates.

Automobile owners across the state line in Pennsylvania have been notified that new license plates must be displayed on all cars and trucks beginning January 1. No time extension will be granted this year, according to word sent out from the state highway department at Harrisburg.

For Sale—The household goods of Mrs. Lillie M. Supplee, at the family residence, 1364 Penn. Ave., East End, Saturday, Dec. 27th and Monday, Dec. 29th.

Mrs. W. J. Grimes Ill.

Mrs. James Liston of Akron has been called here by the illness of her sister, Mrs. W. J. Grimes, Mulberry street, who is confined to her home as a result of a stroke.

When a tumor's malignant,
'Tis sad to relate,
If you wait 'til it's painful,
You've waited too late.

Get 1925 Auto Tag if You Expect To Motor Jan. 1

Get your 1925 automobile license plates before the first of the year if you expect to drive January 1.

This was the warning issued today by Deputy Automobile Registrar James S. Hilbert, who declared that not more than 130 sets of the new series have been issued. Secretary of State Thad H. Brown has announced that 1924 plates will not be valid after December 31.

Both passenger car and truck licenses, beginning with 112-301, have been received. Tags were placed on sale for the first time last Monday.

Free Concerts Given Dresden Unemployed By Musical League

DRESDEN.—To cheer the downtrodden, a series of free symphony concerts has been given to the unemployed of this city by the League for Musical Culture.

The attendance was overwhelming and the interest of the audience keen, especially when the management provided musical experts as speakers, who, previous to each performance, sketched the life of the composer and explained in simple language the undertaking musical ideas of the opus.

Sad Case Unearthed.

ELYRIA, O. — County health authorities, the county humane society, county commissioners and the sheriff's office are probing what they declare to be the worst case of insanitation ever reported in Lorain county. The undertaker who responded in the death of Kate Hoffhines, 78, in Camden township, near Wellington, found the deceased's sister, Lucy Hoffhines, 82, and five others destitute. The seven had been existing on the total of $320 annual blind pensions the women had been receiving. Two elderly men, nephews of the sisters, are to be taken to the Wood county home. A niece and her daughter and sister-in-law also were in the home.

England has an ice-skating craze.

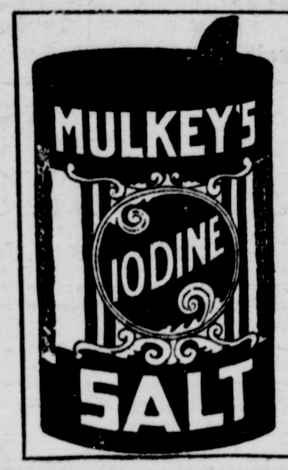
Simple Treatment Discovered to Prevent It

Goiter is generally considered more of a disfigurement than anything else, especially in the case of young women. But medical science has found that Goiter or thyroid trouble has a very decided effect upon the physical and mental condition of those afflicted. Health authorities in many states have taken up the fight against Goiter and they are recommending the use of table salt, which contains enough iodine to keep the thyroid in a healthy condition. State health officials have given their endorsement to MULKEY'S IODINE SALT and urge its use in every family. Grocers have been supplied, and it is now possible for parents to safeguard their children against Goiter without any expense or trouble.



For Cooking and Table Use

MULKEY'S IODINE SALT in taste, color and seasoning quality is just like any other high grade free running salt. Use it every day for cooking and on the table. Your grocer will supply you. Tell him you want MULKEY'S, the original IODINE SALT distributed through the grocery trade for Goiter prevention.
